TOMPKINSVILLE, N Y, Nov 15-Notice is given by the Lighthouse Board that the spar buoy, painted red and black in horiz-outal stripes, which was established to mark the wreck of coal barge Daisy, sunk in New York upper bay, will be discontinued, the wreck having been removed.
Notice is also given that the red and black horizontally striped gas buoy, established to mark the wreck of 'a three masted schooner, mame unknown, sunk in Swash channel, New York lower bay, has been dis-continued, the wreck having been removed.
WASHINGTON, D C, Nov 14-Notice is given by the Lighthouse Poard that on Nov 12, 1839, light vessel No 49 was replaced on her station, off Smith Island, Cape Charles, and to the northward and eastward of the entrance to Chesapeake Bay. No changes have been made in the characteristics of the lights, fog signal or general appearance of the vessel. "'You have plenty of time,' we told him, but he replied: 'Not a bit. My father was a cabinet minister at thirty-six. If you want success you must begin early.'

That paper made him an offer of £1,000 for three months' services." 'I have seen Lady Randolph Churchill many times of late, and have seen

REPORTS. NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Ward line steamšhip Santiago arrived today, having on beard Capt. Jos. T. Murray, the mate, boatswain and cook of the schr. Celina, which was wrecked on Oct. 29th on the fs-land of Abaco, one of the Bahamas. The schooner Celina was a three masted vessei halling from Bath, Me, of 532 tons burden. White bound from Philadelphia to Galves-ton, with a load of coal, she ran into a storm on Oct. 24. This was off the Shore of Abaco. The captain let go bis anchors and observing a group of people patrolling the shore, hoisted the signals of distress. No assistance was rendered the vessel or crew and on Oct. 29, the starboard anchor orable chain broke into three parts, and the broke her back in two places. The cap-tain and erew clung to the wreek, and on hoats. After spending two days on a plantation, the shipwrecked mariners were taken off and landed at Nasser. Here they were taken care of by U. S. Consul McLean, who furnished transportation on the Ward line steamship Santiase. — "The reason the natives did to the days on the day was because most of the the rescued aid, "was because most of the inhabitants were wreckers and pirates, and instead, of more and more sail. Winston Churchill, without being cossessed of his father's idea of shortlivedness, is a great believer in living at high pressure and utilizing every moment. When he reached Cairo with Winston did not waste a minute, but travelled straight on, in spite of his take part in the historic charge of the Twenty-first Lancers, which sealed the

The great increase in imports, an increase far greater in proportion than the exports, has caused some nervousness in ministerial circles, especially as the official returns show that notwithstanding preferential trade with the United States has been looking up far better than with England. Trade returns for October, which were made up today, manifest a further falling off in exports, but there is again a substantial increase in imports, purchases from the mother country being better than they have been for some months past. It is just possible this may be due to the fact that navigation is about closing on the St. Lawrence. OTTAWA, Nov. 19 .- An order in The death of I. Edgar Golding occurred early Saturday morning after a severe illness. An operation was re-cently performed in the hope of saving imilar limit opposite. or protonging life, but pneumonia set in afterwards and hastened the end.

Mr. Golding was a well known citizen, and as travelling representative of Messrs. Thibadeau, Frere & Cie., of Quebec, was familiar in the commercial life of the province. For a time he carried on a dry goods business of his own, but retired and again entered the London House, and after it ceased to exist he went with the Quebec firm. His wife, a daughter of the late William Logun, and four children survive him. Mr. Golding was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters and
