

SUNDAY SCHOOL COLUMN.

REAPING OR DECISION DAY.

All advanced Sunday school work bears fruit directly in soul winning. If it does not it is wrongly managed. Manifestly to lead the scholar to accept Christ is the first step in the work of the Bible school...

The true teacher is of course always looking for his pupils to decide for Christ, but there is a tendency to let matters run. It is difficult often to speak to our pupils and personally urge decision for Christ, and I don't doubt there are teachers in New Brunswick who have conscientiously taught for years and never made a personal appeal to their pupils individually to accept Christ.

Hence, in many schools throughout America the plan has been adopted of having a time set apart for special work by the scholars with a teacher eliminating in direct appeal being made on a certain day by the one best fitted, only let the method of making the appeal be directed by the Spirit of Christ.

How suggestive is fishing for men! How well calls the boat the church of Christ, the fish the scholar, the line the Holy Spirit, the hook the Holy Word, the bait the Holy Sacrament, the fisherman the Holy Church.

ALL MY CLASS FOR JESUS. My scholars all for Jesus! This is my earnest prayer. For they are souls immortal, entrusted to my care; and I long for each; O Lord, the heavenly wisdom these contrite hearts to reach.

NO. 2.—THE CHURCH.

The church includes the names of so many whose memory deserves to be perpetuated that it is with misgivings that one approaches such a large field and attempts in the limits of a short article to speak of some of the men who stand out above their fellows as leaders in the various activities of their sacred calling.

The Church of England will naturally receive precedence in treatment, as it was the first church established in the maritime provinces as a British possession. It is noteworthy that the first colonial bishopric was established here, the first bishop being the Right Rev. Charles Inglis, who was in 1757 consecrated at Lambeth as the first bishop of Nova Scotia.

The Right Rev. Frederick Courtney, bishop of Nova Scotia, is a native of Plymouth, England, and was born in 1837. He graduated from King's college, London, in 1863, and was ordained priest in 1865. He labored at Hallow, Kent, Plymouth and Glasgow for eleven years, and in 1876 came to America.

The Right Rev. Laurence Stephen McMahon, Bishop of Hartford, Conn., was born in Nova Scotia in 1795 and received his theological education at Aix and Rome. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1850 and was first stationed at the Cathedral, Boston, Mass. He was consecrated Bishop of Hartford, Conn., in 1878. He died a few years ago.

Very Rev. Thomas Maguire, a native of Halifax, N. S., was superior of the college at St. Hyacinthe, P. Q., and at his death in 1854 was vicar general of the diocese of Quebec.

Bishop Keane, the first rector of the Catholic University of Washington, and now an archbishop in Rome, lived in St. John for a short time, his parents having come out here from Ireland to reside for a brief space before removing to the United States.

The father of Presbyterianism in Nova Scotia was Dr. James G. MacGregor, whose life has been so well described by Dr. Patterson. He was a native of Perthshire, Scotland, where he was born in 1759. He studied at Edinburgh University, and was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1784.

Among maritime province men who became distinguished in the church elsewhere were two alumni of Kings college, Windsor, N. S., the Right Rev. Thomas M. Sutherland, bishop of Aberdeen, and the Venerable Dr. George O'Kill Stewart, archdeacon of upper Canada.

Turning now to the Roman Catholic church, it is noteworthy that the heads of that body in the maritime provinces are mostly of native birth. His Grace the Archbishop of Halifax, Cornelius O'Brien, is a native of Prince Edward Island, and was born at New Glasgow in that province on May 4, 1843.

Not only is the head of this archdiocese a man of native birth, but the bishops of the several dioceses are in most instances of maritime province extraction; for instance, Bishop Cameron of Antigonish, Bishop McDonald of Prince Edward Island, and Bishop Rogers of Chatham.

of St. John, is of Irish birth, but came to St. John in early childhood and attended the grammar school along with the late Governor Boyd. He studied at St. Andrew's College, P. E. I., and at the Quebec Seminary, and was ordained to the priesthood in 1844. He became vicar general to Bishops Dollard and Connolly, and when the latter was transferred to the archbishopric at Halifax, Father Sweeney was chosen to succeed him at St. John, being consecrated in 1880. Under his able leadership the church in his diocese has grown strong, and many churches, convents and schools, as well as the College of St. Joseph's, are lasting evidences of his zeal and energy.

The Right Rev. John Cameron, Bishop of Antigonish, N. S., is a native of the county of Antigonish. He studied at Rome and was ordained there in 1853. He was professor in St. Francis Xavier College for a time, and in 1870 was appointed bishop coadjutor of the diocese. Seven years later he succeeded the aged Bishop McKinnon as Bishop of Antigonish. In 1885 the name of the diocese was changed to its present name.

