Both Are Now In The Best of Health

STRIKING TRIBUTE TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS AND DODD'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS

Mr. and Mrs. Tichit Both Searched in Vain for Health Till They Found the Wonderful Twin Remedies.

Rathwell, Man. May 8.—(Special).—"Both Mrs. Tichit and myself have every reason to speak well of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets," says Mr. Seraphine Tichit, a well-known resident of this place. "Mrs. Tichit was attacked with nervous dyspepsia. She saw a number of different doctors and took many medicines, but could only get temporary relief, till she used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets."

"For myself I could not eat much. I could not sleep well and I was troubled with bad dreams. I was utterly discouraged, when one of my friends gave me a little book telling of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. After using them I could eat and sleep well. I also gained twelve pounds in weight."

"Both my wife and myself feel that we owe our health to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's Kidney Pills and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a grand combination. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys so that they strain all impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food properly, giving the body the nourishment it requires. With proper nourishment carried through the body by pure blood perfect health is assured."

HOME COLONIZATION IN DENMARK

Denmark is one of the countries in which agriculture is most prosperous, and its institutions are often referred to as models of their kind. Unfortunately, in many cases the material for a detailed study of these institutions is lacking, and well informed articles on the position of agriculture in Denmark are particularly welcome.

An article of this type, dealing with the measures taken by the Danish government for the encouragement of home colonization appeared in the January number of the Monthly Bulletin of Economic and Social Intelligence, published by the International Institute of Agriculture, and we shall here try to present a resume of its contents.

Wine Women and Song

"I have lost three fortunes," he boasted. "I don't think that is anything to be proud of," she replied.

"Well, maybe it isn't," he admitted; "but I thought you might like to know that I had graduated from all three schools of foolishness. Drink put me to the bad the first time. I wasted my second fortune on a woman, and I blew in the third on a musical comedy."

When we come to the sundown road we need all the love we have managed to take with us from the summit of the hill.

Tomorrow Mother's Day

Write a Letter to Her or Wear White Flower In Honor of Her Memory

Tomorrow will be observed in St. John churches in honor of "Mother." The Times publishes the following by request:—

By John B. Gruelle

Oh, mother, that I could do for thee The things thou hast done for me; That I could pay back a thousandth part Of the love thou bearest me;

That I could give thee the strength I hold, Now that thou growest old; That I could strengthen thy feeble step, And let not thy hand grow cold!

Oh, mother, that I could give to thee, Now that thou canst not see— That I could give back the sight, my dear, That thou hast given me!

Oh, mother, that I could give to thee, Now that thou lovest me— Oh, mother, that I could give to thee The life thou hast given me!

The movement to observe Sunday, May 8th, originated with Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, and the anniversary which the world will remember and observe this year is the anniversary of the death of Miss Jarvis' mother.

Grief over the death of her mother, Miss Jarvis says, brought to her a realization of the sorrow which a mother's death must always bring to someone. And so she began her campaign for a Mothers' Day, a day on which the mothers of the world, living or dead, would be honored.

The idea is simple. All that is asked is that men and women over the world shall pin a white flower to their dress on the second Sunday in May and write a letter home to mother, if she is living. The idea is so full of appeal that poor unfortunate beings who are not sure they ever had a mother take a curious and pathetic pride in displaying the white flower.

Miss Jarvis began her campaign by writing letters to newspapers. The papers favored the plan and now the day is generally observed throughout the United States and large cities in Europe.

To Wesley Memorial Methodist church, Montreal, is due the credit for introducing the idea into New Brunswick and there is every promise that it will be generally adopted in every city of importance.

"If your mother is dead," says Miss Jarvis, "remember her, with a kindness to some unfortunate person."

This year marks the fifth since Miss Jarvis began her work to have the mothers of the world properly honored, and this year will eclipse all previous years, by the general observation of the plan.

The day is for everyone, regardless of religious belief or color. "I want Mothers Day to exist for all," Miss Jarvis says. "Princess or pauper, Christian or Jew, young or old—the figure of a mother must stand to all for what is most worthy and true."

Of the beautiful tributes written on the subject of mother, the following is given as the most appropriate:—

Mother In the springtime of his life she lived. He remembers her so well now. She is not dead, though the grass above that tear-strewn mound is growing green again. She lives a life eternal within his heart.

From that moment when he lay upon her breast and his heart began its beating next her own—a moment when the depths of human feeling are touched and awakened and the heights of human possibilities disclosed, she loved him, lived for him—and died for him.

He did not understand—then—the great, almost superhuman task asked of her by the Creator; nor could he see—then—that the heart-breaking load she carried would have crushed the strongest of men; he only knew—then—that she was both father and mother to him.

And yet she bore her burden with a saintly smile and a patient soul that makes her appear as a heavenly angel temporarily placed here by the Divine Maker to guide through the terrible meshes of an earthly life the being she had crossed the darkened valley of death to bring into existence.

He sees her now. With eyes of memory he watches her pass to and fro by his darkened bed, smoothing his aching brow, holding his feeble hand, murmuring "My boy!"

He sees her with frail, tired arms and without body bending over her daily tasks while he, unmindful and unheeding, romped in the mud in childish days.

He sees her toiling, toiling, toiling, throughout her never ending days—and he didn't understand.

Her wan face greeted him when he tumbled from slumber's arms—and he remembers now that mother gave him the choicest bits from their scanty loaf.

He sees her from his little bed sewing and darning and ironing "for my boy."

And then there grew a time when she was too weak to longer struggle with the burden that wrote the deep wrinkles upon her face and marked her body with wearied seams of pain and lifelessness.

Then when her work was done—when
