War News.

The Last Plank.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, July 28. The Austro-Hungarian Government declared war against Serbia today by a manifesto which is one of the briefest of the momentous documents in history. Germany paved the way for this declaration by announcing her rejection of the British scheme to bring the four Powers together in a conference for mediation. Germany explained to the public that her ally could not be expected to submit her acts to a European Council, as though she were one of the Balkan States. This announcement preceded the declaration of war by only two hours and gave an exhibition of the perfectly harmonious working of the partnership between two nations which stood firmly together through the Bosnia crisis of 1908. The centre of interest has shifted sharply to St. Petersburg which holds the decision whether the European war which probably would shift the balance of power if not re-arrange the entire map in Europe to break out. Negotiations are on foot there between the Russian Foreign Minister, Sergius Sazonov, and the Austrian Ambassador which are designed to localize the conflict. The nature and progress of these conversations are wrapped in thickest mystery, but they are to supply the neutral powers to cling to in a storm which may wash all under. There is no doubt in British minds that Austria had fully resolved to utilize the provocation afforded by the Sarajevo murders to wipe the slate clean of all accounts against Serbia and served an ultimatum on her which was designed to have no result save war. There is absolutely no enthusiasm in England for war, no desire for this particular war which confronts Britain, yet there is a general belief that her obligations to her partners in the Triple Entente as well as her interests as a great European power will force her to support Russia and France in any steps they may take. Dark developments to-day are received without excitement but with the deepest gloom. The immediate effect of the war cloud is likely to be a compromise on Home Rule, since all parties feel domestic dissensions must be settled at all costs. In face of peril from without, the fierce demands of the Conservative papers for a general election have been wholly hushed, and the Foreign Office has become the most important branch of the Government. No one wants to risk the possibility of losing Sir Edward Grey with his exceptional influence in the councils of Europe. The Government is confronting the situation with perfect calmness.

There is no sign of unusual events at the Foreign Office, except Premier Asquith, who seldom visits that office, called there this evening and conferred with Sir Arthur Nicholson, Permanent Under-Secretary. The Austrian Ambassador came to make the formal announcement of the declaration of war. Warships of the British fleet everywhere are taking on supplies. Soon after it became definitely known that Austria and Serbia were at war, all officers and sailors ashore at Portland and Weymouth were summoned back to their ships.

Germany Would Strike Hard.

Special to Evening Telegram.
BERLIN, July 28. No confirmation had been received up to a late hour this evening either by the German Foreign Office or Russian Embassy of the mobilization of various army corps in Russia, reported in yesterday's despatches to London. German officials declared flatly that any Russian mobilization against Austria, partial or otherwise, meant war. German mobilization orders would then, he said, immediately be issued. When these once had been launched there would be no possibility of recalling them or of Germany resting on her arms while negotiations continued, as the strategic necessities of war of her two frontiers would force Germany to strike immediately hard. The opinion is expressed in well informed Russian circles to-day, however, that a partial mobilization of Russian troops along the Austrian frontier is quite probable as an answer to the Austrian declaration of war on Serbia. Russia Peaceful.

Special to Evening Telegram.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 28. The Russian Government to-night issued the following official communication: "Numerous patriotic demonstrations the last few days in St. Petersburg and other cities prove the firm pacific policy of Russia and finds a sympathetic echo among all classes of the population." The Government hopes nevertheless, the expression of feeling of the people will not be tinged with enmity against a power with whom Russia is at peace and with whom she wishes to remain at peace. While the Government gathers strength from this wave of popular feeling, it expects its subjects to retain their reticence and tranquility.

Belgrade Occupied.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-Day. Reports were received in Paris, Berlin and London to indicate that Austrian troops have crossed the Danube into Serbian territory. Two army corps occupied Belgrade without resistance, according to word reaching Austrian Embassy in Paris. Unofficial reports in Berlin and London declare a detachment of Austrians invaded Serbia at Mitrovic, fifty miles north-west of Belgrade. The Serbians, it is stated, withdrew from the advance of the Austrians. Unconfirmed reports declared it was announced in Vienna that hostilities would be started at daybreak to-day.

