

ONE DOZEN HAPPY LONDON KIDDIES

School's Out

DR. M. MACLAREN NOMINATED
AS PRESIDENT OF PHYSICIANS;
NEXT MEETING AT ST. JOHN, N.B.

Sir James Grant Made an Honorary Life Member of Canadian Medical Association—Dr. Frank Billings, of Chicago, Attacks the Methods of Handling Vaccines and Serums.

Dr. Murray MacLaren, of St. John, N. B., this morning received the unanimous nomination of the Canadian Medical Association as president-elect for the coming year. This means that Dr. MacLaren will be elected to the presidency at the next meeting of the association. The executive committee announced that the next place of meeting would be St. John, N. B.

In a brief speech, Dr. MacLaren thanked his colleagues for the honor conferred upon him, and expressed the hope that the pleasant, interesting and instructive session just closing would be duplicated next year in St. John. He made a hit when he referred to the cooling sea-breezes to be enjoyed down there.

This afternoon's session will be the closing one of the meeting, and will take the form of a clinical lecture by Dr. John B. Murphy, a noted surgeon of Chicago.

Londoners Thanked.

The meeting in London has been in many respects one of the best ever held by the association. The lectures have all been of immense value to medical men, and arrangements made by the local doctors for the convention have been very complete and satisfactory. Appreciation of their efforts and of the efforts of the citizens in general to make the meeting a success was expressed in a resolution passed this morning, thanking the mayor and council, the local doctors and ladies, who assisted them, the hydro electric commission, and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Leonard for the large part they played in helping to entertain the visitors.

Sir James Grant Honored.

Sir James Grant, of Ottawa, was honored by the association by being made an honorary member of the association for life, in view of distinguished services in the past. Out of the forty-six meetings he has missed only three.

The thanks of the association were also tendered the retiring secretary, Dr. Archibald, and appreciation of his tact, patience and executive ability expressed.

A medical clinic, conducted by Dr. Frank Billings, of Chicago, proved of intense interest to the large number of medical men who attended it. Dr. Billings dealt with the treatment of arthritis or disease of the joints.

Too Much "Vaccine."

A number of patients suffering from affections of the joints were used by Dr. Billings in bringing out the points of his lecture. He was loudly applauded when he attacked the present methods of handling vaccine in the United States. Drug firms manufacture vaccines for nearly every known disease, and even go so far as to combine a number of cultures of various kinds to make a vaccine supposed to act as a sort of cure-all for disease. He was a believer in the use of vaccine, he said, it was without question valuable in the treatment of some diseases, but the manufactured vaccines were often entirely unsuited for the purpose for which they are sold, and were likely to have serious effects on the patient. He urged the doctors to prepare vaccine for themselves when a case seemed to demand its use. In the treatment of joint affections rest and a cheerful atmosphere were quite as essential as the vaccine he said. It was important that the patient be kept in a cheerful frame of mind and not allowed to become discouraged.

Care should also be taken to see that the mobility of the joints was not impaired, otherwise ancolosis would set in, and the patient lose the use of his limb. Ancolosis, or the growing together of the joints, was practically incurable except in its earliest stages. Dr. Billings remarks were loudly applauded by the doctors.

For a week London has perspired, has flocked to the cool drink fountains, has fanned itself, bathed itself and alternately berated Old Sol and Juno, who has interfered with picnics, camp sports and a few other things in the "too numerous to mention" category. During the same week the farmer has been grilling for the alternate rain and heat spells bumper crops. Tip at Carling's Heights the Canadian militia from Western Ontario has been getting a real taste of life under canvas, with various atmospheric changes thrown in, in spite of the diaphanous of strawberries and cream that so exercised one old campaigner.

The Hottest Yet.

Yesterday 88 was as high as the official thermometer recorded. At noon today the "official" heat was 90 in the shade. It promised to go higher.

With one eye cocked heavenwards the amateur weather prophet declared early today that it was going to rain. The clouds said that it would. They said that yesterday. They did more than say it. They "talked" rain several times. Each time they talked it rained like the proverbial "bucketful."

Even at that there wasn't so much rain. Thursday's Rainfall.

With the total rainfall of last night added to that of yesterday, there is less than half an inch. A fall of half an inch is not surprising at this time of year, even though it did incalculable good to grain and grass crops throughout the country. At the official station in South London the rainfall is recorded as .024 for last night, and .029 for yesterday.

Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon there blew up a storm from the north that had every earmark of the cyclone variety of windstorm. It lasted over the city, however, with little more damage than a number of telephones put out of commission by the lightning, some trees wrecked, and similar minor accidents. The general appearance of the clouds, however, and the velocity of the wind that accompanied them, caused thoughts of cyclone cellars and similar refuges to come to the minds of the more timid.

One feature of the afternoon's storm was the fact that the thermometer dropped nearly 20 degrees in almost as many minutes. In less than an hour it had come down below 60 (unofficial thermometer) from its previous high mark of 88.

Camp Will Be Thing

ONE OF THE BEST EVER

Revelle will sound in vain Saturday morning as far as the soldiers who for the past ten days have been encamped at Carling's Heights. By that time they will all have reached their homes and the camp of 1913 will be a matter of history. The work of breaking up camp started early this morning, and before noon the camp grounds had begun to take on a deserted appearance, as row after row of tents were struck. By nightfall the big field will be changed from the animation and life of a military camp to a peaceful golf course. "One of the best we have ever held" seems to be the unanimous verdict of the officers with respect to this year's camp.

RAIN IN MANITOBA.

Winnipeg, June 27.—There was a copious rainfall throughout Manitoba last night with great benefit to crops, which in most parts are badly in need of moisture. The outlook is greatly improved as a consequence.

YOUNG LONDON IS OUT TO PLAY

Nine Thousand Public School Children Have Put Away Books for the Summer—The Holidays
Have Arrived.

Green fields, where lazy birds lay their big, speckled eggs in the gray-bird's nest, shady pools, where minnows bite at naked toes, vacant lots, where young Tecumseh's engage in strenuous conflict, air rifles, fishing-tackle, sling-shots, boy scouts on cross-country treks, and giving life-saving demonstrations at summer resorts, Little Willie turning somersaults in the big hay mow at Cousin Johnnie's on the farm, while Aunt Mary is teaching little Ethel how to make apple sauce, oh, and green apples and wild black berries, and the birds and the flowers and the bees, for two whole months.

"School's Out."

Now to sum up the meaning of this futuristic preamble is simply this: "Schools out." The public schools of the city close today, and the boys and girls will fling their school books aside until next September. No, literally being well trained, boys and girls as might be expected of pupils of the London schools, they will carefully put them away on the topmost shelf. This afternoon the teachers are reading examination papers and counting up marks. But the boys and girls themselves are through. They will anxiously watch for the results for a day or two, but already they are off to the music of glad holiday time.

Busy Playgrounds.

Next week the supervised playgrounds will be the busiest spots in the city, and the boys and girls will be swarming like light-hearted, care-free butterflies, about the swings, maypoles, teeters, and sand piles. Nearly nine thousand kiddies will be released from the school room today, in numbers enough to make a small city.

Young London is out to play.

PRESIDENT LEFT

Heartiest Good Feeling Shown
All Through Celebrations
Attending Visit.

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 27.—President Raymond Poincaré, after being the guest of King George and the British nation since Tuesday, left this morning for France amid a great display of cordial enthusiasm. King George, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, and his son, Prince Arthur of Connaught, together with a brilliant assemblage of court dignitaries, cabinet ministers, and military and naval officers, gathered at Victoria Station to bid him farewell.

Great crowds lined the streets from York House to the station and loudly acclaimed the president as he passed, for during his short stay he has made himself extremely popular.

Battleships Salute.

The royal train placed at his disposal by the King took him to Dover, where he embarked on a French warship amid deafening salutes from a fleet of twenty-six powerful British and French warships, dressed in rainbow fashion with the French and British colors intertwined.

Several of the British battleships acted as an escort to the president across the channel.

A Brilliant Scene.

The state ball, which the King and Queen gave at Buckingham Palace last night in honor of the French president was one of the most brilliant of the season's court functions. The guests numbered fully two thousand, and the glitter of uniforms and of ladies' dresses, in which elaborate jewelled embroidery were a feature, made a magnificent picture.

Queen Mary wore a gown of Indian gold and green spot tissue, with a deep patterned gold border outlined with diamonds and emerald embroidery, emerald and diamond suite, and the Order of the Garter.

Titanic Suit Settled
$500 for Son Killed

[Canadian Press.]

