Manitoba, Saskatohewan and Alberta—

Grand Trunk officials, marks an epoch in Canadian history. It puts a third transcontinental railway on the map of Canada, which opens up not only the thousands of acres of fertile country between Cochrane and Winnipeg but the vast sweeps of fertile land west to Prince Rupert, and a good deal of agricultural land in eastern Canada. And not the least big thing in connection with this first thru Tor-onto-to-Winnipeg train is that by far the greater part of the 1200 odd miles is covered on government-owned railway. It presages a government-own-ed transcontinental railway, and per-haps a little later on nationalization of all Canadian railways. As towns and cities have sprung up on every new railway line tapping a new country, so should villages grow to towns, and from towns to cities, on the new National Transcontinental. If Canadian citizens have boomed wholly thru the country which the line has opened up, they will accept even more readily the advantages offered them by a railway line really backed by themselves thru their government.

Toronto Will Benefit. Toronto will immediately benefit by the service. It will replace Montrea as the gateway and radiating point to the Canadian northwest in so far at any rate as traffic from southern and western United States is con-cerned. It facilitates 100 per centtransportation between Winnipeg and the west and Toronto, and the service, when inaugurated right thru to Prince Rupert, will cut 48 hours off the trip from Toronto to the coast. As for northern Ontario, it should simply turn thousands of acres of her wilderness into agricultural land, should boom the pulpwood industry in that section, and encourage pros-pectors to tap the mineral wealth of the country, which is as yet practi-cally untouched. And the northern area of the province is well worth tapping.

Officials on the trip vouchsafed the information that something like 30,000,000 acres of the best agricultural land lay awaiting settlers along the lines of the new rail way. The country here is irrigated by numerous rivers, on almost any of which one can travel by canoe right

Austrians, Hungarians and Turks Removed From Stanley Barracks to North Country.

Interned Austrians, Hungarians and Turks, to the number of thirty, had a free ride last night over the G.T.R. from Toronto up to Capuscasing, the prison camp, which is situated near Cochrane. The war prisoners left the Union Station about 8,80 p.m. in charge of Capt. Chis-holm and an escort of fifteen men, with fixed bayonets.

Besides the escort, a number of guards

also left on the same train. These guard will remain in Capuscasing, where they have been ordered as reinforcements to those already there, while the escort will return to Toronto. This latest shipment of prisoners includes many that have been rounded up by the police within the last few weeks. Stanley Barracks sheltered them until Stanley Barracks sheltered them until the number grew, when the order came for their removal to Capuscasing.

It is a singular fact that not a single German had the honor of traveling in the company, altho there were four Turks, who flashed their black eyes and curled-up, lengthy "mustachios" as thtey left the station. The men all appeared to be happy, and there was every evidence that hunger had never been their lot at the barracks.
