LONDONER SEES THE IRISH FAIR

Ex.-Ald. Armstrong Visits the Exhibition in Dublin.

CANADA IS WELL REPRESENTED

The Show Is National, Rather Than International, However—An Interesting Letter.

Dublin, June 14.—I am beginning to think that the appellation attaching itself to Dublin is unmerited—dear, dirty Dublin. The more I see of the capital city of Ireland, the more I am in love with it. Its main thoroughfares and its leading hotels are everything that can be desired, clean and well-kept. The city engineer is a man evidently brought up in the same school of engineers as our own dear A. O. Graydon, as he seems to have a genius for repairing streets during fair time.

I noticed several gangs of men busily engaged with their picks and spades taking up paving stones, and thus hindering car traffic on the busy streets. Having experienced such at home, it did not materially affect my patience. But, bless you, both engineers are Irish, and so their great engineering thoughts naturally were in Irish grooves.

The exhibition itself is nothing much to boast about. Canada leads the van in exhibits by great odds. I never felt more proud of our northern nation than I did when in our own pavilion. There is but one voice, and that of commendation. The exhibit will send us thousands of citizens. The arts, industrial and mechanical, are all good and creditable. From one-third to one-half of the buildings are occupied by "refreshment parlors."

Pat evidently expected hungry visitors. The exhibition is not greatly patronized during the daytime, but at night—from 6 to 11, the closing hour—the city element attends in its thousands. You get admittance for the modest sum of 24 cents—one English shilling.

It was a mistake to call it "Irish International Exhibition." "National," would have been better, as apart from the Canadian display there is nothing of an international nature about it. France has a building not yet completed, and a number of big boxes unopened, and many people seem to think they never will be.

Among the wares offered for sale there are some of an international character. Statuary from Italy (of an inferior and small description), glass and pottery from Dresden, a few stalls of Japan ware, etc.; some valuable jewelry and some Lancashire manufactories seem to fill the bill. The rest are what Paddy makes himself.

In one instance I saw the motto: "Patronize Home Industries."

St. Patrick is said to have driven the snakes out of Ireland. Commercial enterprise seems to have been driven out, too, or otherwise, it never existed, for there is comparitively little of it to be seen. It may be that Uncle Sam and Jack Canuck, from over the sea, may infuse a little trade zeal among this good-tempered, witty and pastoral race.

A more lovely land the world does not contain. A more obliging and courteous people cannot anywhere be found. The vast body of people do not "hate" the English; and the Americans they love, because these people visit them, spend money lavishly, and give it freely, as more than one has said to me: "We could not live without them." Yours truly,

GEO. W. ARMSTRONG.

IN THE MONTH OF ROSES

Marriage of Miss J. D. Ross and R. H Timewell at Maple Grove.

One of the prettiest of June weddings took place on Wednesday at 5 o'clock at Maple Grove, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Ross, when their youngest daughter, Miss Jean Doe, became the wife of Mr. R. Hayward Timewell, a prosperous young farmer of Fingal. The whole house was prettily and appropriately decorated with evergreens, bridal wreath and cut flowers, in the greatest profusion, and a large number of relatives and friends assembled on the lawn, which was also beautifully decorated for the occasion, to await the ceremony.

The strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Mr. Garfield E. Ross, of Dutton, heralded the bride's coming, and all eyes turned toward the entrance to the lawn, as the little flower girl, Miss Ruth Ross, niece of the bride, beautifully attired in white silk, with touches of blue velvet baby ribbon, appeared, carrying the bride's bouquet of cream roses and lilies of the valley. On the arm of her father the bride entered, looking most charming in an exquisite gown of white silk mull, elaborately trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion, and real lace yoke, and was there joined by the groom, Rev. W. E. Orton, of Dutton, being officiating minister.

Following the ceremony the happy couple received the hearty congratulations of the guests, and then all adjourned to the daintily decorated tables, where a sumptuous repast had been provided. The very large and varied array of beautiful and costly gifts were much admired.

