MISTAKEN FOR A BURGLAR. Brockville, Ont., March 23.-A terrible affair occurred about twelve miles from here Monday night. J. M. Scribner being shot and instantly killed by William Pear. It appears that Scribner about 11 o'clock tried to awaken the Pear family by kicking the front door of their residence. Pear called and demanded that he should give his name, but Scribner being deaf did not hear. Pear then told him he would shoot if he did not say who he was. Getting no response and thinking him a burglar, he fired, killing him instantly. Scribner and Pear were the Sons of England To the Brethren in the City-Good

Words for Ex-Ald. Parnell, the Supreme Grand President-Addresses by Many Visiting Brethren.

The executive officers of the supreme grand council of the Sons of England paid the London brethren an official visit last night, when a banquet was tendered the guests, at which about 250 took part, and spent a most enjoyable evening. The grand lodge officers present were: Supreme Grand Past President Barlow Cumberland, Toronto; ex-Ald. Parnell, supreme grand president; Dr. Hodgett, supreme grand vice-president, together with Mr. Joseph Gibson, postmaster at Ingersoll. These and many others delivered interesting addresses. dresses. The proceedings were enlivened with vocal and instrumental selections by London's musical trio, Corbin brothers and Williamson, and Mr. Richard Madge. One of the features of the evening was the presentation of a past master's jewel to Mr. Brown, the esteemed P. M. of Somerset Lodge, Toronto, who has lately removed to

The decorations were elegant and profuse. The corridors leading to the banquet hall were brightened with streamers and flags. Inside the hall streamers hung from the ceiling, while flags, emblematic of many nations, and pictures of the royal family, decorated

The dinner was of a most substantial nature, and spoke volumes for Mr. John Friend, the caterer. The tables were artistically arranged and laden with a bountiful supply of seasonable delica-

At the center of the head table sat Mr. E. T. Essery, the chairman. On his right was Mr. Barlow Cumberland, chairman. On S.G.P.P., and on his left ex-Ald. Parnell, S.G.P., and Dr. Hodgett, S.G.V.P., of Toronto. When the feast was at an end the tables were cleared and speeches, toasts and songs were in order. The following gentlemen were seated on the platform, besides those already mentioned: Col.-Sergt. Cooper, Mr. Brett (Woodstock), R. A. Jones, past president of St. George's Society; Mr. John Callard and ex-Ald. Coo.

The chairman, Mr. E. T. Essery, made a brief address, in which he spoke of the excellence of Canada, the fairest gem of the British Empire, and the valor of all Britons. Speaking of the countries' dimensions, he said: "You could take England and throw it into Lake Erie, and it would sink out of sight, and John Bull, his foxes and his hounds, would never be heard of more.
You might take Scotland and put it into the next lake, and the bagpiper who piped in India would have to find some other place to make his music. You might take Old Ireland and throw her into the next lake and she would sink out of sight; all the Kilkenny cats would loose their tails and there would be no more wakes in Tipperary." eulogized the grand lodge officers, and closed with a tribute to Englishmen in

Supreme Grand Past President Barlow Cumberland was the next speaker. He was given a hearty reception, and presented with a handsome bouquet of roses and a volume of "Illustrated London." In conveying his thanks he referred to his early days in London on the G. W. R., under Superintendent M. D. Woodward. During the past year he said he had made some 36 official visits, one of which was in the Ottawa River district, where on one side the people spoke English, and on the other they spoke French; but, nevertheless, he found there, even among the French, the same patriotism so characteristic of every Englishman. He spoke of the advancement made by the society in St. Johns, Nfld., and Vancouver, B. C. When Mr. Cumberland referred to the increased capitation taxes, he said he objected to the term "tax," as that to an Englishman was something ground In London Life, Containout of him by force. Capitation money had been increased a little for the benefit of the whole order, and the taxes were only the dues which one brother owed to all the brethren. Supreme Grand President Edward Parnell was introduced by Mr. Essery in a neat speech. Mr. Parnell, on rising, was greeted with a hearty round of applause. He said he felt proud of the position he held, but he fully realized the efforts he would necessarily have to put forth to fill the exalted place as ably as Bro. Barlow Cumberland had business, but he considered public office a public trust, and he would endeavor to fill the position with satisfaction, as he endeavored to fill the public office intrusted to him, even if he had to spend the whole of his time at it. (Applause.) During his time in public office he had had the pleaure of working with the best men in the city, and during his term in the grand lodge he had been fortunate enough to have such men as Barlow Cumberland, whose name was now known all over Canada and England as the prime mover of the Sons of England jubilee celebration, as a helpmate. The Sons of England as a benefit society was without a peer. He closed by thanking his hearers, and requesting the same hearty support that had been accorded president, said Toronto congratulated done once it will do again.

Aikman, counsel for prisoner, asked Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Ingersoll, in speaking to the toast of "Our Guests," made a humorous address. He took up Mr. Essery's remarks about the size of old England, and said: "Yes, you might put it in one of our lakes. but there would be an awful lively time in that lake. Why, the very roses would make the waters fragrant."
(Laughter.) England was small so far as area was concerned, but it was the grand center of the most powerful civilizing nation of the world. The flag that floated over 400,000,000 people gave equal privileges and freedom to all men irrespective of color, race or creed. Speaking of the American press, he was glad to note a great change. Men who thought it their duty to belittle everything that Britain did were now becoming alive to the noble stand she was taking on every question, opening up the ports of China to the commerce of the world—and in fact was never done fighting the battles of the world. The formers cavilers were now becoming allied by cords of affection to the nation that gave them Official Visit of the Executive of

Coo, said: "Mr. Coo is not the biggest man in London, although one of the best looking, and when you know that his father was the drummer at Ridgeway, you will know the reason why he can make a noise." Mr. Coo, replying to the toast of "The Visitors," told funny stories of the trials and tribulations of aldermanic life. He referred to the eloquent speakers who had preceded him, and in closing spoke of the situation

A good idea is to keep some Pearline in a sifter, ready to use for floor-washing, dish-washing, etc., etc. You sprinkle a little over the floor, for instance, and then just wash it over with a wet cloth. See how much more convenient to use than soap, to say nothing of the easier work!

If you're buying and using Pearline simply for washing clothes, and not for all kinds of washing and cleaning, you're cheating yourself out of a great deal of comfort and economy.
