Co., and the rector gave them a note for the other $175, signed by himself, and also bearing the names of Messrs. Wyid and Green, the churchwardens. Dr. Armstrong sold the note to a relative, Miss Carey. On her death the note fell into the hands of her executors, and on payment being demanded, Trinity Church denied responsibility. Mr. Wyld is in England, while Mr. Green denied on oath that he ever signed the note or ever saw it, though he admits the signature is an exact copy of his own. Per contra, Rev. Dr. Armstrong swore that Green did sign it. Mr. Kittermaster, counsel for Mr. Green, suggested that the signature of his client was probably obtained by means of a gelatine pad, on which the financial statement, signed by Messrs. Wyld and Green, churchwardens, had been transferred for the purpose of being printed for the members of the congregation. Counsel for Dr. Armstrong de-nounced the statement as base and cowardly. The church claimed that as a corporate body, it knew nothing of the purchase of the organ; never authorized it by vote of the vestry; never instructed the churchwardens topledge the church credit for its wardens to pledge the church credit for its purchase or for any part of the purchase money. It appeared the organ was a free gift from the congregation, and its churchwardens and members always understood that it was paid for and no debt remained against it. The jury decided that Green signed the notes that the organ was purchased with note; that the organ was purchased with the consent of the churchwardens and congregation, and that Miss Carey believed that she was getting the security of Trinity Church, as a corporation, by the signatures of the churchwardens. The judge entered pro forma against the defendants Armstrong and Green, until the sitting of the fall court in January, when the question would be argued by counsel. Mr. Hell-

Dec. 22.—The commencement exercises in connection with the Ridgetown Collegiate Institute were held last evening in Porter's opera house. The programme consisted of giees, recitations and Les Poses Plastiques, closing with Shakespeare's play, "Much Ado About Nothing." The whole pro-gramme was exceedingly well rendered, and received very liberal applause from a wellpleased audience. The R. C. I. Literary Society have in previous years held their entertainments in the assembly room of the school. This year they concluded to hold the meeting in the opera house and bid for a larger patronage from the public. The result fully justified their choice, as the house was packed by the many friends and admirers of the institute.

of the Aldermanic Continuation Boodle Investigation in Toronto.

Damaging Testimony by Capt. Beavis and Others-How Votes Were Changed.

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—The municipal investigation was resumed yesterday. Capt. John Beavis, of Beavis & Redway, who tried to get a lease of the Ashbridges Bay marsh in 1891, swore that Alderman Small secured an agreement in writing that he should get $3,000 paid him in the event of the lease going through. Ald. Hewitt got a similar agreement to get $2,000. Two other aldermen were promised money. Their names were not announced, but were written and handed to the counsel by the Hugh Ryan, the well-known contractor, not true. and a great friend of the late G. W. Kiely, said Kiely had told him the securing of the street railway franchise had cost him $30,000. The impression left on his mind was that the money had been spent in connection with aldermen.

Ex-Ald. E. King Dodds swore that Coleman had asked him to approach an alder-man who opposed the Kiely-Everett syndicate to endeavor to change his vote. Coleman told him there would be something in it for the alderman if he changed. Witness did not speak to the alderman.

Ex-Ald. Small swore it was untrue that he was negotiating with Hewitt and Guelich on the one hand, and Mr. Me-Kenzie, of the street railway company, on the other. He got $240 from Everett last April in connection with the Sunday car vote, on account of witness brother for services rendered. 'The statement that I approached Capt. Beavis directly or in-directly for money to the extent of either $1,000 or $3,000 is false, and when Capt. Beavis says I did, he deliberately lies," said ex-Ald. Small. "I never heard money mentioned in connection with this franchise until now."

Ald. Jolliffe deposed that Beavis told him some eighteen months ago that he had made an agreement with Small over the Ashbridges Bay scheme, whereby Small was to get $2,000 if the thing passed the city council. Witness had not made this statement before because Mr. Beavis might have refused to corroborate him, and then where would he have been ? Secretary Grace, of the street railway company, recalled, admitted that the storekeeper, under his instructions, had given ex-Ald. Bell's son an order for coal in June, 1891.

Q .- Did Fred Coleman speak to you about this order? A .- Yes; he asked me if we would give an order to Bell. I said we would. He did not say why he wanted the order given to Bell. Q -Did you or did you not connect Ald.

Bell's position in connection with that Witness was very evasive, and Mr. Nes-

FROM NORTHERN NORWAY.