The bride soon slipped away, and shortly reappeared in a handsome traveling suit of cream and green cheviot, piped with pea-green velvet, with which she wore a white chiffon hat, trimmed with pink silk and velvet roses. The groom's gift to the bride was $50 in gold, to the flower girl a gold chain and locket, and to Mr. Ross a gold C. O. F. pin. After a social evening enlivened with music, Mr. and Mrs. Timewell left amid showers of confetti and with hearty congratulations for Fingal, where they will be at home to their friends after July 10. Among the invited guests were Mr. C. P. Griffin, of Hamilton; Mrs. D. S. Stride and family, of Oil City; Mrs. Hair and Miss Ball, St. Thomas; Mrs. G. W. Gray, Palmyra; Miss Thomas, of Seattle, Wash.; Miss Mabel Ritchie, Ridgetown, and many others from various places

MRS. RICE WAS VERY INDIGNANT

Had To Pay the Drayman for Hire of Rig—Peanut Man Gets Warning.

Although there was a long list of names on the docket at the police court this morning, it did not take Magistrate Love very long to dispose of the cases, none of them being of a serious nature.

Salvatore Specuzzo, a well-known Italian fruit vendor, was fined $1 for having peddled fruit without a license. Specuzzo could not speak English, and the services of an interpreter were required. He could not deny the charge, and admitted that the license which he had shown to a police officer was an antiquated document, and not worth carrying around. However, he did not object to paying the $1 fine imposed.

$50 Next Time.

"If you come back again," said the magistrate, "I'll fine you $50." Specuzzo appeared to take this threat as a joke.

A boy of 17 years answered to a charge of having driven a horse with a sore shoulder. At first, it appeared as if the youth was going to be relieved of more than one week's pay, but before the case was put through the mill it was found that the owner of the horse, Mr. Franklin, was the alleged offender, and the case was adjourned until tomorrow, with the name of Franklin substituted for that of the boy as defendant. The horse in question, according to the testimony of the constable who laid the charge, was suffering from several sores on the shoulder, and was not in a fit state to be driven. Mr. Franklin was ordered to produce the horse, at court, when a medical officer will be asked to examine it.

Mrs. Rice Indignant.

"Mrs. Rice," called the magistrate, and in response a middle-aged lady, who wore a countenance which bespoke much pent-up anger, walked quickly into the courtroom, and, without introducing herself, commenced to explain that she had not promised to pay the sum claimed by a drayman. It was eventually made known that the irate lady had hired a dray belonging to Charles E. Wright, for the purpose of having the personal effects of two young lady boarders removed from her premises, and that the said young ladies had been unable to pay the necessary tax. Mrs. Rice, however, was given until tomorrow to pay up, as she had hired the dray.

No sooner had she left the courtroom, much displeased, than she returned, and demanded of the court the name of the constable who had delivered the summons to her. After some searching the clerk found the duplicate of the document and told her that P. C. Kelly was the officer on the case.

"I'll find that officer," said the lady, stamping her foot on the floor.

Showed Effects of Fight.

Henry A. Gross and Charles A. Bush, two young Englishmen, who engaged in a little fistic combat on the green, near a local hotel, were each fined $2. The men admitted their guilt, and their faces bore out their testimony, both being adorned with black eyes and numerous bruises.

Two drunks found asleep in a buggy were each fined $2.

Three first-time drunks were allowed to go.

EPWORTH LEAGUE PICNIC

Methodists of Empress Avenue Have a Pleasant Outing.

The Empress Avenue Epworth League together with a large number of friends held their annual picnic at Springbank, on Saturday.

During the afternoon a fast and exciting game of ball was played between teams representing the Empress Avenue league and the McClary office team resulting in a victory for the former by a score of 8 to 2.

Batteries:

Empress Avenue—H. Edwards and Jos. Meyer.

