

A Lover's Kiss

He pressed her soft, warm, ruby lips
In a most ardent lover's kiss;
He lingered there, he would not dare
One moment of such bliss to miss.
It thrilled his inmost being,
As with delicious wine;
'Twas of the earth, most earthy,
And yet it was divine.