

“BEG, CARLO.”

THESE little girls are teaching their dog to beg for bits of bread or cake.

You see how patiently he waits and lifts up his paw, and perhaps will bark, or “speak,” as his young mistress calls it. I have known dogs that would let you put a piece of cake on their nose, and they would not offer to eat it till they got leave. And

I have known boys and girls at table snatch a piece of cake first thing, before any one else was helped. Which do you think was the better behaved?

“Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.”

“Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right.”