5877—A Stylish Plaid Dress. An attractive little frock is here shown that will prove very simple and practical for home making. It is an excellent model for a school dress and will develop successfully in gingham, delaine, pongee and cashmere. The blouse waist is becomingly full and is attached to a body lining. The full straight skirt is gathered and attached to the waist. The modish elbow sleeves are completed by turn backs flaring cuffs. A broad white linen collar and cuffs is a charming addition that gives a touch of smartness to the mode. For a girl of 8 years 3 yards of. 36-inch material will be required.

Calendars and Posters.

Calendars are as usual in order and Calendars are as usual in order and this year brings novelty ones with wooden frames and quaint old world pictures. The little calendar is fastened with a seal and ribbon and sometimes a brass tack. Equally delightful are the hand-painted Japanese calendars like posters. The artistic poster is the foundation of many a handsome bachelor's calendar mountiandsome bachelor's calendar mount ed on brown paper and artistically finished. Favorite actresses and portraits of great beauties are specially attractive. Engagement calendars may be exquisitely designed and made at home with heavy paper and painted margins in red and black lnk. A variety of designs suggest themselves, such as Jap lanterns, the figures of broomstick-riding witches for October, and many similar designs easily copied from current magazines. Silhou-eties are most desirable since easiest for the amateur to draw. Monogram Paper. Monogram paper, which has alto-gether superseded the crested variety roll, form a suitable gift to some young lady, and is sure to be appreciated if tastefully designed. For the Girl Friend.

Nothing would be more appreciated just at present than one of the popular Vanity bags. Made of pale-color-ed leather suede, or dainty brocade and mounted with gold sticks, these are a very handy accessory for many occasions. Tablets in mother of cearl or ivory are not so much appreciated as they used to be, but some girls whe like to take notes at a musical entertainment still find them useful. They are also handy to keep in the chatelaine to register engagements made informally. Scarfs of the more ornate kind are such a very general vogue that little need be said about them. Above all the tinselled scarf is fashionable, and the sequined one almost as much so. Heavy silver and gold embroideries ar? very much the vogue, and scarfs with edges so finished will be valued. Hand-embroideries are also worn.

For the Hostess. For the woman who receives many guests nothing could be more desirable than a set of candle-shades daintily designed and made by the girl who has good taste and artistic fingers. They should be chosen to of the rooms of the person for whom they are designed, and they may be carried out in a number of materials, ncluding crepe-paper, silk tissue, and leads. Very suitable designs are seen in this month's "Ladies' Home Journ-

"The Cat and the Fiddle,

Altho there is no possible doubt that our old nursery rhymes were first used in their present form as a political satire on noted persons in England, still it is more than probable that they were based upon some anclent legend or lay already long in ex- Hazel Fitzgerald. istence. This is especially probable of the old jingle:

"High diddle-diddle, The cat's in the filddle! The cow jumped over the moon;

The little dog laughed to see such sport. And the dish ran away with the spoon."

This clearly dates to the old peasant tales that the English yokel told the little ones—each other for that matter-by the winter's fireside, long ere it took the form in which it has come down to us. For instance, take the first couplet, "High diddle-diddle, the cat's in the fiddle." For centuries there has been a superstition that the fiddle was the devil's own particular instrument; and that every blessed Duet from Le Nozze di Figaro.... one of these instruments was inhabited by the spirit of a witch's black cat. Miss E. Keefer and Miss Vera Morgan. Out of this old belief has come down Duet, harp and violinto us a common misnomer that could have had no other origin. It is a common custom to speak of the strings of a violin as "cat-gut." This is so far from the truth that it could have sprung from no other source than this old belief. The fact is that the strings of th spring from no other source than this old belief. The fact is that the strings are made of entrails; but they are the entrails of sheep. But the fact is that the witch's cat had been, in the superstitious minds, so long the tenant of the fiddle that the people could not dissociate the two, and at last it has become a part of our traditional. has become a part of our traditional lore.
