

*Business of the HouseBUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

industry. He wanted to be a farmer and Canada indeed needed him in agriculture.

Now this situation was brought to the attention of the former government, but nothing was done about it. Solutions to these problems are going to take time, I know, but I am very happy to see that a full review of the agricultural problems and the tight money situation is now in progress with a view to solving them as quickly and fairly as possible in order to give the farmer his fair share of the national revenue.

There are many aspects relating to agriculture with which I hope to be able to deal as they come before the house, but I see time is getting short this evening. I would like to say that, come July 1, 1967, I sincerely hope through the efforts of this government that this great country of ours will be in the enviable position of being justifiably proud of the fact that all our citizens will have available to them, not only a high standard of living which will include social security, hospital and medical services, a housing program, which will allow the people the benefits of the housing to which they are entitled and of which the people of Canada can be proud, but also an employment situation which will provide full-scale employment for every employable person in our dominion.

May I call it ten o'clock.

Mr. Chevrier: May I ask the house leader what is the business for tomorrow?

Mr. Green: Tomorrow we shall have a supply motion and then the resolution which is No. 147 on today's order paper with respect to a measure to establish a system of guaranteed prices for certain agricultural commodities, followed by the amendments to the Excise Tax Act and the Income Tax Act. When we get through with those, we will take the bill which is No. 136 on today's order paper dealing with the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act and then the resolution on Beechwood.

Mr. Chevrier: I commend the leader for his optimism. Is he in a position to say what will take place on Wednesday?

Mr. Green: I think we will be continuing in that order on Wednesday.

Mr. Chevrier: May I ask an additional question, Mr. Speaker. In view of the remarks made by the hon. member for Portneuf (Mr. Gauthier) can the leader give us assurance that we will not sit on the day before and the day after New Year's?

Mr. Green: I cannot give any such assurance, Mr. Speaker.

At ten o'clock the house adjourned, without question put, pursuant to standing order.