MAYOR HAYES TELLS ABOUT TRIP TO HUB

His Worship Attended Canadian Club Dinner and Heard Billy Sunday While in Boston.

Mayor Hayes returned yesterday from his visit to Boston where he was the guest of the Boston Canadian Club at their annual dinner on November 20. The principal speakers were Dr. Hugh Cabot and Lieut.-Col. Guthrie. The mayor said that Dr. Cabot, who is one of the foremost surgeons in America, and who is the head of the Harvard unit which is doing such noble work in the hospitals in France, made a splendid address in the course of which he praised very highly the hospital arrangements of the British army. He also dealt with the work of the German spy system and stated that in nearly every instance they had over-reached themselves and their campaign of frightfulness had had just the opposite effect to what had been intended. He referred to the Zeppelin raids and said it had been reported that these had not had any effect but this was wrong; they had had an enormous effect, but not the kind the Germans could get any comfort from, for every Zeppelin raid had resulted in thousands joining the colors, and instead of intimidating the people quite the opposite was true.

It was a splendid address, well delivered, and one which paid tribute to the work of the Allies in their task of defending the cause of right and justice against military oppression. Col. Guthrie made a good impression on the 250 men who were gathered together to keep green the memory of the land of their birth.

The mayor also took occasion to hear "Billy" Sunday while there and was deeply impressed by the speaker and the message which he has for the people. The big tabernacle is crowded to the doors long before the time of service and thousands are turned away every night.

One thing which impressed him very strongly was the wonderful organization and the way in which the crowds were handled. One instance he quoted was the way in which the collections are taken; the building holds about 16,000 people and it only takes about three minutes to take the offering at any service.

The people of Boston seemed to be stirred very deeply by the message which the evangelist had, and the churches were looking for big increases as a result of his mission.

NO STOMACH PAIN, GAS, INDIGESTION IN FIVE MINUTES

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the only real stomach regulator known.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness. A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back. It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

REV. G. A. KUHRING WRITES OF WONDERFUL MEMORIAL SERVICE

When All Boulogne Bowed in Tribute of Sorrow to the Gallant Allied Dead.

France, 2nd Nov., 1916.
To the Editor of The Standard:
Sir—I wish it had been the privilege of the good people of St. John to have shared with the experience of last Thursday, 2nd Nov., the day following All Saints' Day.

My brother "Papa," Capt. Pugsley, and I were privileged to represent the 3rd Canadian Stationary Hospital at the special memorial to the Allied dead who lay in Boulogne cemetery. We arrived fifteen minutes before the ceremony began and found the very air charged with sympathy—a sympathy for the British dead which came from hearts that had tasted sorrow to its depths. Nearly the whole concourse of people was in mourning, French people of all classes, who had lost father, husband, brother or friends. Racial barriers were down and one felt the great human brotherhood. The very quiet, subdued expectancy, of beholding and sharing in Boulogne's tribute to her heroic deliverers, seemed to bind all spirits in an harmonious whole.

Promptly at eleven a.m. the procession entered the gates of the cemetery. First came the band, playing that matchless funeral march of Chopin's, in hushed tones. The very music itself seemed to apologize for venturing to share our sorrows. Next came French soldiers bearing several huge floral wreaths and stands, some twenty-one feet in circumference. These were laid around a large mound of earth, erected and decorated with Allied flags for this occasion. French soldiers stood on guard with fixed bayonets and bowed heads.

The procession came to its place, passed through a company of British soldiers with arms presented. It was led by the mayor of the city, the mayor's wife, and a noted French retired general. After them came many others of all ranks, both English and French, and at the rear, veterans of 1870 and of the present war. Breasts glittered with many medals, denoting duty done and valor recognized by a grateful country.

The mayor in a quiet manner read an address, reviewing the late successes of the war, and left it to the general (who next spoke) to pay the tribute to the heroic dead.

Whether it was the effect of the condition of mind of those present or the fact that I was hearing the eloquence of love and esteem in a new tongue, I knew not, but this man of war simply held one's mind and soul, and as I listened to his warm, generous, highly-merited eulogy of the dead, and his simple setting forth of the justice of our cause, I felt myself carried forward to the time when this simple, true-hearted French people will enjoy once more their land in peace, as a land which, please God, shall no more nourish the infidel, but reverent worshippers of the true God, who through the outpoured blood of their sons and ours commingled, gave back to France this land of plenty and of beauty. Never again can we think of France as a foreign land. Thousands of our dead lying in its bosom is surely a pledge of a close and never-ending alliance. At the end of the address, there rang out the clear notes of the bugle sounding the "Last Post." That almost sacred sound of sorrow and yet of hope, bidding us listen and wait for the tramp of angel, not of man, which shall bid the dead arise and sorrow flee away. The end had come, I turned and looked around on the thousands of crosses marking where our boys are laid, some very near and dear to many in St. John, and as I left then there, I rejoiced that it was given to me and to their loved ones at home to believe in the resurrection of the dead.

Yours sincerely
GUSTAV A. KUHRING.

NEW QUARTERS IN SHAPE FOR THE SOLDIERS

Bank of Montreal Building Fitted for Service as Discharge Depot—Will Employ Returned Soldiers.

The Returned Soldiers' Commission were indeed fortunate in securing the Bank of Montreal building as a discharge depot. The building situated as it is, a short distance only from the depot and ferry wharf, is an ideal location for the use which it will be put to. The final touches were added to the interior yesterday, when electricians connected up the wiring system. Bedding and kitchen utensils were placed in the building yesterday in preparation for the arrival of a number of returned men within the next few days.

On the first floor the officers will occupy rooms. The offices of the provincial commission, Dr. Walker, Captain Bruce, who is in charge of the depot and Charles Robinson, secretary of the Returned Soldiers in New Brunswick, will also be on the first floor.

There will be in all approximately 100 beds in the dormitories, which are on the first and third floors. The largest dormitory will contain 40 beds, while the other two will provide room for thirty each. The orderly room will also be on the first floor. A special telephone has been installed for the use of the N. C. O.'s and men, as there will be many long distance calls from the friends of the soldiers arriving.

On the second floor will be the kitchen and mess room, a recreation room and the sergeant's mess. The cooking will be done by the use of a gas range. There is also on this floor a splendid lavatory with all conveniences. The inmates will also have the privilege of the use of the shower baths of which there are three.

The recreation room commands a grand view of the harbor, being in the front corner of the building. It is the intention of the officials to have a piano, grandophone, and if it can be secured a pool table for the use of the men.

The third floor will be occupied for the most part as a reserve room in case there should be a large number to arrive.

The rooms are all nicely lighted and ventilated and every detail has been attended to.

It is the intention of the O. C. to employ returned soldiers unless a position occurs for which a returned man cannot be found. The cook and cookee are both returned men, so also are the orderlies.

The discharge depot will be used by the military authorities as a place for the men arriving back from the front to rest up before proceeding to their homes in case they should be suffering from slight ailments. The depot will probably be used for the first time on Monday for the twenty-three men that are expected in the city.
