(From Tuesday's Daily Sun.) It is not probable that the sentence of death will be passed upon Frank Higgins today.

o'clock, and as the first business Judge Landry will hear the argument of Mr. for a reservation of the case. Should his honor decide to grant the appeal he will consult with the crown officials regarding the expediency of pronouncing sentence before the case has been heard by the supreme court

Should he find that the grounds for appeal are inadequate, even if he be able to give his decision against the reservation at the time, he will probably proceed with the hearing of a civil case which comes up today and will probably take the whole day for its settlement.

At its conclusion, which will probably be Wednesday morning, should Mr. Mullin's appeal have been refused, Higgins will be called into court and receive the sentence which clinches justice. This will likely be the procedure, even should the judge's decision be to reserve the case though i is possible that under these conditions sentence may be withheld pending the verdict of the full bench for or against a new trial. Such was the information given by Judge Landry last night, though he intimated that contingencies might
