Harvard Summer School.

The authorities at Harvard are gradually increasing the courses offered in their Summer School, and widening the scope of the instruction. During the early years of the school's existence only a few elementary courses in science were taught, but the list of courses to be given in 1898 contains the names of thirty-eight courses in arts and sciences, embracing almost all the subjects taught at the university. Modern languages are represented, as well as the Classics, History and Civil Government, Psychology, Pedagogy, Mathematics, Topographical Surveying, and the whole range of sciences.

The school has become very popular with the more enterprising teachers, who go there for inspiration and to learn the Harvard methods. In the list of 717 students who were registered there last year, are the names of several professors and a large number of superintendents of schools and principals of high schools and grammar schools.
