THE BOY PROBLEM.

In the cathedral yesterday morning, Bishop Casey spoke on the gospel of the day and incidentally referred to its effecting the boy problem. The gospel told of the child Jesus returning from Jerusalem to Nazareth with his mother Mary and foster father St. Joseph, "and was subject to them." In these words Bishop Casey saw the boy problem affected and in earnest, eloquent tones he cautioned the boys to obedience to and love for their parents.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JANUARY 12, 1903.

OVER THE BORDER.

The story told in another part of today's Star concerning the coal situation in Brookline reveals an interesting phase of the American character. Conditions similar to those in Brookline exist in other cities. It is clearly shown that the people, the consumers of coal, are being bled by somebody for personal gain. The fact is simply stated, without any expression of resentment. In some countries such conditions would probably lead to riot and bloodshed, but in the United States two facts operate against such a result. The first is the universal recognition of the right of property, the other the dollar-worship which is the national creed. The successful man, the millionaire, who heaps up wealth in trade, manufacturing, transportation, real estate, or on the produce or stock exchange, or even by questionable methods, is the man to be honored and emulated. Every man, generally speaking, is out after money. If his rise involves the downfall of another, he does not worry about it, and the other man accepts the situation with the cheerful philosophy of one who may rise again in precisely the same way. So, if coal operators and railway corporations profit by the coal famine to enrich themselves, the citizen grumbles, perhaps, but pays, and bides his time. Perhaps some day he will want to squeeze somebody himself. Some provision is made so that the very poor shall not be left in absolute want, but for the rest it is a case of take your medicine and say nothing. It is of course possible for conditions to reach a stage that would be intolerable, but as yet the line separating the sharp trader and the plain plunderer is evidently not believed to have been crossed. Meanwhile the coal commission continues its interminable deliberations, and congress plays with the trust problem. And perhaps in the spring there will be another strike. Our neighbors might to good purpose pause in the agreeable pastime of admiring themselves as the solvers of Venezuelan and other international problems and arbiters-in-general of the world's fate, and give a little real and serious attention to matters of interest at home.

ANOTHER BATTLE.

That ill-starred, unpolished journalistic bark, the Daily Telegraph, has run upon another snag. It has made a most ill-advised personal attack upon Senator Ellis, in connection with the Dear and Dumb Institution. Senator Ellis read the article, adjusted his glasses, and read it again, and then called for type. It took three kinds to satisfy him, but he gave the Telegraph on Saturday evening one of the most scientific and complete drubbings that has fallen to its lot since the days when another liberal editor habitually referred to it as "the silly Telegraph." Senator Ellis not only lacerates the Telegraph, but calls the directors by name and asks them what they propose to do about it.

The Telegraph this morning makes a very feeble reply. The next bout will be looked for with great interest, inasmuch as the Telegraph's charge against Mr. Ellis would apply, if it applied at all, with much greater force to the mayor, several clergymen and a number of other leading citizens of Fredericton. These also may be expected to protest, and the Telegraph will, perhaps, have at last discovered the long and ardently sought for "main body."

GIVING AWAY MILLIONS.

Referring to the munificent gifts for public purposes made last year, an American paper says: Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller vie with each other in the magnificence of their gifts. Neither gives recklessly or even carelessly. Each makes his giving a subject of careful thought—that is, each applies business principles to his giving. Mr. Rockefeller's gifts last year included $1,000,000 to the University of Chicago for real estate, $1,000,000 to Harvard University for the medical school, $500,000 to the Teachers' College, New York, $250,000 to Bryn Mawr College and an equal amount to Cornell University. Mr. Rockefeller made a number of other large gifts, their aggregate for the year approaching, if not exceeding, $5,000,000.

Between fifty and sixty gifts are credited to Andrew Carnegie, the largest of which is his gift of $300,000 to Cooper Union, New York. Mr. Carnegie's gift to libraries had the usual conditions attached. Mr. Carnegie's known gifts made in this country last year were in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. Since the new year began he has offered, it will be remembered, $1,500,000 to Philadelphia for libraries. Of benevolent schemes alleged to be under way the same paper says: It is supposed that the corporation known as the General Education Board will receive about $10,000,000 from Mr. Rockefeller to be applied to a great variety of educational purposes. A vast sum has been promised to Chicago University to effect the consolidation of Rush Medical College with the institution. It is said that J. Ogden Armour intends to establish in Chicago the Lolla Armour Institution of Bloodless Surgery at a cost of $3,000,000. Henry C. Frick, it is believed, has in mind the founding, at great cost of an educational institution in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford is having plans prepared for a very elaborate library building at Leland Stanford, Jr., University. The gifts to Leland Stanford University, as recently increased by Mrs. Stanford, comprise what is perhaps the most magnificent equipment and endowment any institution has received from one source.

