SCROFULA

and all eruptions, skin diseases, Bores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Itch, Scabies, Ringworms, Tumors, Carbuncles, Ulcers, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of a poisonous state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and normal condition. AYER'S SASSAPARILLA does this, and is the most powerful and reliable medicine ever discovered, and is the only one that cures the system from all foul humors, venereal diseases, and restores the blood, removes all traces of morbid matter, and gives such a complete course of all scrofulous diseases.

A recent cure of Scrofulous Bores.
"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores, which on my face, the limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the system discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I used failed, until I used AYER'S SASSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved.
I feel very grateful for the good medicine has done me."

For more particulars, see AYER'S SASSAPARILLA, sent free by mail, to all who apply for it.
Solely prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.

AYER'S SASSAPARILLA stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, restores and strengthens the vital force, and quality of the blood, and is the only medicine that cures the system from all foul humors, venereal diseases, and restores the blood, removes all traces of morbid matter, and gives such a complete course of all scrofulous diseases.

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, E. W. BAKER, of Rochester, N.Y., writes, June 7, 1882:

"Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SASSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure.
I consider it a singularly powerful and valuable medicine."

It is inconceivable the change blood strengthens, on account of its stimulant and restorative power over disease.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., U.S.A.
Sold by all Druggists, price 25c, per bottle

Hemlock Timber.

At the last Plenary Council, which was assembled in Baltimore in October, 1886, there were seven archbishops, thirty-eight bishops, thirteen mitred abbots and over one hundred and twenty theologians. The next council will, in all probability, be composed of the same number.

America and the Vatican.

NEW YORK HERALD BUREAU,
ROME, Dec. 29

I have just seen a letter from an influential dignitary of the Roman Catholic Church which cannot fail to be of the greatest interest to all Americans, as being the clearest and most explicit statement ever yet made public of the brilliant hopes which the theologians of the Vatican and of the Propaganda have founded upon Catholicism in the United States, now increasing with such startling rapidity. I am enabled to send you the following exact translation of this most important letter—

The American bishops have been very busy here preparing for the National Council that was to have taken place here shortly after New Year's. The Council, however, has been postponed.
As the presidential election takes place next year, it is deemed wise to wait, and thus avoid the possibility of exciting public opinion at a most susceptible moment. Mgr. Seppi, who was to preside at the Council and fill the functions of the Apostolic Vicar, will not leave Rome as early as he expected.

"The bishops have certainly labored with the greatest zeal and enthusiasm for the organization of their young and brilliant Church, so full of hope, yet surrounded by difficulties. Like all new religious structures, the Church in America has not yet been adapted to a true political existence. The Church of America has not yet been firmly established on the solid basis or paramount excellence of ecclesiastical traditions. It is to mould gradually but surely this institute to the exigencies of canon law and Catholic discipline, that the episco-pate have consecrated the labors of the last few weeks. They have been weekly filled with the most numerous and happily the most fruitful deliberations. The bishops have agreed upon the following points—

1. The bishops are to organize their seminaries according to the principles established by the Council of Trent.

2. Parochial schools are to be established, and in doing so the principles of the first period of the middle ages are to be borne in mind.

3. Commissioners are to be appointed for the administration of ecclesiastical property.

4. For the nomination of curates the system ordained in France is to be adopted, with the exception, of course, of the cooperation of the State, which, unfortunately in America has no relation with the Church. This method of nomination is a point of the utmost importance, for this question bristles with difficulties of the most thorny and multifaceted nature.

5. A system of legislation is to be decided upon for religious marriages.

"Such are the chief resolutions that have been adopted by common accord.
There is every reason to hope that the National Council will conserve these principles by their final and solemn sanction. You thus see that the future of this grand and beautiful Church of America opens with the most brilliant and assuring perspective."

A Review.

