There was no country in the world in which Sunday was better observed than in Canada. Therefore, there was no need for legislation to make them

Christian by law. It was taking away the personal liberty of the people to have their enjoyment interfered with Mr. Bourassa characterized the bill as surd bit of legislation ever introduced.

Bill Defended by Premier.

Laurier rose, and, with some vehemence, defended the bill as in accord with the principles recognized by all Christian countries, and necessary for the protection of the working classes.

ed out that 24 hours' exemption from labor did not imply that the servant was exempt from supervision during that period. Sir Wilfrid also said he could not see the force or logic of Mr.

Bourassa's argument. However, he thought the clause regarding parks and amusements should be modified, as he failed to distinguish a difference between a free public park and a park to which admission was charged. Those who enjoyed cricket or other games for their own amusement would still be

Mr. Piche argued that the legislation was a matter for the Provincial Legislatures. He was quite willing that workmen should have 24 hours rest in a week, but wanted that decided by the proper authorities. He moved that Provincial legislation on

HOUSE TO ADHERE

BRICK HOUSE-HALF ACRE, FRONTeffectively pronounce.

It was a matter from every standpoint, therefore, in regard to which, in the general interests of the country, it was a necessity that there should be a spirit of compromise and concession. It was impossible that anyone deeply interested in the measure should have to the full extent his wish carried into legislation. On the one hand, business interests might be paralyzed if one extreme carried, while if business interests alone were considered it would the most antiquated, immoral and abmeans offense to another branch of the community, who advocated their views honestly, conscientiously, and in the fear of God, and would entirely destroy they were not now prohibited by Provincial legislation. He went on to say that throughout the Dominion, except perhaps in a portion of Quebec, there had been agitation of a very pronounced kind for legislation in regard to the Lord's Day. The subject was necessarily one of very great difficulty. Business interests were in conflict with the convictions of other and wellmeaning citizens of Canada. It was a matter in respect to which there was unquestionably a general demand for legislation. It was a matter in respect to which the Parliament of Canada was the only tribunal which could