London, June 26.—The King's bench court today gave judgment in favor of Thomas Ryan, an Irish farmer who had brought suit against the White Star Steamship Company to recover damages for the loss of his son in the Titanic disaster. The judge awarded Ryan the sum of $500, which had been agreed upon, and the costs of the suit. A similar award was made in two other cases at the same time.

Mysterious Affair, in Which a Woman Figured, Is Being Investigated.

Hamilton June 27.—Railway detectives left for Jarvis today to investigate a mysterious murderous assault of two Grand Trunk trainmen at that place last night. The victims are James Carmichael, a conductor, and J. Farschweizer, a brakeman, both of this city.

Woman on Tracks.

They were part of the crew on the 6:30 train, which was brought to a sudden stop at a crossing in Jarvis by the engineer just in time to avoid striking a woman. The conductor and brakeman jumped off and ran towards the engine to see what was the matter. They were about half the length of the train when the thugs jumped out from between two freight cars and attacked them.

Used Coupling Pins.

It is believed that the assailants used coupling pins. Carmichael was kicked in the face as he lay helpless on the ground, and after breaking the brakeman's legs, the thugs kicked him until other trainmen, hearing the scuffle, approached. Both the victims were brought here, and will be laid up for several days. They could give no explanation of why the men attacked them.

WIDESPREAD SORROW OVER
DEATH OF "BOB" COWAN

Many Expressions of Regret at Sudden Demise of Popular Attorney.

There was genuine sorrow in legal circles this morning at the sudden death of R. K. Cowan, local master in chancery and deputy registrar of the high court, on Wednesday. At the courthouse and at the county buildings, where his office was, the expression of sympathy and regret at the sudden demise of "Bob" Cowan came from the heart. He was possibly the most popular attorney in London, and his happy smile and genial manner had won for him a place in the hearts of his brother lawyers that will be hard to fill.

"Bob" Cowan's office is being filled temporarily by Edmund Weld, deputy clerk of the crown.

A boy was drowned in the Thames River at 3 o'clock this afternoon, according to reports received just as The Advertiser went to press.

His name could not be learned. The police and fire brigade was notified, and grappling irons taken to the bridge in preparation for searching for the body.

The London Sulphur Springs reported at 3:15 that there was nothing in the report. It had been stated that a boy was drowned, but it was a false alarm.

Collingwood Chief Predicts Arrest Before Night in Calbeck Case.

INQUEST STORY IS NOT CREDITED

Provincial Police Will Likely Present Some Important
New Evidence.

[Canadian Press.]

Collingwood, June 27.—That there will be an arrest made before night in connection with the shooting on June 19 of the wife of James Calbeck, Jun., was the opinion expressed here today by Chief of Police McLaughlin.

The coroner's jury meets at 1 o'clock to receive the results of the investigation pursued here during the last few days by Provincial Detective Reburn, and the chief intimates that the evidence would be very important, and that the responsibility for the shooting would be fixed to an extent sufficient to warrant summary action.

As to the new developments Chief McLaughlin and Detective Reburn were both reticent.

County Crown Attorney Cotter, of Barrie, arrived in town last night, and today conducted a private examination of the new witnesses secured, preparing his case for the jury.

Mrs. Calbeck, a woman of about 25, was shot through the body with a bullet from a 22-calibre rifle of an antiquated pattern. Her husband and her husband's father, James Calbeck, sen., were in the house at the time, and they called the neighbors and a doctor, stating that the woman had been accidentally shot by her son, James, aged about 15. The story was that the child was suffering from a toothache, and that the mother was sitting with him in the kitchen. The child was playing with the rifle, and with it resting on the stable, pulled the trigger.

Wanted an investigation.

A strong feeling that the story should be investigated resulted in an inquest being opened on June 18 before Coroner Dr. McPaul, an adjournment being made later to permit of some inquiries by the provincial detective, whose time, apparently, has not been wasted, since the case developed important features. Those who were occupants of the house on the night of the shooting have been kept under a quiet police surveillance to insure their presence if required.

Public opinion in the town seems to favor the theory that the child was not responsible for the shooting.

The Calbecks were married about six years ago, and in addition to the boy, James, had a daughter of 12 years, while the woman at the time of her death was in a delicate condition. Calbeck had worked for the corporation and at other odd jobs, and his wife was a hard-working woman, who looked older than her years. John Birnie, K.C., is looking after the interests of the Calbecks in the case. The evidence of Dr. Arthur, who conducted the postmortem, will be heard this afternoon, and it is expected that at least one of the Calbecks will be recalled to the stand.