McMurdo's Store News.

WEDNESDAY, July 29, 1914.

A tin of "Water Glass" or Egg Preservative will cost you but 15 cents, and it will if used according to directions preserve six dozen eggs for an indefinite period. Many people manage by this means greatly to reduce their egg bill yearly, and the method of using it is so simple that the wonder is that it is not more largely in use. One fifteen cent tin will make a gallon of egg preserving fluid. For those who intend to sow Cabbage Seed at this season to grow winter cabbage plants, we would put in a reminder that we have a good stock of the popular American seeds, admitted to be the best kind for this purpose. Price 20 cents an ounce.

N.S. Directors & Guests

VISIT WABANA MINES.

Mr. Thomas Cantley, General Manager of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co., and Mr. R. Chambers, manager of the Company's ore mines and quarries, together with Directors J. Walter Allison, of Halifax, a Director of the Bank of Nova Scotia, and Lorne C. Webster, a well known Canadian financier, have spent the past four days at Wabana inspecting the Company's properties at that town. Hon. E. H. Armstrong, Commissioner of Public Works and Mines in the Nova Scotia Government; Hon. Robert Drummond, M.L.C., of Stellarton, Editor of the Mining Record; W. R. McCarty, News Editor of the Halifax Herald; and Don. F. Fraser, of the Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow, are guests of the Directors on this tour of inspection. The visitors were convinced that there is enough ore on the Nova Scotia areas to keep the Company profitably engaged for hundreds of years.

PEACE CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE, 1899. The outcome of the deliberations consists of three parts: The first deals with the settlement of international disputes by arbitration; the second deals with the laws and customs of war; the third deals with the application to naval warfare of the principals of the Geneva Convention.

DEFEAT OF THE SPANISH ARMADA 1588. The naval expedition fitted out by Philip II. of Spain was composed of 129 ships manned by 8,000 sailors and carried 19,000 soldiers. Elizabeth's force consisted of only 80 ships manned by 9,000 sailors under Lord Howard, but excellent maneuvering and a gale combined so effectively to cripple the Spanish ships that at length the Armada was scattered in helpless confusion.

Household Notes.

The little brass rings that can be bought for a few cents make excellent hangers for boys' clothing. Sew the rings in armbands or waistbands. A tea-basket acts as a sort of cosy, the tea being brewed in another pot, then strained and put into the tea-basket, where it will keep hot for an hour.

If Orinetal rugs are soiled, they can be cleaned with a suds made of a good naphtha soap. Rub with the nap; not against it. Rinse several times with clear water.

Blackberries can be prepared for winter in half a dozen different ways. They can be canned, preserved, pickled, made into paste, catsup, cordial, vinegar, jam and jelly.

When making tucks in children's dresses, stitch in the tuck on the wrong side of the hem, using a chain-stitch machine. Nothing is easier than to rip it out when the time comes.

To cover jelly glasses, cut letter paper in circular pieces that will just fit inside the glass, and dip the paper in brandy, cover with tin covers or large pieces of paper pasted down.

Watercress stands at the head of all vegetables as a blood purifier, and it is not always necessary to make it into salad to be palatable, for it is appetizing eaten plain, with bread and butter.

Never cover spinach while boiling; and remember that a pinch of soda will preserve the green color. A handful of sorrel may be tossed in while boiling if you would have the flavor slightly acid.

To reacquaint a brass bed, rub the brass vigorously with a flannel dipped in whitening, then dissolve 10 cents' worth of salicic in enough alcohol to make it thin. Apply with a small brush.

When stewing fruit of any kind in a steam cooker, always place it in a basin or some earthenware dish inside the cooker. Fruit should never be cooked in a metal saucepan, as both flavor and color will be spoiled.

