The Asylum Mystery.

If was reported to-day that the screws which were taken from Moir's window in the asylum. a saw, string and chisels were found in Taggart's cell. This discovery was not made until after the two had made their escape. It was thought until this discovery was made that Taggart's friends were the people who gave outside assistance to the pair. It now seems indisputable that Moir was the brains of the whole affair, and that after he himself was suspected and denied the privilege of receiving letters he took Taggart into his confidence and worked with him. It is stated that it was generally known around the asylum that Moir was receiving instruments with which to free himself.

To-day the police got a photograph of Taggart taken five years ago at the asylum, when he underwent an operation to have a large tumor removed from the left side of his neck reaching to his waist. He retains a long scar which will make it an easy matter to identify him. The disfigurement of one of Moir's ears should also make the matter of his identity comparatively easy.

The Davenport Albions.

The Davenport Albions were the victors in their game with Port Credit team on Saturday at the Pines grounds. The game was fast and exciting, and was witnessed by a large crowd, including a whole bunch of supporters from West Toronto. Right from the first the Albions settled down to play, and were going some, with the result of one goal for 12 minutes play. R. Roberts, outside right, got a long shot, which landed the ball in the Credit's nets. The second half was interesting and looked like a goal for the Credits, one of their forwards running the ball up close to goal, but it was eleverly saved by E. Enfield. The game had to be called off fifteen minutes earlier on account of the Ontario championship game being played, but five minutes before time A. Nimmo secured another goal from a corner kick by Roberts, the Davenports winning the game by two clear goals to nothing. Club practice Tuesday and Thursday nights. Meeting to-night at 8 o'clock. Members and supporters are requested to be present.
