The blood came to his cheeks at last under Lady Erling's steady stare, and he glanced at her sternly.

"Why are you frowning?" she asked, in low, incisive tones. "Are you annoyed with me because I am glad to see you—because I have missed you?"

She leaned forward. She was as close to Jack that their knees touched, and she had grown very pale under her rouge.

"Why didn't you come and see me the hour you arrived in town?" she went on. "Shall I tell you how fond I am of you, Jack?"

She lowered her eyes with a pretence of modesty. Her breast was heaving passionately under the soft loose folds of her tea-gown, her hands were cold and trembling.

"Oh! hush, Lady Erling," muttered the young man. "Don't talk such nonsense to me! What am I to you or you to me that you should talk like this?"

He tried to carry off the situation with a high hand, but he earnestly regretted now having come to Erling's street.

"Jack, don't you realize that I love you?"

She lowered her voice to a deep passionate whisper, and he could feel her hot breath sweeping across his cheek, but for all Lady Erling's vivid beauty she only aroused a sense of disgust in him—almost of repulsion.

"Love?" he exclaimed scornfully. "I doubt if you know the real meaning of the word."

He checked himself hurriedly. He must not say all that he wanted to. He must remember the respect due to a woman—even to a woman who had voluntarily put herself into a humiliating position.

"Forgive me for speaking so roughly," he went on, "but you ought to remember, Lady Erling, that I am not a man to talk of love between you and me."

"And why not?" she asked, fixing him with her large dark eyes.

"I don't know each other for years! Are you not my brother's greatest friend? And I am a rich woman now, Jack."

She rose to her feet as she spoke and stood directly in front of him, extending her white, beautiful arms, from which the long sleeves fell back.

"Many men have loved me—loved me wildly—madly," she said. "Why should you turn from me—you, the one man being I cared for? Am I so unattractive?" She paused and smiled.

"No," he answered, slowly. "You are a beautiful woman—yes, very beautiful—but all the same I do not love you, Lady Erling, nor ever shall."

"That is because of Patience," she returned temperately. "You would have loved me well enough if it had not been for that wretched schoolgirl, with her large blue eyes and ampering pretence of innocence. Yes, Patience stole you from me."

Lady Erling continued with gathering rage. "And how I hate her for it—how I hate her!"

"I wonder you're not afraid to mention Patience's name," returned Jack, sternly, "after the false accusation you made against her with regard to the Blue Diamond. Oh!" he exclaimed with a gathering heat, "do you think I could ever love a woman who made so vile a plot to ruin an innocent girl?"

"An innocent girl!" she repeated his words scornfully, then laughed slowly and maliciously. "Why do you speak of a plot?" she asked. "Patience herself admitted being a thief."

STOMACH TROUBLES

To wrong action of the stomach and impaired digestion a host of diseases owe their origin.

When the food is imperfectly digested the fullness is not derived from it by the body, and then stomach troubles start to appear.

Thus you become thin, weak, nervous and debilitated, energy is lacking, brightness, snap and vigor are lost and in their place come dullness, dizziness, loss of appetite, depression and languor. The great point is to get the stomach back into good shape again so it can properly digest the food, and the easiest, quickest and best way to do it is by the use of

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Miss Lizzie Purletto, Jaquet River, N. B., writes: "I was very much troubled with my stomach and did not know what to do. I consulted several doctors, got medicine from them, but all to no purpose, and was constantly growing worse. One day I had the good luck to meet with a friend who had been troubled in the same way as myself. My friend told me of the wonderful cure Burdock Blood Bitters had made with her and advised me to try a bottle. I did so, and what a happy change the first bottle made. I took two more and am completely cured, and I shall ever sing the praises of B.B.B."

Price $1.00 per bottle or 6 bottles for $5.00.

Daily Fashion Hint for Times Readers.

THE SILK BLOUSE IS MODISH.

The lingerie blouse does not carry all before it this season as it has in previous years. Soft silks and satins are used extensively in dressy blouses made very much on the style of the lingerie blouse. These are very often called silk lingerie blouses. Fine laces are inserted, motifs are applied, tucks are run in blouse and sleeves and fine embroidery runs not over the front and in the cuffs and collar.

A very pale yellow Louise is used in the pictured model in combination with butter colored laces, and the blouse front, collar and cuffs are embroidered in daisy design with silk floss of a matching shade. The long shoulder effect is attained by the use of the wide lace insertion, and the sleeves are shirred on the upper arm making a double puff. It will be noted that the sleeves are almost full length.

CABRERA SAID TO BE DYING
Sensational News by Way of Mexico City From Guatemala

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—President Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala, is dying. This startling statement was made last night by Jose D. Gomez, who is in this city as the confidential agent of President Zelaya, of Nicaragua. Mr. Gomez claims to have received information from a trustworthy source to the effect that President Cabrera is suffering from blood poisoning which followed the extraction of a tooth. According to Mr. Gomez, President Cabrera has not left the executive mansion for eight days.

This report was further corroborated by a Spanish planter, who recently arrived from Guatemala. He declared that Cabrera's illness in a measure accounts for some of the recent atrocities alleged for some of the men committed by him. This man says that those who know, believe that Cabrera, realizing his condition, is recklessly wreaking vengeance upon his enemies.

Nothing is known in official circles of Cabrera's reported illness.

AMENDED B. N. A. ACT
PASSES SECOND READING

Montreal, June 21.—A cable from London says that the British North America Act as amended, passed its second reading today. Winston Churchill and Hamar Greenwood, in supporting it, pointed out that the government could not interfere between British Columbia and the dominion, the way was still open for any province to make better terms if possible.

The words "final and unalterable" were omitted because it was impossible to bind the sovereign parliament.

Mr. Greenwood indicated with pride, as a Canadian, the dignified and quiet way the Canadian prime ministers, including Mr. McBride, brought the matter to the attention of the colonial office. Mr. Greenwood said this bill must pass by July 1, and said the government intended it to pass.

The Carleton barbers have decided to call in line with the North End men and increase the price of hair cutting to twenty-five cents, the new rate to come into effect July 1. At a meeting held in the Carleton city hall yesterday afternoon, the following West End barbers agreed on the twenty-five cent rate: J. R. Cameron, C. Nichols, F. Leslie, H. Lingley and H. Thomas. The charge in Carleton has always been fifteen cents.
