

TO LET.

Advertisements under this head: Two words for one cent each time, or Three cents a word for ten times. Payable in advance.

TO LET—Small house of four rooms, 48 Spring street, from the first of May. Rent low. Apply to W. BRAMMALL, 381 King street east.

TO LET—Two unfurnished rooms at Riverside, five minutes walk from station. Apply to MRS. J. W. HARRIS, Lansdowne House, King Square, City.

TO LET—One self-contained flat containing two rooms, modern improvements. Apply to W. H. HARRIS, 113 St. James street.

TO LET—From 1st May next that very comfortable, self-contained dwelling house, now occupied by George H. Horton, Esq., No. 125 German street, corner Horsfield, containing 8 rooms, bath room, hot and cold water, etc. Can be seen on Wednesday and Saturday afternoon. Apply to W. TREMAYNE GARD, 4 King street.

HELP WANTED, MALE.

Advertisements under this head: Two words for one cent each time, or Three cents a word for ten times. Payable in advance.

WANTED—A young man who has had some experience in the care of a steam engine and boiler. Apply at Sun Office, St. John.

WANTED—A compositor of about four years' experience at the Sun Office. Must have references. Apply at HARRIS's stable, 134 Union street.

WANTED—A young man for driving and making himself generally useful. Apply to JOHN HOPKINS, Union street.

WANTED—Printer, also apprentice boy. Apply to D. F. BROWN PAPER CO., Ltd., 100 Union street.

BOY WANTED—Apply at McWatt's Drug Store, Haymarket square.

GENERAL AGENTS WANTED in each town for special agents, sickness, identity, insurance and general insurance business. Liberal terms to reliable men. Write Box 275, Montreal.

HELP WANTED, FEMALE.

WANTED—A few good hand sewers and machine sewers. Steady work. Apply, 107 Prince William Street, second floor.

WANTED—A girl for general housework. Apply to MRS. R. H. FLEMING, 11 Pagan Place, off German street.

WANTED—Nurse girl. MRS. R. H. RUDINS, 33 Portland street.

WANTED—An experienced general servant. Apply in the evening to MRS. FOSTER, 55 Spring street.

WANTED—A girl for general housework. Small family. Apply to MRS. J. S. FROST, 46 Mill street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Advertisements under this head: Two words for one cent each time, or Three cents a word for ten times. Payable in advance.

WHITEWASHING and Kalsomining done to order. Orders sent to the Sun Office, No. 33 Charlotte street, or 223 Queen street. J. H. GRAYES.

WANTED—43 Second Hand Stoves of all kinds. Must be cheap. W. A. STEPPER, 151 Mill street. Tel. 649.

FOR SALE.

Advertisements under this head: Two words for one cent each time, or Three cents a word for ten times. Payable in advance.

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE—A quantity of revolver or rifle ammunition, No. 45 Colts. Apply to CRACK SHOT, Star office.

FOR SALE—An lamp, complete, nearly new. Apply to Sun Printing Co.

FOR SALE—A quantity of steam pipes and iron, six and eight pound weights. Apply at Sun Office, St. John.

FOR SALE—A Metal Furnace, capacity about 500 pounds. It has a fire brick lining, with smoke and ventilating pipes complete. Apply Sun Printing Company, St. John.

LOST.

Advertisements under this head: Two words for one cent each time, or Three cents a word for ten times. Payable in advance.

LOST—On Friday afternoon, on Main street, north end, a pocket book containing a large sum of money, also papers. The finder will be rewarded by leaving the same at Office of Messrs. Taylor Bros., North end.

LOST—Last night, a gold locket, either at Opera House or between Opera House and corner of St. James and Sydney streets. Finder will confer a favor by returning to "H" at Star office or Opera House box 60.

LOST—Between Union street and the burnt wharves, west St. John, a small Gold Pin. A reward will be paid if returned to DOMINION EXPRESS OFFICE, King street.

HOTELS.

Advertisements under this head: Two words for one cent each time, or Three cents a word for ten times. Payable in advance.

HOTEL DUFFERIN.

