THE CHASE MUCILAGE HOLDER.

FOR neatness, cleanliness, practical utility, and common sense principles, we have as yet seen nothing in the line of mucilage bottles that equals the Chase Mucilage Holder. It seems to be a new departure from all previous efforts, and is an article that shows its superiority at first glance. It is composed of a rubber bulb which holds the mucilage, and is provided with a central flexible flange which rests upon and hermetically seals the mouth of the glass cup, and also serves to centrally register the brush in the cup and stop the evaporation of a few drops of water placed therein to create a damp atmosphere and keep the brush pliable. By this means the mucilage retains its normal consistency, and is under perfect control, as its flow is wholly due to the pressure given to the bulb, and every drop may be utilized.

The brush, which is rigidly cemented into its tapered socket, is provided with a central outlet tube, the inner end being covered with a porous disc, or pad, to prevent drip. The fittings are of white metal, the cup is white flint glass, and the bulb is strong and flexible.

The device is neat, durable and efficient, and entirely obviates all the objections consequent on the use of a bottle with cork, plug, sponge, felt, spreader, or other arrangements, which become annoying through encrustation and evaporation.

The holder is put up in a box, with full directions for use, and is sold by Warwick Bros. & Rutter, wholesale stationers, Toronto.
