MOVING COLLEGIATE PUPILS TO "TECH" DOUBTFUL SOLUTION

Board May Have To Concoct Another Scheme.

COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER

There Is Danger That Government Grant Might Be Reduced.

Plans for relieving the congestion at the high school will be discussed at a committee meeting this week in preparation for a meeting of the board of education next Tuesday. There has been announced for tomorrow afternoon at some talk of transferring a number of the pupils to the new technical school, but it is doubtful whether the the high school will be discussed at a board has power to do this, and it is more likely that further class rooms will be opened in the present collegiate building and the former commercial

School.

The technical school is proving a perplexing problem to the trustees. Many citizens are inquiring why this well-equipped building cannot be used to relieve the collegiate congestion, and some members of the board were confident that it could be used to this end. Others say not.

Might Reduce Grant.

The Government gives larger grants

If the Technical School is used as a collegiate, will the Government continue to give it a technical school grant?

Many members of the board think not, unless technical school and high school courses are combined. The work in that event is then too heavy for the average pupil, one or the other course being quite sufficient for most. Except in the cases of pupils who desire to attend the Technical school there therefore seems little chance for the board to relieve the collegiate congestion, as it cannot, it is claimed, move the pupils without their consent.