E. LeROY WILLIS, Prop.,

ST. JOHN, N. B.

Millidgeville Ferry

LEAVES MILLIDGEVILLE daily except Saturday and Sunday at 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. RETURNING FROM BATHWATER at 7 a. m. and 9 a. m.

SATURDAY—8 a. m. and 9 a. m., 4 and 6 p. m.

RETURNING—8 a. m. and 9 a. m., 4 and 6 p. m.

SUNDAY—8 a. m. and 9 a. m., 4 and 6 p. m.

JOHN MCGOLDRICK, Agent.

Telephone 228a.

COUNTY COURT CHAMBERS.

The case of Margaret Bramhall v. Charles A. Murray come on for hearing yesterday before Judge Forbes. A verdict was a review from the judgment by the city court in favor of the plaintiff.

The judgment for the plaintiff was reversed by His Honor Judge Forbes and a verdict ordered to be entered for the defendant. Dr. Silas Alward, K. C., appeared for defendant; M. R. Chapman for plaintiff.

LOUBET TO LONDON.

LONDON, April 24.—It is said here that the visit to London of President Loubet, of France, has been fixed for July.

DEATHS.

GREEN—On March 17th, Minnie Green, wife of James Greer, Westfield, N. B.

THOMAS—April 24th, at 169 Waterloo street, to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Thomas, a son.

PHIBBSANT—At Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, 24th April, 1903, Captain Frederick Phibbsant.

The remains will arrive at St. John by steamer Saturday. Funeral services at St. John's (Catholic) church at 2.30 o'clock p. m. Sunday.

MACDONNELL—Entered into rest, April 23, at Kewick House, at the residence of her nephew, R. R. Hodgson, in the 94th year of her age, Catherine Macdonnell, late surviving daughter of the late Captain Ronald Macdonnell, Glenagarry Light Infantry, town major of Charlottetown.

ROBERTS—At Boston, April 24th, Charles W. Roberts of Indianapolis, St. John, aged 70 years, leaving one son and four daughters to mourn their loss.

Funeral from Victoria street P. C. B. church Monday, April 27th, at 2.30 p. m. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend.

THE ST. JOHN STAR is published by THE SUN PRINTING COMPANY (LTD.), at St. John, New Brunswick, every afternoon (except Sunday) at $2.00 a year.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., APRIL 25, 1903.

THE DRILL SHED.

The question of a new drill hall for St. John is still unsettled. At various times it has been believed by persons of sanguine temperament that the government really meant to do something, but these persons, along with the citizens at large, have always been disappointed. There is now believed to be a possibility that something will be done before parliament rises this year. But there is no certainty. It is even possible that if anything is done, it will be decided to erect a new drill shed on the barrack square. It may still be hoped, however, that wiser counsels will prevail. The federal government are professedly anxious to strengthen the militia of Canada. If so they should desire to strengthen and popularize it in every part of Canada. If they wish to do so in St. John they will take pains to learn the facts and consult the feelings and wishes of those actively interested in the work. The present site of the drill shed is absurdly out of place. It is away at the extreme end of the city, bordering on the bay. It is inconvenient for the people of the east end of the city, and very much more so for those in the North End, Carleton and Fairview, from all of which recruits are drawn. It is a simple matter to get a desirable site up town, and the thing should be done. Why should there be so much apparent diffidence concerning this question? Why should not Mayor White, himself a military man, and the members of the city council insist on fair treatment for St. John in this matter? And where is Col. Tucker in this exigence? If he and the Hon. Mr. Blair make up their minds that St. John must have a new drill shed in a location such as will make city membership in the militia popular they can carry their point. This would be a good time for those especially interested in the matter to stir up an agitation and press with all the influence possible the claims of St. John. The question has been too long the plaything of the politicians. It is a long time since Hon. Dr. Borden, when in this city expressed his desire to do something for the militia of St. John. Keep him to his word.

THE SPRUCE MARKET.

