The Convention.

We have been holding the Journal for several days thinking the committee which met lately at Hamilton, and, we understand, transacted business of importance, would think it worth while to have a report of said meeting given to the photographers of Canada through their Journal, especially as we know from personally visiting most photographers of the Dominion, that quite a number never receive the printed circulars sent out by the committee, either through loss in transit or by not having their name on the list of the secretary. With the very large circulation we now have, it would seem a fairly good thing for the convention to keep members and also non-members posted through our columns as to what is being done by the committee. Also to awaken an interest in the Convention in the minds of the large number of good photographers in Canada, who are not members, by keeping interesting facts regarding the doings of the P. A. C., the attractions for the coming meeting, etc., before them, especially when it does not cost anything. The only thing we have learned of the transactions of the late meeting, and that in a round-about way, is
