

(b.) after the passing of this Act uses any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act,— is guilty of an offence and liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used. 5

An Act further to secure the safety of railway employees and passengers.

1. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.

2. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.

3. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.

4. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.

5. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.

6. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.

7. Every person who shall, within two years after the passing of this Act, use any box freight car which does not comply in all respects with the requirements of section 2 of this Act, shall be liable upon summary conviction to a penalty of not more than five dollars a day for every day, or five dollars for every trip lasting less than a day, during which such car is so used.