A Valuable Discovery Made in That

Far-Off Land. The Wonderful Remedial and Nourishing properties of Cod-liver Oil-A Priceless Gift from the "Land of the Midnight

There has been nothing discovered by medical sciences to take the place of Cod Liver Oil. It is somewhat singular that there should be obtained from the livers of cod fish a nourishment and remedial agent which cannot be supplanted by some other food-medicine, but. nevertheless, such is the undisputed fact.

How Cod Liver Oil was discovered is not definitely known. It is certain, however, that up in the cold regions of the north the natives long ago made use of all the parts of the fish they caught that could possibly be made available for food, and it is probable that the Laps of Northern Norway have known the virtues of Cod Liver Oil for a century. They found that in Cod Liver Oil were nourishing powers not possessed by any other food or medicine within their reach, and they were not slow to avail themselves of the benefit of a substance so easy for them to obtain. About 50 years ago the medical world in civilized countries became impressed with Cod Liver Oil, and by close observation and experiment physicians found that Cod Liver Oil could be made a wonderful help to their profession. The result of investi-gation proved that after Cod Liver Oil was muth, of London, counsel for Dr. Armstrong, has decided to take the case, as far taken into the system it became an emulas it affects his client, direct to the Court of sion, just as milk is an emulsion of butter. This knowledge resulted twenty years ago in the appearance of Scott's Emulsion, which has now become a world-famed preparation. Scott's Emulsion has taken the place of Cod-liver Oit, that is, in its raw state. Scott's Emulsion and Cod-liver Oil are of course one and the same thing, except that in Scott's Emulsion the taste of the oil is completely disguised, and all of the objections advanced by a nervous person with a weak stomach are entirely overcome. Scott's Emulsion saves the digestive organs the work of converting the oil into an emulsion, but it does not result in any unnatural process of digestion and assimilation.

Scott's Emulsion aids the digestion of other foods in the stomach, and is then passed on and assimilated in the natural way. Anything which is either digested or assimilated in an unnatural manner should be taken only on a doctor's prescription. The indorsement by physicians of Scott's Emulsion is no bombast or bancombe. In all diseases or unhealthy conditions indicated by excessive wasting, Scott's Emulsion aids medical science more than any other nourishment. Scott's Emu sion helps a dyspeptic person by aiding the digestion of other foods, and to a person who is failing in health it gives increased appetite and promotes the making of solid flesh and gives vital strength. It enriches the blood, makes new lung-tissue and overcomes all wasting tendencies. In cases of inflammation of throat and lungs Scott's Emulsion has no equal in power to afford quick relief. It cures the most stubborn cough, soothes and cures sore throat, and overcomes all the early stages of consumption.

In the wa-ting of the vital elements of the blood Scott's Emulsion also works wonders. Anaemic or scrofulous persons are made well by it, and there is restored the pure skin and healthy color.

It is almost useless to refer to Scott's Emulsion as a nourishment for babies and children. Its name is a household word in hundreds of thousands of families where there were thin babies and children who were thin and pale. Babies and children thrive on Scott's Emulsion. It insures a healthy growth.

Scott's Emulsion is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1. Pamphlet mailed free on application to Scott & Bowne, Belleville,

Man and His Team of Horses

GUELPH, Dec. 23.-James Crane, of Puslinch township, five miles from here, was at Hespeler selling poultry on Friday. and when seen leaving that place for home after 9 at night, was said to be under the influence of liquor. While driving out of town he ran against a buggy on Main street, upsetting it, but he kept right on as if nothing had becomed and nothing more if nothing had happened, and nothing more was heard of him until his team was found drowned in Krib's mill dam, about a mile out of Hespeler. The water was run off, and Crane's body was found not far from the horses. Deceased leaves a wife and family.

MIDDLESEX MATTERS.

A Mr. Kerr, of Lobo, while traveling homeward on Friday evening last, near Mount Carmel, was accosted by some highwaymen, but he urged his team forward and the would-be robbers fired two shots after him, one of which went clean through the hat he was wearing. There is no clue the hat he was wearing. There is no clue to the parties.

Collector Morgan, of Adelaide, has returned his roll to the board of control with only $2.67 uncollected, and in this case reported no effects.

The candidates for public preferment at the municipal elections in Adelaide township are likely to be Messrs. Robotham, Brock and Morgan for reeve; Messrs. Cuddy and Bowley for deputy; Messrs. Angus Knight, Wm. Carruthers, Wm. Armstrong (Kerwood) and John Brown.

There will be a warm contest for municipal terms of the statement of th