Of the spruce market in Liverpool the Timber Trades Journal says in a recent issue:

The spruce market keeps steady, for the imports by the liners are small, and are likely to keep in that condition for the next few weeks. What they are bringing are Bay deals, of which the supply is now running short, and the freight contractors for St. John, N. B. and Halifax, N. S., liners are somewhat in a difficulty to find sufficient deals to fulfil their obligations. It would be a relief to the market if importations stopped from this time to the opening of the season. The stock on hand in Liverpool and Manchester at the end of last month amounted to 24,850 standards, as we stated last week. We make no apology for again drawing attention to the point. The stock in the two ports is far too heavy for this time of year. The local brokers who have large control over the spruce trade have made good sales on the continent and in Ireland, where a large trade has been done at good prices. But at present the position for this market is in a nebulous form, and we must await developments. As we said last week the prices required abroad are so high that buyers naturally hold off, and are inclined to play a waiting game.

J. P. Whitney, leader of the Ontario opposition, said in reference to Mortimer Clark's selection to the position of lieutenant-governor, that he considered the appointment a most satisfactory one. Mr. Clark, he considers a most able man, and one who would perform the duties connected with the office in a most creditable manner. The one reason above all why Mr. Whitney admired Mr. Clark, was his fairness. "Mr. Clark," said Mr. Whitney, "is a man whom I can thoroughly trust."

Thomas Sexton has declined the invitation of the Irish National Convention to re-enter parliament, saying his strength is not equal to the trying duties of a member of the house. Mr. Sexton retired from parliament in 1896. He was high sheriff of Dublin in 1887, and lord mayor of Dublin a year later. He has more than once been asked to return to politics and become leader of the Irish party.

Russell Sage may be a millionaire many times over, and the owner of the great N. B. Southern Railway, but we infer from the following in the New York Herald that he does not own New York.

Three policemen and three uniformed attendants stood in line on the top step guarding the Wall Street entrance to the Stock Exchange yesterday morning. Shortly before eleven o'clock Russell Sage, leaning on the arm of a young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

The line made no sign of wavering. Russell Sage could no more pass those portals than the gaping gamin in the gutter until he had shown his credentials. The young man got them out. Mr. Sage leaning heavily on his arm, and the young man, attempted to enter. There was no break in the guard line, nothing in the faces of the men in uniform that indicated that they saw any one.

"This is Mr. Sage," said the young man.

SATURDAY SERMONETTE.

"Character is habit, crystallized."

There is nothing more important, nothing of such infinite value as character, but it is in a large measure for us to say of what fibre and quality that which we call character shall be. For although we are by inheritance, or otherwise, endowed with our nature, our real character, money and method, little by little, by the development and cultivation here, or the repression and controlling there of our natural tendencies.

Not the least, but rather one of the greatest agents in the forming of a character is what is known as habit, of thought or speech or action. So easy do we find it to assume a habit, that we seldom think of what we shall do, unless, once we wish to do so. We do anything or do anything once, twice and again and again until it becomes easier by each repetition. Thus the habit becomes much a part of our very life, woven into its web and wood, to make the pattern beautiful or otherwise, that it is almost impossible to be rid of them. And, as these habits grow into our being, they are all the time, by slow but sure degrees, building up our characters, and though a habit when first begun may be in itself but a trifling thing, yet character is no trifling thing. One tiny snowflake can, in time, make this old earth over anew into a thing of purity and beauty, and pile up the gigantic drifts that may stop trains in their progress and do almost unlimited damage. So habits, once grown strong enough, form themselves, or crystallize, into character, and it, therefore, behooves us to watch well what habits we adopt and let grow upon us, letting them be wise and good ones, for thus it is possible to be possessed of firm, pure crystals of character.

MEMORIAL TABLET.

In Honor of Dr. Nelson O. Price Who Died in South Africa.

The memory of Dr. Nelson O. Price, who succumbed to fever while serving with the Canadian forces in South Africa, will be fittingly honored on Sunday, May 3rd, when a memorial tablet will be unveiled in the Baptist church at Havelock, Kings county.