The Right Rev. James Charles McDonald, Bishop of Charlottetown, is a native of St. Andrews, P. E. I. He studied theology at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and was ordained in 1873. He became Bishop of Charlottetown in 1891.

Two of the Newfoundland bishops are Nova Scotians. The Right Rev. Neil McNeil, Bishop of St. George's, west-coast of Newfoundland, is a native of the county of Inverness, N. S. He received the degrees of D. D. and Ph. D. at the College of the Propaganda, Rome, in 1889, and took a post graduate course at the University of Mansfield. He was rector of St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, for a time, and was elected to the episcopate in 1893. The Rt. Rev. Ronald McDonald, Bishop of Harbor Grace, N. S., is a native of Antigonish, N. S., and was raised to the episcopate in 1881.

The Right Rev. Laurence Stephen McMahon, Bishop of Hartford, Conn., was born in Nova Scotia in 1795 and received his theological education at Aix and Rome. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1850 and was first stationed at the Cathedral, Boston, Mass. He was consecrated Bishop of Hartford, Conn., in 1878. He died a few years ago.

The father of Presbyterianism in Nova Scotia was Dr. James G. MacGregor, whose life has been so well described by Dr. Patterson. He was a native of Perthshire, Scotland, where he was born in 1759. He studied at Edinburgh University, and was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1784.

One of the most earnest of Canadian Methodists was Rev. Matthew Ritchey, D. D., whose life work was spent in the maritime provinces and in Ontario. He was a native of Ireland but came out to New Brunswick when a youth. He was ordained in 1825 and served parishes in Parrsboro, Charlottetown, Charlton, S. C., Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Kingston, St. John and other places. He was also for a time principal of upper Canada college, Cobourg, Ont. He was delegate to some of the most notable gatherings of leaders of thought in the denomination, and he was honored with the presidency of the conference of eastern British America.

Rev. Humphrey Pickard, D. D., was one of the founders of the institutions at Sackville and was very prominent in the educational, missionary and other activities of the church. Mount Allison was established chiefly through his exertions and he was the first president of the college.

Rev. A. B. Simpson, pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle, New York, and founder of the Christian Alliance, is a native of Bay View, P. E. I., where he was born in 1846. At the age of three years he was taken to Western Ontario by his parents and was educated at the Chatham High school and Knox College, Toronto, graduating at the latter institution in 1865. He was pastor at Hamilton, Ont., Louisville, Ky., and of the 13th Presbyterian church, New York, but resigned to preach to the masses in tents and halls, and after fourteen years of labor organized the Christian Alliance and International Missionary Alliance in 1888.

over three hundred missionaries all over the world, and it is an international union of Christians of all sects, formed to carry the Bible to the heathen. He is pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle, New York, and editor of the Christian Alliance. He is famous for his executive ability, and is unsurpassed in the success of his methods for raising money for benevolent purposes. He has raised $185,000 at one church in one day. He is general secretary and superintendent of missions of the Missionary Alliance.

established by himself as the president in education, and to place it upon a non-sectarian basis, succeeding in winning the government's support, which had previously been monopolized by King's College. The next step was the establishment of Dalhousie University in 1828, and he was the first president, filling that position until his death in 1849. Dr. McCulloch was a man of broad views, but possessed all the controversial tastes which distinguished the typical Scotchman, and wrote a great deal on the questions of the hour.

Another eminent Presbyterian, whose name will be handed down to history in the honored roll of Christian martyrs, is the Rev. George N. Gordon, a native of Casamiquipe, P. E. I. In 1855 he went out to the South Seas as a missionary from the Presbyterian church of Nova Scotia, and in 1857 settled on the island of Erromanga, the scene of the martyrdom of John Williams. Here he continued to labor until he and his wife were murdered by savages in 1861. He was the first to reduce the language of Erromanga to writing. A memoir of "The Last Martyrs of Erromanga" was written by his brother, Rev. James D. Gordon, also a missionary to the island.

The activities of the Baptist church in the maritime provinces centre about their institutions of learning at Wolfville, and the leaders of the denomination were the founders and heads of Acadia. Among these men were the Rev. Edward Manning, Theodore Harding, Joseph Dimock, Flanders Chipman, James Munroe, Harris Harding, Joseph Cuyler, Dr. Charles Tupper, Dr. John Prud'homme, J. M. Cramp, Dr. I. E. Bill, Dr. E. A. Crawley and Dr. A. W. Sawyer. Dr. Tupper, though self educated, was one of the most scholarly divines of his day, and was an active home missionary.

He showed great facility in acquiring languages and was an accomplished linguist, having a practical knowledge of five different tongues. Rev. Dr. John Mockett Cramp, for eight years president of Acadia university, was eminent as a theological writer, and Dr. W. P.
