USUAL BUSINESS

ON TORONTO MART No Local Buying Enthusiasm, but Wall Street Aids in Holiday Prices

About the usual amount of transactions occurred in local stocks yesterday without any change really worth while mentioning. The To-ronto market had the advantage of a steady, if not a buoyant, Wall street. The buying here lacked enthusiasm but not initiative. This market would welcome more speculation, but it does not materialize, as prices in the main are accepted as high and that there is no scope open for an extended movement. The only speculative push is in Steel of Canada and Steamships. of which are being operated from Montreal. Each of these issues is highly speculative, and a swing of several points up and down can be done at the dictation of the pools with

MINING WAR TAX

NOT UNDUE BURDEN Act Shows Appreciation of Importance of Mining

The Business Profits War Tax Act, 1916 (6 and 7 Geo. 5, c. 11), does not impose any undue burden on the mining linger Consolidated is instructive. This amount of the tax. ompany made from mining operations the federal, provincial and municipal cent., was levied c taxes, as shown in the sixth annual about £38,000,000. eport to the shareholders, were only $144,063. This is in the neighborhood clining gold production, the government has refused to impose any special ment has refused to impose any special ressly provides that the minister of of the war.

"when determining the profits finance derived from mining shall make an allowance for the exhaustion of the mines." This is a clear recognition of the principle that mines are entitled duration of the war. to much higher profits than banks, or any other business deriving profits from the use of capital. Any properly managed business does not impair its capital, but the real capital of a mine its ore reserves. These are being diminished as long as the mine is worked. There must, therefore, be entire redemption of capital before the mine is exhausted, and there must Combined Receipts of Live Stock for also be a fair rate of interest during the whole period of operation. the whole period of operation. The act very properly contains provisions intended to secure a fair and honest compliance with its terms.

Unwarranted increases in salaries to 548 officials merely for the purpose of 5268 diminishing profits will not be tolerated, and the minister of finance has a voice in regard to the amounts to be written off for depreciation of plant. But there is nothing inquisitorial in week the act so far as mines are concerned. If the work is carried on according to the sound business principles obtain-ing in the ante-bellum period there will be no interference, or even enquiry, by the minister. The gist of the 696 matter is simply that the minister has words these special provisions of the act are only for the purpose of preventing palpable evasions.

The act shows an appreciation of the importance of the mining industry, and an intention on the part of the authorities to foster and encourage it by every means in their power, and it must be confessed that the federal and provincial governments have been very enterprising, and very liberal in providing railways and other means of transportation, so vital to the mining and agricultural development of this great country. The war tax when first mooted caused considerable apprehension among mining men. But now that we have become familiar with the working of the act it is seen that it is not onerous or in any way likely to affect the development of our mines. Files—
