

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., JUNE 26, 1914.

Editorial Notes.

There is always someone somewhere who is anxious to buy what you have to sell, someone who has the article you want to buy. To complete a deal each must know the other's wants, and there is no better way to make these wants known than through the columns of THE ACADIAN.

Mowing the roadside is compulsory in some provinces, but the law that makes it so is seldom enforced. A man ought to have pride enough in his surroundings, and sufficient regard for the rights of others to keep the weeds down without a law that tells him to do so. We would favor every man being permitted to advertise himself with weeds and thistles but for the harm that is done the community by neglect of these pests. The community must be protected from degradation by its delinquent members.

The Scott Act.

The election for the repeal of the Scott Act took place on Thursday and passed off quietly. There was a small vote polled. From returns to hand it would appear that the majority throughout the county is against the act. In Wolfville the vote stood 103 for the repeal of the act and 100 against.

Recent Deaths.

THE ACADIAN records with sorrow this week the death of Mr. James E. Hennigar, of Canning, one of the best known and most highly respected residents of Kings county, who passed suddenly away on Sunday morning last. Mr. Hennigar recently had the misfortune to break his leg but was rapidly recovering and hoped soon to be out again. Intestinal indigestion, of which he had formerly been a sufferer, was the immediate cause of his death, which resulted before medical assistance could be procured. The deceased was the youngest and only surviving son of the late Rev. James G. Hennigar, and was 66 years of age on the first day of April last. For many years he was the energetic secretary-treasurer of the Nova Scotia Camp meeting Association and did splendid service for the Methodist denomination in this and many other capacities. He was an enthusiastic Sunday-school worker and took a deep interest in all departments of religious work. In him the Temperance cause had a warm friend. He will be much missed in this, his native county, and many friends throughout the province will learn with sincere sorrow of his death. Mr. Hennigar, who was a daughter of the late Benjamin and Prudence Pines Woodworth, of Canning, predeceased him about three years ago. He is survived by two daughters, Edith, of West, in Boston, and Kenneth, in Victoria, B. C. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon, the interment being at Hillaton. THE ACADIAN tenders sympathy to the bereaved family.

The death of Lida, wife of Mr. F. W. Woodworth, took place at her home, Pleasant street, yesterday morning, after a prolonged illness. The deceased was a native of Maine and had been a resident of our town for about thirty years. She was a kind-hearted and most estimable lady and had many friends, among whom she will be much missed. Besides her husband she leaves one son, Fred, in Edmoustone, and a daughter, Lavonia, at home. The deceased was in good health as an active worker in the church and temperance work, a good friend and neighbor. Funeral this afternoon at 2.30.

A Sad Affair.

A very sad occurrence took place at Mack River last Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Edgar Porter committed suicide by hanging herself to a beam in the upper part of the house. The deceased had not been in good health for some time and had recently been treated at the Nova Scotia Hospital, where it was proposed she was soon to return. On Saturday she performed her household duties as usual and in the absence of her husband and other members of the family committed the rash act. Dr. Bass went out and held an inquest the verdict being in accordance with the facts.

Guard Baby's Health in Summer.

The summer months are the most dangerous to little ones. The complaints of that season which are cholera infantum, diarrhoea and dysentery come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is really ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is of such aid to the mother during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels and stomach and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Gasoline engines and equipment put in first class order at the WOLFVILLE GARAGE. Now is the time to bring them along and get them ready for spring.

Rambling Remarks on Vacation by a Vacationist.

Now that the Colleges and Schools are closed, and with the approach of the Tourist season and the customary mid-week closing of the stores, not to mention the annual exodus of families to the seaside and lakeside, one's thoughts instinctively turn to that season of the year popularly called 'Vacation Days.' Some who are addicted to this habit are constrained to delve a little deeper into the psychological aspect of the subject, though, alas, many do not, and ask, how can a vacation be made a practical benefit? Or, in other words, how may a vacation, or rather, the effects of a vacation project themselves into the other months of the year, or until vacation time comes round again?

