WHITE QUEEN OF CHINA TAKEN

9 American Women Found With Chinese Husbands in Den.

New York, April 4.—In an opium raid in the heart of Chinatown which resulted in the arrest of a restaurant proprietor, Chom Chu, and Mrs. Babe Chu, his wife, a strikingly young woman, the police believe they have captured members of an inner ring of drug merchants that have been operating on a large scale for a long time. More than $6,000 worth of opium and pipes were taken from cunningly devised hiding places under the floor boards.

In the house where the raid took place were nine other American women living with Chinese husbands.

When arraigned before Magistrate McAndrews in the Tombs court, the men and women presented a picture that was startling by its contrasts. Chu wore a faded gray sweater, slippers and an ill-fitting pair of old trousers. Mrs. Chu was clad in a stylishly tailored gown, an ermine coat and a stole of the same fur.

The house, which is in Pell street, has been under surveillance for weeks. Attention was first attracted to it by the number of private automobiles and taxicabs in the neighborhood whose passengers all went to that particular address.

Inside the apartment, which was luxuriously fitted out, the police found no signs of a traffic in narcotics. They did find an exceptional number of furs of all sorts—coats, muffs and neckpieces, all of which Mrs. Chu said belonged to her. There was in addition to the ermine coat, a coat of what the police described as baby skin and a handsome three-quarter length leopard coat.

There were bunks in the corner, and the police found a large number of pipes. The police then tore up the whole carpet and searched recesses under the floor. They found $4,000 worth of opium in these toys, $1,500 worth in large packages, and nearly $1,000 worth of pipes.

Mrs. Chu, who appeared to be as well educated as she was garbed, said that she and Chu had been married about seven years. She came from the west from well-to-do parents, she said, and had met Chu in the home of an American woman missionary who was married to a Chinese. They fell in love and were married, she said. She was then seventeen years old.

The police say that Mrs. Chu is known as the Queen of Chinatown. She speaks Chinese fluently, and according to her husband's countrymen whenever they get into altercations with Americans, her word is law in the neighborhood, it is said.

IN WALL STREET.

New York, April 4.—Trading at the opening of today's stock market gave promise of another very active and strong session. New high records for the year were made by prominent stocks, motors and equipment. Studebaker yesterday's outstanding feature, made an initial gain of one and a half points, and Pierce Arrow common and preferred were better by one half to one point. Vanadium led the independent steels, rising two points. Mexican and California issues continued to move in oil division with Houston and Royal Dutch. American Sugar, Beet Sugar, American Ice, American Tobacco, and American Writing Paper preferred, advanced the other strong shares. Rails as a group were dull at nominal changes.

New York, April 4.—(noon)—Dealings during the morning were in excess of 600,000 shares, the largest total for the first two hours in several years. Selling for profits caused reactions of 1 to 2 points in Studebaker, Vanadium, Gulf States Steel, Famous Players, American Car and Canadian Pacific. United States Steel reacted almost one point from its new high of 98-1/8. Shipings were strong, however, and buying of oils assumed broader proportions. Davison Chemical led the specialties, rising 3-1/4 points. Rails were the only important group in which speculative interest seemed lacking. Call money opened at 4-1/2 per cent. Liberty first 4-1/4's made a rapid rise of 11-1/2 points, touching 100.

DOUBLE STRUGGLE ON IN LAWRENCE

Mills and Operatives at Odds; Strikers Divided Between Conservative and O. B. U. Control.

Lawrence, Mass., April 4.—This city today was the scene of a double struggle between cotton and worsted mills and their striking operatives over a wage cut, but of a contest between Conservative and Radical labor unions for strike control.

The one big union, organized nowhere else in New England, has become a militant factor overnight through the action of Ben Leger, in obtaining from a mass meeting of strikers yesterday acceptance of his leadership and repudiation of that of the United Textile Workers of America.

The latter organization, headed by President Thomas F. McMahon, who is a moderate, is the one which has been in the ground and he says it will extend its forces without regard to the opposition.

As an added factor in the fight for control, the textile workers' union was said to be arranging to enter the strike area.

Three mills are closed by the strike, another is shut down because of depression, and the third is working on a reduced scale. The mills are being closed by the strike, and the workers are being paid by the few loyal workers available and three cents per hour.

THUGS CAUGHT IN GUN BATTLE

Police Foiled Hold-up and Trapped Bandits—Lunch-eater Crowd Saw Thrilling Revolver and Hand-to-hand Struggle in New York.

New York, April 4.—While hundreds of persons, looking from the windows of the Belmont Hotel, the viaduct over Pershing Square, and other vantage points, shouted encouragement and instructions, eleven detectives fought a desperate pistol battle at close range with four bandits, shortly after noon. The gunmen attempted to steal a satchel, supposed to contain a $6,500 payroll from Cashier Charles R. Brady and Superintendent William Gottell of the Eastern Construction Company in front of the new branch of the Bowery Savings Bank, which the concern is erecting in Park avenue, between Forty-first and Forty-second streets.

About twenty shots were fired before the detectives closed in and beat the thieves into submission, the hand-to-hand struggle lasting several minutes as the enraged thieves fought to the last to reach the automobile which, with engine running, they had left standing at the curb for the anticipated get-away. However, when the chauffeur leaped from the car to assist his comrades, the machine was wrecked and the bandits fled on foot.
