Ven. Archdeacon Davis trusted more to personal effort on the part of members for a remedy than anything the officers could do.

Bro. McDermott contended that only by the co-operation of subordinate courts could lapses be prevented.

Bro. Pratt of London thought much depended upon the financial secretary in this regard. In London one of the largest courts of the order had not had any lapse of membership in several years.

Rev. Bro. Hughes attributed the trouble to the indifference of members who carelesty allowed their membership to lapse.

The committee approved of the method adopted by the High Standing Committee of employing organizers to carry on the work, and also the scheme for holding public meetings in the interest of order. During the year 109 members had been removed by death.

One who gives the name of Jacob Ackerman and says he lives at Picton, is under arrest at the Court-street station on a general charge of theft. A second charge of smuggling may be laid against the prisoner to-day.

Early last evening the police received word that a young man was making a tour of the stores in the downtown district attempting to sell a quantity of cigars. Policeman Sockett was detailed to hunt the man up, but he was not located till two o'clock this morning, when he entered a York-street restaurant and offered to sell five boxes of cigars at a very low price. The offer was refused, and he was followed from the eating-house by Acting Patrol Serjeant Crowe and Constable Sockett to the corner of Bay and Front-streets, whre he was detained. At first the man denied that the parcel he was carrying contained cigars, but subsequently admitted this, and said that he brought tnem over with him from Oswego, N.Y.. on Tuesday afternoon. He further cialmed that he was employed on the Schooner Jessie Drummond. Constable Sockett went down to Dickson & Eddy's dock early this morning to verify Ackerman's story, but it was learned there that the boat had arrived here on Tuesday and had cleared last night for the dry dock at Port Dalhousie. Ackerman had a considerable sum of money in his possession when arrested. The cigars are believed to be the proceeds of a robbery.
