

Arrival at Tubac. — Its Inhabitants and Trade. — Description of the Town. — "Good action." — The Mission of San José Tumacacari. — Its present Condition. — Its beautiful Situation. — Apache Depredations. — Killed by Apaches. — Captain Ewell. — The Patagonian Mine. — Worked by the Spaniards in 1760. — Its Machinery. — The Apaches and the Boiler. — The Ore and its Yield. — What it Assays. — Destruction of the Mine by the Apaches. — A morning Excursion and the Beauties of Nature. — An unexpected Sight. — "To be, or not to be." — Apaches. — As they advance, I retreat. — The best Time I ever made. — Hatless, but not Witless, I reach the Camp. — Captain Ewell's Pursuit. — Campaigning Qualities of the Apaches. — What they can endure. — My Escape and its Lesson. — Jimmy's Ideas of early Birds and Worms. . . . . 162

CHAPTER XII.

The Santa Rita Mountain and its Mine. — The Ore and its Value. — How the Apaches destroyed it. — The Salero Mine. — How it was worked in 1760. — Wood and Water. — Why it is called the Salt-Cellar Mine. — The Bishop of Sonora is entertained by the Holy Fathers at Tumacacari. — He wants a Salt-Cellar, and gets it. — A Happy Thought. — The Bustillo and other Mines. — Their enormous Yield. — The Foe of Industry and Civilization. — Fort Buchanan. — Visit to the Heintzleman Mine. — It assays Nine Thousand Dollars to the Ton. — Average Yield. — The brave old General. — How the Mine was destroyed. — The Arivacca Rancho and Mine. — Jimmy's first Shot at a Deer. — It proves to be a good one. — He stays by it. — Is sent for. — His Trial. — The Evidence and Verdict. — "The general Deceitiveness of the Country." — Venison Steaks. — Apache Depredations. — Protection. — Farewell to Tubac. — Arrival at San Xavier. — Jimmy and the King. — A Cock Fight after Vespers. . . . . 172