Real rest is not idleness or laziness. No thought of what ye shall eat, or drink, or wherewithal shall ye be clothed does not necessarily imply inactivity, physical or mental. The clothing problem does not require very much intellectual strain anyway or physical either, judging by its comparative absence during July and August. Neither can the influences of a vacation be conserved by unnecessary and irremediable toil and turmoil. This may be the fashionable way of spending a vacation, it certainly is not the rational way. Avoid either extreme.

By the way, there are a number of ways of spending a vacation, of which doubtless my readers are aware. To mention only a few I should think the most popular are: A vacation in the country, at the seaside, at the lakeside, and in travel. The choice should be determined by one's peculiar temperamental make-up and nature of his regular occupation. 'Where the harness binds, the buckle must be loosened.'

Happy is the man who has the faculty of readily adapting himself to his new environment. What is known as 'mental mobility' as a way of spending a vacation is rapidly coming into popular favor. A great many people work and worry so hard in planning a holiday that they absolutely need a vacation to counteract the effects of the period of preparation. This strenuous planning is occasioned in some instances, no doubt, by reasons of their circumscribed opportunities, and limited means; that is to say they have to cut their garment according to their cloth.

Everybody who really works should have the opportunity and means of enjoying a vacation. Generally it is those who need a holiday the most that get the least, whereas those who have both time and means have not the need. However, that by the way. Returning to the contrast between the strenuous life during vacation, and the simple life at such time, there is no justification for certain things that are characteristic of our working life, such as feverishness, haste and anxiety, obtruding themselves into our vacation and leisure, defeating the very object in view. The purpose of life has been altogether too much on the side of learning how to make a living, rather than a desire to learn how to live. To live worthily at work and at play is an ideal we should strive to attain, though we may find it difficult of attainment. By avoiding the extremes of toil and ease during our vacation, let us employ and enjoy the time for the purpose of relaxation, reflection and receptivity. By relaxation I mean a restlessness with 'dull care' shut out; by reflection I mean thinking wise and wholesome thoughts; by receptivity I mean sitting down and leaving to receive new vision and inspiration for life's tasks and service. Such occasions as Summer Schools, we have them in Nova Scotia, at Truro, Berwick and Wolfville.

One word more dear reader and it is this: If you have the means and opportunity of resting awhile, help those who have not unless you and I send along our subscription to one of the numerous Fresh Air Funds. This act will have its reflex action.

Letters to the Editor.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ACADIAN: SIR:—What are the authorities doing to prevent the reckless driving of automobiles and auto bicycles on Main street and other parts of the town?

In all conscience it is bad enough to see an automobile driven at a high rate of speed as can often be seen especially in the vicinity of Mud Bridge but it is a thousand times worse to hear and see the so called two wheeled red devils rounding the same curve at a conservative estimate of fifty miles per hour with no muffler and a streak of dust and with a roar like a locomotive, blinding dazzling and choking people and endangering the lives of children and other pedestrians; and this at all hours of the night and day preventing the weary worker from sleeping after his day of toil.

Some of the riders of these two wheeled contraptions openly boast that they have with a passenger glued on behind driven at the rate of sixty five miles an hour and that within the town limits.

Come, Mr. Councillors, get busy and protect the lives of those you represent and also the lives of the foolhardy and reckless drivers.

The Saving of Child Life.

(ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF THE PUBLIC HEALTH, NOVA SCOTIA.)

Of 36,686 deaths in Nova Scotia during the five years period ended Sept. 30th, 1913, 7,153 (19.5 per cent of the total) occurred in children under the age of one year.

After the end of the first year, the proportion of deaths amongst children deceased as age increased, as follows: During second year 3.3 per cent of the total; during third year, 1.7 per cent of the total; during fourth year, 1.1 per cent of the total; during fifth year, .9 per cent of total.

