

Consumption to Be Combated

Important Meeting on Government Building's Grounds Yesterday Afternoon.

Dr. Fagan's Strong Appeal For Help For the Helpless.

(From Thursday's Daily.) Yesterday afternoon on the grounds behind the legislative building a meeting of those interested in checking the spreading of the dread disease, tuberculosis, was held at the call of Dr. C. J. Fagan, provincial medical officer of health. The attendance was representative, the clergy of various denominations, the members of the provincial executive and other public figures being present. There was also a large attendance of the general public, many of whom were interested in the proceedings.

Mayor Barnard occupied the chair, and briefly opened the meeting, pointing out in a general way the importance of the situation, and bespeaking a careful hearing for the remarks of Dr. Fagan and the other speakers.

It may be said that the meeting was held in one of the tents which it is proposed to use until a proper sanitary camp can be erected by public subscription and maintained by the same. The tent is in the form of a large marquee, with walls sufficient to keep out the sun, and with flaps which can be folded back as to leave the whole of one side open to the weather, if necessary.

Dr. Fagan then explained the object of the meeting, and said that it was not proposed to do a great deal of talking. The committee had made an honest effort to obtain financial assistance, but he regretted much to report that they had failed. They, therefore, proposed to make an appeal to the public at large, feeling that those who were in a position to assist had not done so.

He hardly needed to point out the urgent necessity of doing something at once. The terrible disease, consumption, spared no nation, respected neither age nor sex, and was found amongst persons of every occupation. Rich and poor, robust and indrun were alike exposed to its ravages. It was the duty of everyone to join in the struggle against the people from this awful scourge. It was the appalling fact that 80 per cent. of the population of the city at some time of their lives by this disease. As consumption's attack on the human race is so general, it is not surprising that it is a solemn and sacred duty for every citizen to do his utmost to help to stop the ravages of this universal disease.

For the first time in a number of years the different interests came to an agreement at the beginning of the season and the result was a product that was not only of good quality but also of good price. The pack this year is fully 100,000 cases, and the price is not over 200,000 cases all told. It is a little early for the season, but it will not vary much from the above estimate.

The pack this year is fully 100,000 cases, and the price is not over 200,000 cases all told. It is a little early for the season, but it will not vary much from the above estimate.

One peculiar feature of the year has been that the season has opened on a basis of comparative quiet, while the general market has been in a state of depression, and as far as the commercial interests of the province are concerned, the season has been a disappointment.

The cold storage pack is about equally disappointing. Last year the pack was about 4,800, and of this latter total but 4,800, and of this latter total but 4,800, and of this latter total but 4,800.

For the purpose of facilitating the collection of funds for this benevolent purpose, subscription lists have been prepared, and would be distributed amongst the various churches, and take part in the humanitarian crusade.

Dr. Fagan then pointed out the fact that the work could be done by anyone, and that it was not necessary to have any special training. He concluded by hoping that it would be long before the same sanitary work was so greatly needed in other parts of the province.

Rev. W. Leslie Clay, B. A., then addressed the meeting, saying that he had been associated with the work for some time in this work. For himself, he was more than ready to do his share, and he hoped that others would do the same.

He hoped the clergy of the province were keenly alive to the responsibility of the subject, and he felt that they would forward the good work. He hoped to see soon as a result of the campaign for subscriptions a suitable building erected.

The Premier then addressed the gathering, assuring them that the government was in sympathy with the movement, and that they had every reason to believe that the government would do its utmost to help in the raising of the necessary funds to accomplish this noble object.