On Oct. 1st there were 8,271 insane persons in the asylums of the State of Massachusetts, and the average annual increase for the last five years was 420. Provision has to be made from year to year for about 500 additional patients. At present the asylum accommodation of the state is overcrowded. On Oct. 1st there were 6,336 persons in the prisons of the state. In 1896 authority was granted by the legislature to employ the labor of county prisoners in reclaiming and improving waste land, and Governor Bates now suggests an appropriation for the purpose of testing the feasibility of the scheme.

FATAL FIRE AT WATERFORD.

SUSSEX, Jan. 11.—The building containing the store and dwelling, also the cheese and butter factory of John Friars, at Waterford, was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday night. One young man lost his life and the rest of the occupants escaped in their night clothes. Mr. Friars runs a general store and lives in the upper flat. His family consists of himself and his wife and children. His brother, Miss Richardson, and a clerk in the store. About 12 o'clock Miss Richardson awoke to find the house on fire. She immediately aroused the rest of the occupants, but they were unable to make their exit down the stairway, so returned to the room from the windows in their night clothes. It is supposed that William Friars took time to dress, and in so doing lost his life. The loss comprises the following: The buildings, stock and cheese factory, valued at $5,000, with $4,500 in accounts, notes of hand and other papers, $50 cash and two gold watches. He carried $1,000 insurance. The fire is supposed to have started in the store. William Friars, the deceased, was only 20 years old, and had control of the cheese factory for his brother. Rev. J. I. Polley will accompany the remains to Shediac on Monday for interment, at which place Friars' father and mother reside.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH.

Despite the zero weather yesterday morning, St. Mary's church was comfortable and many people think the wood stoves an improvement over the furnace. In the afternoon the choir visited the hospital and furnished music at the service led by C. F. Kinney, who delivered an address appropriate to the season. Several immigrants, detained at the hospital, showed a keen appreciation of the service. The anthem, Rejoice Greatly, was sung. The boys' brigade of the church, for drill this evening. They are being provided with uniforms. Under the auspices of the brigade a dime entertainment will be given next week. Great improvements have been made in the school room.

The weekly temperance meeting at Union Hall, under the auspices of the North End W. C. T. U., was addressed yesterday afternoon by Rev. Samuel Howard, pastor of the Portland Methodist church.

In the Roman Catholic church on next Sunday the feast of the Holy Name of Jesus will be observed. The Holy Name Society of the cathedral parish will meet in the cathedral on Sunday evening.

At tomorrow evening's meeting of Portland Methodist church Young Men's Association there will be no discussion, but an address will be delivered by the association's chaplain, Rev. Samuel Howard.

DR. F. X. MORRIS MARRIED.

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday at the church of the Holy Redeemer, East Boston, when Miss Mary Kelly, daughter of Dr. Lawrence Kelly of Pleasant Point, St. John, was united in marriage to Dr. F. X. Morris, of Fairville, N. B., by Rev. Father Sheeran. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Kitty Magee, while the groom was supported by Dr. E. H. Ferguson. The happy couple were the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts. After a brief honeymoon they will reside in this city.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

A delegation from the Lord's Day Alliance waited upon the government at Ottawa on Saturday. They asked that Sunday excursions from American towns to Canada be stopped, and that Sunday newspapers be not allowed to come in from the States on Sunday. They protested against rifle practice on the Sabbath, as well as the marching of regiments to camping grounds on Sunday and the unnecessary opening of post offices on Sunday. They will wait on Hon. A. G. Blair today.

CHAPMAN CONCERTS.

At York Theatre This and Tomorrow Evenings.

The Chapman Festival Concerts will be held at the York Theatre this and tomorrow evenings.