McClary—Powell, Gilmour and Underhill.

The feature of the game was Edwards' pitching, he having his opponents at his mercy with a goodly amount of speed and shoots.

After a dainty luncheon, served by the social committee, with Miss Ethel Greenway as convener, a programme of sports was carried out. The most amusing feature of the races was the ladies' soda biscuit contest, which was won by Mrs. Greene, Miss Henstridge and Mrs. Cooper with a record time of 1 minute and 10 seconds.

The picnic as a whole was a great success and those having charge are to be congratulated on their efforts.

SERGEANTS DEFEATED

Seventh Team Lost To Thorndale Rifle Men for First Time.

For the first time in over five years the sergeants of the Seventh Regiment rifle team met defeat on Saturday at Thorndale in a match with the Rifle Association at that place. They lost out by a margin of 27 points.

The Seventh men shot away below form, and state that the Thorndale rangers are very poor, being almost invisible at 500 yards. Sergt. Robson, who holds the record for the Toronto ranges with 84 out of a possible 85, made the poorest score of the match, having only 43 to his credit.

The feature of the contest was the remarkable work of Robert Mills, an 18-year-old member of the Thorndale association. Mills did not begin to shoot until 8 o'clock in the evening, and it was almost before he finished; yet he ran up the highest total of the contest, 65. Five of the Londoners shot below 50, while but three of the opposing team went below that mark. At the conclusion of the shoot the Thorndale experts tendered the visitors an elegant dinner, and it was then decided to hold a return match next month.

The same teams have met on three previous occasions, and the Seventh boys have always finished winners:

STANDARD OIL'S LATEST COUP

Arrangements Almost Complete for a Powerful Transcontinental Line.

Washington, June 23.—It is said to be only a question of time—maybe two years—until the Standard Oil interests will own the first true transcontinental railroad system. But it is an assured fact the Standard will own a complete system from Detroit to the Atlantic seaboard.

The transcontinental line will extend from the Atlantic tidewater at Newport News, Va., to Seattle and by way of Chicago. Every mile of it will be controlled by the Standard Oil interests and from the day it opens it will be the most potent transportation influence on the continent.

It will give the oil monopoly a new handle by which to control railroad relations. It will enable the Standard group not only to make oil rates favorable to their own interests, but also will place in their hands a power over railroad rates in general, which, in connection with their dominating interests in other railroad systems, will make the Rockefeller's coterie as absolutely dominant in the railroad financial quarters as they now are in the oil industry.

The New System.

The new system will be composed of the following roads, which will, according to the statements recently made in Washington on the highest authority, soon be welded together into a transcontinental system.

The Virginian Railway (commonly known as the Tidewater and Deepwater) from Newport News, Va., into W. Va., and soon to be connected with the Ohio River.

The Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, extending from Ironton, O., on the Ohio River north and west across Ohio and Michigan. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, from Chicago and Milwaukee, west to the Pacific Coast.

One Gap To Be Filled.

Every road in the group is under Rockefeller control today. There is one gap to be filled, from Detroit to Chicago, and it is said, on the authority of a recent declaration of Henry R. Rogers, that this gap will shortly be done by the purchase of a minor line that will be added to the system.

The system, when completed, will have a main line mileage of about 3,700 miles from ocean to ocean. It will be, next to the Siberian road, the longest continuous main line system under a single management.

It will be assured from the very outse by the reason of its affiliations with immense business interests, all freight it can possibly handle.

The announcement may be made at any time of the assumption of control by the Rogers interests of the Detroit, Toledo and Trenton. This road controls the Ann Arbor road, running from Detroit and Toledo northwest across the southern peninsula of Michigan. The entire system of the Detroit, Ironton and Toledo runs from Ironton, O., on the Ohio River, at the southernmost point of Ohio, northward across Ohio through Springfield, Lima, Toledo, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Durand, Alma, Cadillac, to Frankfort, Mich., on Lake Michigan. The total mileage of the system is about 725 miles. This valuable piece of road has practically passed under the control of the Rogers group, which for several years has been quietly constructing the Tidewater and Deepwater road across Virginia and into the richest coal fields of West Virginia.

