Music and Drama

The Courier unhesitatingly recommends the production "The White Feather," to be seen at the Opera House this (Saturday) night. Its story concerns the present European struggle and its scenes are laid in East Anglia. A number of Englishmen are living in a small seacoast hotel run by German spies. Into their midst comes one, Christopher Brent, who is accused of cowardice because he talks against enlisting. Almost from the beginning, the audience knows that he is an English army officer, engaged in trapping the Germans, and that the "spies" ways are assumed to delude the Germans. After the wireless apparatus in the fireplace has been discovered, carrier pigeons have been shot and the German submarine U-L destroyed in the harbor, we see the first uniform and gun. The play abounds in tremendous suspense, delightful comedy, countless thrills and counterplots. This is not a moving picture. A picked English Company will be seen in the production.

GUY BROS. MINSTRELS.

This show is probably the best known organization of its kind touring the country, at the present time. It is a show with a clean reputation, won by vaudeville acts of their own part of the Guy family. Where a show can claim this season as its 42nd successful season on the road, you can gamble that not alone the reputation, but the show itself is better than it ever was. Mgr. Dennis Brannigan, of the Grand Opera House, Kingston, made no mistake in telling his patrons that they would see the best minstrel show Guy Bros. ever had and that is the verdict all along the route. Mr. Geo. R. Guy, the Manager of the show, is to be congratulated on his show this year. His idea of the opening of the show is a great treat to the Canadian people. The title alone, "Just Before the Battle," will tell you it is different from the rest. You see the big military camp, the Fort lighted up at night, the digging of trenches, inspection, flag raising and the great battle scene. Something never before attempted, on any stage, and also all new vaudeville acts of their own. You get two hours and a half of the greatest entertainment you ever had for the money. The boys in black will more than enjoy the show, or some of the boys, if you are done by some one else. In addition the band is better than ever before and the big concert orchestra 12 pieces is unobtainable. The band 13 parades at noon on the day of the performance, Tuesday, Nov. 23rd.

E. CHERNIAVSKYS IN INDIA

Wonder the coming of Leo, Jan 1 Mischel Cherniavsky, the world renowned Russian artists has caused exceptional interest in Canada, for wherever they have been they have stirred the enthusiasm of audiences. The "Times of India" Dec. 27, 1912, says: "It can safely be said that very seldom or any where else, is a programme composed entirely of instrumental music followed with such evident appreciation and enthusiasm as was that represented by the Cherniavskys on Thursday. For not one single instant during the whole two and a half hours did the attention of the audience waver. To arouse such remarkable enthusiasm as was displayed it necessarily follows that the concert must have been of an exceptionally high standard and this was undoubtedly the case. The Three Brothers Cherniavsky are a trio of young musicians who have already made their mark in the musical world. They have scored a series of triumphs in Europe, Australia and New Zealand and now they are about to gain fresh triumphs in India and the East. Perhaps the secret of their success is their wonderful personality, which is stamped on every item they present. Almost at once they arise a remarkable sympathy between the performers and the audience, and the spell is only broken with the applause which is inevitable at the conclusion of the item. Individually the Brothers show to just the same advantage as they do collectively.

They will play here Nov. 25th, at the Grand Opera House.

story of a maid servant who had been instructed to address the prelate as "Your eminence." Imagine his horror however when the girl dropped a courtesy to him one morning with the words, "Sir your immense."

An American policeman became famous for his slips of the tongue. He used always to explain to recruits that "Third Avenue ran paralysed to Lexington"; and on one occasion he proudly stated that he never paid any attention to "unanimous workers."

A zealous temperance worker used to have a habit of confiding to her friends that certain persons were "adapted" to drink; while another gentleman in a mixed moment, once asked a friend to open a window and "putrefy" the air.

Historic Constantinople.

Though Constantinople has never fallen since taken in 1453 by Mohammed the Second, thus extinguishing the Byzantine Empire, twice has it been in dire peril and might have been taken but for outside influence. Russia in 1878 was halted by the British fleet when her forces had reached San Stefano. In 1912-13 the Bulgarians were within some thirty miles of the city. However, Constantinople was thrice taken before Mohammed's time, and in view of the present attack on the Dardanelles it is significant that sea power contributed directly to its downfall on each occasion.

In 1203 the Frankish warriors of the Fourth Crusade, diverted from their objective in the Holy Land by Venetian intrigue, aided by a Venetian fleet, under the great blind Doge Dandolo, captured the city, and set up an emperor of their own choosing.

Not satisfied with his recognition of their friendship they captured the city again in 1204, and this time crowned one of their own leaders, Count Baldwin of Flanders, as Emperor of the East. But the Franks of Europe did not support them; they lacked the sea power to maintain communications with the West, and in 1261 Michael Palaeologus, founder of the last line of Byzantine emperors, was able to overcome the feeble remnant of the giant mail-clad warriors, who for a brief space had promised to renew the glories of the empire's halcyon days.

Over 1,500 young men have enlisted from Colwyn Bay. This is said to represent 90 per cent. of the eligible men.
