Our friends will perceive from the foregoing report, from the subscription list, and from the Treasurer's account, that we are gaining ground. As our last year's reports from London have been lost, we cannot give all the information we wish. We are sorry to learn that two of the most steady friends, and of the oldest standing, of the officers of the British and Foreign Bible Society, have gone to reap their reward. The Right Hon. Lord Teignmouth, President, and the Rev. Joseph Hughes, A. M., Battersia, the Secretary. The whole train of Bible Societies and Auxiliaries cannot recall these worthy, faithful, and zealous servants of Christ. No! He has use for them in another part of his glorious and extensive kingdom. His servants are never reduced from a higher to a lower station. But we can imitate their zeal for the glory of God—we can follow their footsteps. We shall only mention one of their principles (as they were both we may say the founders and firm supporters of that principle) viz. never to slacken their diligence, nor let their zeal cool in the glorious cause of spreading the word of the Lord, until the whole human race should have the Scriptures in their own tongues. The voice from their tombs to us—is—go t'ou and do likewise. Let us hear the voice,—let us double our diligence.

We have further to add that great doors are opening in the West India Islands, where our friend Mr. Thomson has been labouring for some years, indeed almost ever since he was here. Much good is going on on the Continent also, and some other parts. Knowing the work is of God, and that it must prevail, we have only to double our diligence; mountains (of prejudice) must be and are removing; valleys must be exalted, and a highway for our God (as he travels by his word) will appear plain. Again, we say, "in due time we shall reap if we faint not."