Doctor Price, prior to his departure for service in South Africa, 1902, was connected with the board of health of this city, and during the smallpox epidemic performed duties of a most noble and valuable character. He was 25 years of age, the son of Oswald N. and Barbara Price, and was prominent in Havelock. When the third Canadian contingent, under Col. Evans, was being organized, the 10th Canadian Field Hospital Corps, under Colonel Worthington formed part of the battalion, and Dr. Price, as a physician, his brother, George Price, at present connected with George A. Moore's drug establishment, Brussels, accompanied him. After the battle of Hart's River Dr. Price contracted fever, and under his brother's care was taken to Klerksdorp, Transvaal. After a short time in the hospital he was removed to another part of the country, this time leaving Dr. Price himself, a fever patient in the hospital camp. He relinquished his duties through illness, on May 28th, and on June 8th he died. His was the only death in these corps to which he belonged.

BORDER NEWS.

To Do Away with Slot Machines—Engagement Announced.

A Calais correspondent writes under date of 24th:—Following the example set by Calais the St. Stephen town authorities have determined to wage war against the slot machine. The Chinese who give prominent place to their establishments to these gaming devices, and Marshall Campbell, who has resumed duty after an illness of two weeks, has notified all persons concerned that the slot machine must go. Not only are the cash-paying machines under the ban, but everything in the gaming device line whether paying coins or chewing gum are tabooed. When the machines were ordered out in this city a number of them were taken to St. Stephen where they have since been played with profit to the owner and lessee, but complaint was made to the council concerning them, with the result that the marshal was instructed to have them removed at once. The liquor traffic is also to be regulated after a stricter fashion, and the thirty individual who fails to load up before 10 p. m. Atlantic standard time, which means 9 o'clock on this side of the river, will have to carry his trial over until the next day. It was reported that a vigorous enforcement of the Canadian Temperance Act was about to be inaugurated in St. Stephen, but there is little prospect of this happening while the stream of American coin now flowing into the coffers of the saloon men, operated by the "dry" time in Calais means increased wealth for St. Stephen.

Herbert Frost, arrested in connection with the St. Stephen freight car robbery and now in jail at St. Andrews, has decided not to take advantage of the speedy trials act, and will await trial by jury at the May term of the circuit court.

The engagement is announced of Miss Beria Francis Whidden of this city to Arthur D. Ganong, of St. Stephen.

MONCTON NEWS.

MONCTON, April 24.—The prospects are bright for the organization of a golf club in Moncton this summer. Capt. Dunning, I. C. R. cashier, is taking the initiative and quite a number are getting enthusiastic over the matter. A field has been secured, and the organization meeting is likely to be held soon.

The subscriptions to the Halifax School for the Blind taken at the entertainment given by Dr. Fraser and pupils here last night amounted to about $50.

The death of Mrs. W. H. Faulkner took place at her home here this morning, after an illness of ten days of paralysis. Deceased was 64 years old and leaves two daughters, Josephine and Alberta, at home, and her husband.

The family have been living in North Sydney for the past two or three years, but recently returned to Moncton. Deceased had many friends and was highly esteemed. The body will be taken to Bay Verte on Monday for interment.

A London cable says that the repeal of the corn duties is regarded as the defeat of the idea of giving a preference to Canadian wheat. Most of the comment by the press and public men is complimentary to the government for repealing the duties.

SPORTING NEWS.

ADMITTED TO MEMBERSHIP.

The Dartmouth Companies Athletic Club has been admitted to membership in the M. P. A. Association, dating from the twenty-fifth February, 1903.

BASE BALL.

National League Games Yesterday. At Pittsburgh—Pittsburgh . . . 40110000101—21 5 St. Louis . . . 000000000—0 0 Batteries—P. . . 000000000—0 0 O'Neill, Time, 1.30. Umpire, Johnston. Attendance, 3,000.

At Brooklyn—Philadelphia . . . 000000000—0 0 Brooklyn . . . 000000000—0 0 Batteries—Philadelphia and Ricker, Mitchell and Roth, Time, 1.30. Umpire, O'Day. Attendance, 3,000.