Society has a new favorite and a new fad—little Miss Louise Truax and her art of whistling, for Miss Truax is young and fair and graceful. And she has really made an art of whistling. The gay world had never heard of Miss Truax, nor had it paid any attention to whistling until Bishop Worthington of Nebraska, introduced his former parishioner to a New York friend, who in turn introduced her to Wm. R. Chapman of the Rubinstein Club. Through him she met Miss Emma Thursby and Mme. Caplan, both of whom interested themselves in her.

Every one who is fond of high art in music should hear this little lady, as she is considered the marvel of the times. Good houses are assured for these concerts.

The plan of seats is at Miss Gray's, King street.

FREDERICTON AFFAIRS.

FREDERICTON, Jan. 11.—Fire tonight did about $1,000 damage to the drill shed. It broke out in the Queen street end and is supposed to have caught from a defective stove pipe. All Fredericton turned out to see the blaze, which was so bright that a pin could have been picked up on the front street. The main front of the building was ruined, but the fire was subdued before it reached the main part of the building. The portion destroyed included the office of Colonel White, Col. Wadmore's office, and the men's library. The latter contained 700 volumes, and a good billiard table, the property of the men. The furniture in the offices belonged to the militia department and was uninsured.

James A. Garvie died last night of pneumonia, aged 38 years. He was formerly orderly sergeant in the military school, and was a well known hunter. He leaves a wife and five children, the youngest eight months' old.

Last night was the coldest of the season, 21 below. It moderated tonight, and a heavy snow storm is in progress.

Frank Whitehead returned on Saturday night from Madawaska. He says there are 14 cases of smallpox in Van Buren, Me., and the town is quarantined. There are two cases of a mild type in St. Leonards, but the officials are lax in looking after them. He says it is reported the epidemic has broken out in the lumber camps of Maine.

Henrietta Louise, wife of Robert Rainsford, died suddenly last night. She was around the house all day, retired to a sofa and dropped off before help could reach her. Death was due to the rupture of a blood vessel. No family, age 68. She was a daughter of the late Capt. McLaughlin of Kingsford, formerly a well known military officer. One sister, Isabella McLaughlin, resides with her brother, Augustus McLaughlin, police magistrate of Bathurst.

IT HELPS TO KILL BUGS.

In the Portland Rolling mills there is a galvanizing plant which is regularly employed in galvanizing the tanks, nails and other small articles turned out in the works. The galvanizing is done by dipping the articles in a pot of melted zinc. As is well known, when zinc is melted a scum forms on the surface of the metal and this, when scraped off is found to consist of a greasy film, which, as it was formerly believed to be worthless, has usually been thrown away. But the rolling mills people have found a market for this precipitate and on the principle that everything is good for something, it is no longer wasted. The powder is collected and stored in barrels and at regular intervals is shipped to St. Stephen where it is with other compounds, made into the preparation known as Bug Death.

OTTAWA NEWS.

OTTAWA, Jan. 11.—The beautiful residence of Sir Richard Cartwright on O'Connor street was badly damaged by fire and water last night, and although the actual loss will not exceed $2,000, the veteran knight and his family have been put to great inconvenience. The fire broke out in a sitting room over the drawing room, originating from a grate fire. Running between the floor of one room and the ceiling of the drawing room, it was difficult to get at, and kept Chief Frost and his men busy for an hour chasing it under the floor. The salvaging corps were placed to good advantage, but notwithstanding the efforts of the brigade to minimize the loss, there was considerable damage from water. Sir Richard and Lady Cartwright are the guests for the present of Mr. and Mrs. Blair, whose residence is next door, while the Misses Cartwright are staying with friends in the city.

Laurier leaves for Montreal tomorrow morning to attend a caucus of the party leaders of Montreal district. Thence he goes to Quebec, returning here on Friday.

DEATH OF R. J. LANG.

The death occurred Saturday of R. J. Lang, the well known restaurant proprietor, who for some years past has been located at No. 20 Charlotte street. Deceased, who was 54 years of age, was one of the best known and most popular colored residents of the city, and his establishment on Charlotte street was liberally patronized by the public. Society people knew him as a caterer, and his ice cream was celebrated. Deceased had been ill for some little time and frequently his condition was precarious, but having recovered from several severe attacks, his death came as a surprise. His widow has the deep sympathy of the community. The funeral took place from his late residence this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.