I sat in the old churchyard and gazed around. Headstones and footstones which in great profusion about the place and here and there a stately shaft stood proudly guarding the last resting place of some wealthy family. Before me lay a headstone that had broken off, as if it had sought oblivion. It was moss-grown and old. Beneath it was the dust of a human being whose race was run, whose lamp was out. Perhaps he had been old and neglected, as was the stone above him, and in broken-hearted silence he had gone down, to rise again only at the great resurrection day. Love and hate, joy and sorrow, had no more hold upon him, but the clay, from which he had come, embraced him again. Like the humble monument above him, he had been straight and strong, but at last he had broken down and decayed, and is now forgotten. The life of man is but vapor which, he lives, and that is all of earthly existence. A few years, perhaps, he is remembered by friends, but they, too, must follow him, and thus does all memory of him perish, except the story which is told upon the headstone, and that also passes away. This is no new theme, but it is one well worth a moment's study. Near by, a little grave looks fresh and clean, an aged woman, in a quiet care, places flowers upon it, though many years have gone by since this child passed to the other shore and the mother's heart still beats for it, and hopes to meet it in the happy days to come; her memory sees the childish face full of gloe or hears the joyous prattle of the little tongue, and the merry patter of tiny feet are fresh in her mind. How sad the contrast—motherly care and friendless neglect. However, all must end in dust, and some day the grave of the child, and the grave of the man, will be as one. Another day and another race will know them not.

A despatch from Rome says the Pope has created Archbishop Gibbons the Delegate Apostolic, to preside at the Catholic Council at Baltimore in 1884. Archbishop Gibbons will virtually, though not nominally, hold the rank of Papal Legate. The Archbishop, under the date of Dec. 5, writes that the matters discussed by the American bishops will not be the pontifical representatives related entirely to ecclesiastical discipline. The Irish question in this country has not, nor would it be, at all mentioned in the conference. The Holy Father will not send any admonition to the Catholics of America on the Irish question.

The long, light-fitting Jersey cloth scaques will be as fashionable this year as they were last, and are very comfortable and stylish when trimmed with narrow bands of fur.

The new velvet polonaises are simply elegant; some of these have the Louis XIV. vest covered with black silk embroidery or a heavy garniture of jet beaded flowers in applique.

Lord O'Hagan, the first Roman Catholic Lord Chancellor, and first Chancellor ever made a Knight of St. Patrick, suddenly goes near Ireland now. He has married a second wife of an English aristocratic Roman Catholic family, who has given him an heir. They live in London, and are now at Biarritz. Ireland gets small share of the means he made there.

An analysis of the number of marriages in Switzerland, published by the Statistical Office of Berne, shows that the proportion is very low as compared with other countries, being but 7.4 per 1,000 inhabitants. Of every 1,000 men and 1,000 women of marriageable age 49 men and 28 women are married. The figures show a falling off in marriage, and an increase in divorce. The causes are said to be religious differences and an increased mixture of races.

The days of crimson are over in Paris.
Hand-painted fans are much used on ball toilets.

Striped dress goods of every description are in demand.

Opera wraps are mostly in circular form without sleeves.

Frills of lace down the front of the corset are considered more elegant than buttons.

For dancing the short skirt is de rigueur, none but dowagers, wearing trained dresses at balls.

Very elegant French ladies wear undershirts of white cashmere or white satin at home.

Nearly all the latest shoulder caps have a band of fur around the edges, and a fur collar around the neck.

For evening toilettes delicate tints of pink, cream, ocre, amber, garnet, and amethyst silk jerseys are shown.

A pretty toilette consists of a dark royal blue corded silk, with panels and reverse of darkest crimson velvet.

The evening cloak par excellence is of cashmere lined with plush, and having a crispe hood trimmed with lace.

Pretty Parisian capotes are made of netted applique on colored lace, with a bunch of velvet flowers on one side.

The large protruding capote is the shape most generally adopted by women of fashion this winter, on all occasions when the Fanchon is not admissible.

Plain black velvet is still used for dresses but is no longer employed for large cloaks. In short, plain silk or wool is only used as an accessory for figured stuffs.

The straight high dog collar is affected by ladies with long slender throats.
These dog collars are generally of dark velvet, stiff, with gold, silver, steel, or pearl embroidery.

scaques will be as fashionable this year
narrow bands of fur.

elegant; some of these have the Louis
XIV. vest covered with black silk em-
beaded flowers in applique.
