Farm Threshing Gives Way To Thrashing in Delhi District.

Simcoe, Sept. 28.—(From our own correspondent)—Arthur J. Smye, has made four real estate deals within two weeks. He sold his suburban home down Norfolk street to Rev. J. Parker, taking over the Bell cottage, in part payment. He sold the cottage to Mrs. Kellum of Townsend and disposed of two parcels of his frontage on Norfolk street south. This morning we found him preparing for laying the foundation of a new residence for himself in the same locality. Mr. Smye will move into town for the winter.

Nasty Quarrel at Farm Threshing.
Wm. Stab, retired farmer of Delhi, is nursing a four inch gash on the crown of the head and a fractured skull, and James Kennedy, a tenant farmer of Con. 11, Charlotteville, spent last night at Castle Robertson, on a remand from E. D. Kitchen, J. P., charged with assault. Constable Sweet delivered the prisoner about eight o'clock last evening. The row took place yesterday.

In the autumn of 1916 Stab sold his farm to the syndicate, and failing to get a suitable house in Delhi, leased his former farm and sowed a field of fall wheat. Later he moved to the village and it is said had an agreement with the company that he should have permission to harvest and thresh his wheat, which he did. It was when he began to bag the wheat for removal, that Kennedy is alleged to have dealt him a severe blow over the head with a fork, the ferrule coming down on Stab's crown. Both men are well over the zenith of life. Kennedy was taken to Delhi this morning for his preliminary trial.

the ladies made satisfactory progress on the work. It was just like a big quilting bee of the old days. It is remarkable how so much work is done through with only the women who work and the boys overseas will ever know or appreciate the services of the mothers, wives and sweethearts and the considerable amount of force on the front line due to the supplies and comforts sent to the men.

RETURNED MINERS
QUALIFY AS BOSSES

Miners in the western provinces who threw down their picks and shouldered guns at the call to arms are going back to the mines in the capacity of bosses due to the opportunities offered them by the Military Hospitals Commission during their convalescence.

In the Institute of Technology in Calgary where the vocational training work of the Commission is carried on under the direction of Dr. James Miller, men who worked in the mines as laborers before they enlisted are being so trained in the classroom that returned soldiers as to become bosses and foremen in the mines where they formerly worked.

Dr. Miller, who is director of technical education for the Province of Alberta, as well as the district vocational training director for the M.H.C., has long been interested in the miners, and several years ago established night classes in which the men might prepare to advance themselves.

Experienced miners may qualify themselves for the certificate of an examiner, an overman, or a manager according to their ability, and many men are making good.

The case of one man, the father of nine children, who left Calgary with one of the first battalions is indicative of the spirit with which the men and instructors are working, and the success they are achieving.

The man was badly wounded and returned to Canada for convalescence, in no condition to take up the laborious work he formerly did in the mines. The opportunity to qualify for a boss's job was given him, and in three months, before his convalescence had been completed, he won his first certificate.

In the weeks following, until he was discharged in July, he took further work for a foreman's position. This course he had not finished when a mining company offered him a position at $4.00 a day, and he is now enrolled on the books of correspondence school, provided by the Commission, for the purpose of continuing his course.

Ability played a big part in the success of this man, according to his instructors, but perseverance, too, figured, and such opportunity as he enjoyed is open to every miner who is desirous of bettering himself by study while he recuperates from his wounds.

EXTREME WEAKNESS AND SUFFERING

Read How Mrs. Gooding got Relief and Strength.

York, Pa.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be all you say it is. I was so sick that I could not stand at my sink to wash dishes and I could not sit without a pillow under me. I had the doctor every few days but since I have taken the Compound I don't have to send for him. I have had three children and could not raise any of them, but since I have taken the Compound I have a bright baby boy. I advise every suffering woman to try it and get relief. It has done wonders for me."—Mrs. CATHERINE GOODING, 138 E. King Street, York, Pa.

When a medicine has been successful in bringing health to so many, no woman has a right to say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." There must be more than a hundred thousand women in this country who, like Mrs. Gooding, have groaned what wonders Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can do for weak and ailing women. Try it and see for yourself.

If there are any complications you don't understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.