ACCEPTS MOOSEJAW CALL

Rev. H. C. Speller, a Former London Pastor, Going West.

Rev. H. C. Speller, a former popular pastor of Adelaide Street Church, but who has lately been in charge of Trinity Baptist Church, Guelph, has returned from his recent trip to Winnipeg, where he received calls from two churches, and also a call from Moosejaw. Mr. Speller has telegraphed his acceptance of the invitation from Moosejaw, and expects to enter on his new field of labor there the first Sunday in August, having tendered his resignation of the Trinity Church pastorate. Mr. Speller has a host of friends in London, Sarnia, Woodstock, Toronto and other localities, who heartily wish him success in his proposed new field of labor. The Guelph Herald remarks:

"Needless to say, Mr. Speller's leaving Guelph will be sincerely regretted, not alone by the members of Trinity Baptist Church, of which he was pastor, but by the members of other denominations as well. His ministrations have been marked by success. Trinity congregation has grown and prospered exceedingly under his pastorate."

TUMULT AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, July 23. — Two miles in the interior of a big swamp at St. Rose, about 20 miles from this city, the headless body of Walter Lamana, an Italian child, between 7 and 8 years old, who was kidnapped and held for $6,000 ransom, two weeks ago, was found by police and vigilants just before daybreak today. He had been strangled to death, according to the confession of one of several Italians held by the police

Five Italians, two of them women, are under arrest, charged with being accomplices to the murder, and extra details of police are maintaining order in the excited Italian quarter of the city.

Seventy armed deputies have been placed on guard at the Orleans parish prison, where three of the prisoners are held, and some apprehension has been felt over the safety of two other prisoners, who were last night taken to an adjoining parish. Seldom since the Mafia lynchings sixteen years ago has New Orleans been so stirred with threats of violence as today.

A sweating process wrung a confession from one of the Italian suspects about midnight last night. This man, Ignazio Campigciano, said that about the time of a mass meeting in New Orleans, more than a week ago, for prosecuting search for the boy, these men, who were in a vacant house in St. Rose, became frightened, and considered what to do with the child. The boy, who was crying, begged to be taken home to his parents, said Campigciano, when one of the kidnappers grabbed him and strangled him to death to stop his noise. Later on two of the kidnappers took the body into the swamp.

INSURGENT CHIEF SEES CLEMENCEAU

M. Albert, Roundly Lectured, Promises to Quiet Rebel Wine Growers.

Paris, June 23.—The most interesting event today in the wine growers' revolt was the visit of Marcelin Albert, the leader of the disturbing element in the South of France, to Premier Clemenceau.

This morning the man for whom the police and troops have been vainly scouring the country for a fortnight, appeared suddenly at the ministry of interior. He wore a simple garb of a southern peasant. The cotton shirt, the silk handkerchief around his neck and the carpet bag in his hand aroused the suspicion of the corps of detectives now constantly guarding the premier. But when he had established his identity, Albert was admitted to the presence of Clemeneau, with whom he had a fifteen minutes talk.

A semi-official account of the interview says that the premier used extremely strong language, virtually blaming his visitor for all that has happened in the south—the refusal to pay taxes, the strike, the resignation of officials of municipalities and the bloodshed that has occured—everything in fact.

M. Albert is represented as having been ovecome with contrition, bursting into tears an asking the premier how he could make atonement, to M. Clemenceau replied:

"Give yourself up to the law and use your influence with your countrymen to return to lawful ways."

Subsequently M. Albert declined to reveal anything that had occured during his conference with the premier, declaring that he had given his word to M. Clemenceau not to do so. He said, however, that he was leaving immediately for the south, where he intended "to do his duty." This leads to the presumption that an understanding between himself and the premier was reached.