Rose geranium jelly can be made with apples prepared as for ordinary apple jelly. Just when the jelly is in the syrup stage pass a bunch of rose geranium leaves (which have been carefully washed) through it several times.

Garlic, like cayenne, is a good servant, a very bad master. Cut a clove in half and make a cross at bottom of salad bowl, or write a magic number as do some of the French chefs, and you will have plenty of the garlic flavor.

Clarke Griffith.

Red McGhee says:

If you like jumble puzzle stunts here's one you oughta try just once. Take Griffith's last name some night, cut out the letters, s h a k e them well, then drag out five. You'll find they spell the c' boy's keynote—FIGHT. There's no dis-putin' when it's said that Griff's a fighter, born an' bred, who never says "enough." When he first hit the big league show as pitcher he was never slow to call the next man's bluff.

An' while we're talkin', don't forget that Griff was one swell pitchin' bet before he quit the box. He saved his arm and used his head. That brainy stuff back there's what led the folks to call him Fox. He bodied the Highlanders, then turned his crafty, fightin' smile on sleepy Washington. The gang down there was grogged an' slow. They didn't have no pep nor go. Griff fired a startin' gun.

He woke that town up from its trance an' made the team get out an' dance. He poured in bran' new blood. The rest you know as well as me. He's got 'em runnin' one-two-three—they've come up like a flood. The last few years the other teams have seen the O' Fox in their dreams he's sure some bugaboo. He keeps his team up 'round the top an' some they'll step out an' cop.—B'gosh, I hope they do.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the office. An order is received at the office, and finally payment is received at the office. If the office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessary, this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—417-15

Olsechski knew the Brown family was away from home, and when he saw Wolf leaving the house he opened fire. The first shot pierced Wolf's heart. The slayer surrendered.

Ne'son's Autograph Letters Are Sold.

London, July 22.—A collection of Lord Nelson's autograph letters addressed to Lady Nelson, and commencing with one written to her when she was yet Mrs. Nisbet, realized $11,000 in the sale room here. There are 232 letters in the collection, of which 29 were written prior to his marriage, and the last dated 1800, brings his marital story down to the date of his separation.

The effect of the letters is to show that the Nelson-Nisbet marriage was a love match. Letters written by Lady Nelson in a vain effort to retain her husband's affection when Lady Hamilton had cast her spell upon him, appear with several of the hero's own accounts of his battles and biographies of his wills. Forty of the letters were written with the left hand.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Divorced Life

by Helen Hessong Fuesate

Children of the Stage

Marian's night at the Vellquette with the ingenue bore fruit in the form of a manuscript entitled "Children of the Stage." The story was simple in plot, but loaded with details of real life. It flowed spontaneously from her pen. She let it rest overnight, and the next morning attacked the manuscript ruthlessly for revisions. By noon she had rewritten it from start to finish, and started hopefully for the office of Gillys, editor of The Cheering Hour Magazine.

Gillys read her latest effort with apparent interest, and Marian waited breathlessly for his comments. "I think you've done it this time," said Gillys after a while. "You've got some real stuff in here."

"Then you'll take it?" demanded Marian with the eagerness of a repeatedly repulsed contributor.

Gillys squirmed. Sweeping repudiation orders had been issued by the owner of the struggling magazine. Times were bad, and advertising support meagre. But Gillys gazed into the blue pools of Marian's wistful eyes and was conquered by the quiet spell of her personality.

"Wait a minute," he replied, pulling himself together, and manuscript in hand, started for the inner office of Shurtleff, his chief. To Marian's anxious ears came unintelligible bits of sentences as the two men conferred.

"He wants to see you," said Gillys, reappearing, and conducting Marian into the presence of a dapper looking, clean-cut fellow of thirty-five, who had made a handsome little fortune in the mail order business in the West, with which he had invaded New York for a fling at the hazardous game of magazine publishing. Gillys introduced the two and retired.

"It's a crime," he muttered when the two had disappeared, "for a sweet, fine young woman like that to be thrown up with him."
