hull out for even more money. A few sales made this week at 12 to 14 a lb., and two or three of the larger houses are reported to be sold out.

The shipments during the past few days have been heavy, and stocks have been considerably reduced. The total here being decidedly less than we had in store at this time a year ago.

The market for butter is very firm, and prices have been advanced this week. Best June quoted at 26c a lb. and the price of winter quoted at 26c a lb. F.O.B. The demand has increased for the past few days, and the sales for shipment to not including a number aggregated to car loads. Western points have been shipping steadily, and there is a feeling that we are in for higher prices in the near future, as the quantity in store here is barely sufficient for local requirements. It is likely to cause an advance here.

Our Legal Adviser

LENGTH OF POSSESSION CLAIM.—I bought a farm in Alberta in 1906, and at the time purchasing there was a woman and her family living on the place, a relative of the person I bought from. I did not know her of the transaction, nor did I give her notice to vacate. I have not been in that locality since I purchased the farm but have paid taxes regularly. Can she or any of her family claim the land after having lived there certain length of time, and if so, how many years do they have to live on it to do so? I have a clear title to the property.—J. M. Wellington Co., Ont.

If the woman resided on the property for over ten years without paying any rent or acknowledging "ad title," she might be in a position to claim the land by length of possession. You should not allow her to remain there any longer without getting from her some acknowledgment in writing of your title. Possibly she will be willing to sign a lease. This would be a sufficient acknowledgment. The fact that you have paid the taxes regularly would not in itself protect you.

TONIC FOR HORSES.—Can you give us a receipt for a good tonic for horses that could be obtained from your local drugist? Our horses are starchy and somewhat unthrifty, and we would like to get them in good shape for spring work.—C. J. S. Peterboro Co., Ont.

Take equal parts by weight of pulverized sulphate of iron, gentian, ginger and wax comica. Mix and give a tablespoonful twice or three times daily. Feed well and give regular work or exercise.