The fear that today, being Sunday, would witness a renewal of the rioting in the affected districts, fortunately was not realized, although the prefecture at Niems was stoned.

ANOTHER TEST OF "UNWRITTEN LAW"

Emotional Insanity Plea of Judge Who Murdered Daughter's Escort.

Houston, June 24. — The trial of formed Judge W. G. Loving, of Nelson County, for the murder of Theodore Estes, son of Sheriff M. K. Estes, of Nelson County, began in the circuit court here today. Judge Barskdale presided. The trial promises to eclipse in interest and sensation the McCue and the Strother-Bywaters cases in Culpepper. It will again put to test the unwritten law.

Judge Loving, armed with a double-barreled shotgun, instantly killed young Estes, while he was unloading a car of fertilizer in Oak Ridge on April 22. The shooting was the sequel to the buggy-ride taken on the evening prior to the homicide by young Estes with Miss Elizabeth Loving, the 19-year-old daughter of Judge Loving. The girl, when brought home, had been drinking, and it is alleged that her escort had maltreated her. Acting under the impulse that his daughter had been drugged and assaulted, Judge Loving immediately went in search of Estes. After the shooting, he said:

"I shot to kill. Every drop of blood in my body called for vengeance. I would have gone a hundred miles to kill him."

Backed by the millions of Thomas F. Ryan, of whose Virginia estate he had been overseer for a number of years, and with powerful political influence, every device known to the legal fraternity will be utilized in the efforts of the counsel of the defense to acquit Judge Loving.

The plea of the defense will be emotional insanity, the unwritten law. The relatives of young Estes, whose family connections extend to the governor of this state, will exert every effort to clear the memory of the dead man from any stain of wrong-doing. Miss Loving, who has lived in seclusion since the tragedy, appeared in public yesterday, for the first time. She showed no signs of her experience. Two special coaches from Lynchburg, one reserved by the defense, and the other by the prosecution, brought 110 witnesses and two corps of lawyers last night. A venire of 60 has been summoned.

FIFTH AVE. HOTEL TO BE RAZED

New York's Most Famous Hostelry to Be Replaced by Modern Office Building.

New York, June 24. — The Fifth Avenue Hotel, one of the most famous hostelries in this country, has been sold by the Amos R. Eno estate to a syndicate of capitalists, headed by Henry Morgan Thau, president of the Henry Morgan Thau real estate concern, for $7,250,000. When the lease of the present tenants expires, a year from October next, the structure will be razed and a modern office building erected on its site. The brown stone building adjoining the hotel on West Twenty-third street, and the Madison Square Theater, on West Fourth street, were included in the purchase.

The hotel, which now, after almost half a century of life, gives way to the uptown march of business interests, was built in 1859 by Mr. Eno, on the site of an old two-story tavern.

From the moment of its opening the house was a success. Men of note from all over the world made it their headquarters when they came to New York. When the Prince of Wales visited New York on his American tour he stopped there.

LOCAL MARKET.

Monday, June 24, 1907.

With the exception of live hogs there was not much doing at the market today. There were nearly 150 live hogs brought in, which were purchased by D. McIntyre at $6 75 per cwt for selects and $4 50 for fat sows.

The supply of hay was small, as there were only five loads on the stand. Sales were brisk at $14 50 and $15 per ton.

No straw was offered.

Oats sold at $1 45 per cwt. There were only a couple of loads offered.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, June 24. — Noon. — For the two hours' session this morning dealing was reduced to a minimum, with changes but fractional and unimportant. The only announcement of interest is the engagement of $2,000,000 additional gold for shipment to Paris and the general belief continues that much more will follow this week, unless a radical stiffening in rates for call rates develops. The balance of the session the market is likely to be absolutely dull and featureless. Sales to noon 57,000.