An analysis of the statistics shows that three of the commoner infectious diseases have a special bearing upon mortality in young children. Thus 55 per cent of all deaths from measles, and 83 per cent of all deaths from whooping cough occurred in children who were less than two years of age, while nearly 60 per cent of those whose death resulted from scarlet fever were under the age of five years. This is in keeping with the experience of most countries. Both measles and whooping cough are especially apt to destroy life in infancy, while scarlet fever claims its largest share of victims from those who are about four or five years of age.

During the five years under consideration, 191 lives were lost to our province through measles, 229 through scarlet fever, and 366 through whooping cough. Such figures indicate very clearly that these diseases are not the trifling ailments which they are commonly thought to be. More over, even when they do not kill they often leave behind exceedingly troublesome and disabling conditions, and they frequently open the way to infection by the germs of pneumonia, tuberculosis and other diseases.

It is the consensus of opinion that increasing age not only renders one less susceptible to these diseases, but that it also protects against a fatal issue and against serious complications and sequelae in those who are attacked.

For these reasons, it follows that every effort should be made to protect young children against infection by these, as by the other, infectious diseases. Deliberate exposure of young children to such infections should be regarded as a criminal procedure, one which not only endangers the life or subsequent healthfulness of the child so exposed but which establishes an additional focus from which infection may spread to other children. The longer the child is enabled to escape infection the more likely it is to escape either completely or with comparatively mild attack.

Sixteen per cent of the deaths which occurred during the first year, and fifteen per cent of those which occurred during the second year of life, resulted from infantile diarrhoea. This condition is mainly caused by improper feeding, and is one of the diseases which might be completely abolished by careful attention to certain simple rules. Success, however, necessitates the co-operation of all who deal in or handle milk, and a thorough system of milk inspection and control is a prime necessity. It is particularly amongst "hand fed" infants that diarrhoeal troubles are found, and mothers should know how to prepare and preserve the milk for their babies.

In five years, no less than 1143 children under one year of age, and 157 children between one and two years of age, died of infantile diarrhoea in Nova Scotia. These deaths were almost confined to the hot months. It is therefore particularly during warm weather that the greatest care must be given to the feeding of young children. Carelessness at this period may cost your baby its life, or may condemn it to lifelong invalidism. They who pine their youth can never look upon their old age.

The Department of the Public Health, Nova Scotia, issues a booklet on the care of the Baby which may be had free upon application to the Provincial Health Officer, Halifax, or to any Medical Health Officer in the province.

The Wonderful Edison Talking Pictures.

The much talked of Edison Talking Pictures, which delighted everybody in Wolfville, were presented here for the first time last night, and announced for another week at the Opera House July 31st and Aug. 1st. Edison may well claim the title of wizard. Wonders come and go with the opening of each new day, but few remain to stand the acid test of time. New forms of amusement are always in demand and the successful ones are those which meet with the approval of an exacting public. When Thomas A. Edison announced that he had perfected an appliance whereby he could show life motion pictures that would repeat in perfect tones the voices of the principals, many smiled at what seemed an impossibility, but when the 'Talkies' are heard and the auditor is convinced that the great inventor has added another jewel to the crown he wears as the world's electrical wizard.

How to Secure Best Results from Fertilizers

Basic Slag, in itself is not a complete fertilizer, as it only supplies Phosphoric Acid and Lime. In order to derive the full benefit from the Slag, Potash (and in some cases Nitrogen) must be used with it, since the same underlying principle demands for plants as well as for animals a "balanced ration."

In Great Britain the beneficial effects from a combination of Basic Slag and Potash are so well known that the term "Slag and Potash" is one with which every farmer is familiar.

Old Country experience with these materials has been amply confirmed by numerous experiments conducted in the Maritime Provinces.

We can supply you with all high grade fertilizer materials, Potash, Nitrate of Soda, Acid Phosphate, Basic Slag, etc., at lowest prices. You can mix these yourself at home and save 25 to 40 per cent. in fertilizer cost. Call and see us.
