"MAN AND HIS SOUL" HITS MANY A PERSON

Metro Production With Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne Again Tonight at Imperial—Magazine Pictures a Novelty—Sports and Serial Tomorrow

A large number of people were again attracted to Imperial Theatre last night by the Metro production "Man and His Soul" in which Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne were starred.

Last evening, in the hall at East St. John, a farewell dance and party was given in honor of Miss Annie Jennings, who will leave on next Monday to join her brother, Wallace, in Cochrane, Ontario. During the evening George W. Hill, on behalf of those assembled, presented to the guests a beautiful traveling hand bag. Miss Jennings, although taken completely by surprise, made a pleasing reply, in which she thanked all present for their thoughtfulness on her behalf and said that in making new friends she would not forget the old. A very pleasant and enjoyable evening was passed away with dancing and other amusements. The affair was arranged by Messrs. Waldon Lands and Arthur Jennings.

The marriage took place on Wednesday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Truro, of Wilton L. Macdougall, of the Eastern Securities Co., Halifax, to Miss Audrey Frasers, daughter of the late Wynham E. and Mrs. Hefferman. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Thomas Cumming, D.D., a former pastor who also officiated at the marriage of the bride and groom. The bride was accompanied by her brother, the latter being at present at the front. The groom was assisted by James McMurray of St. John, and the bride by Miss Amy Wilson of Montreal. The bride was given away by her father, Major F. S. Hefferman of Halifax. After a short honeymoon in Montreal, the newly married will reside at Halifax.

Pte. Neophilius Lavine was taken into custody this morning by Detectives Barrett and Briggs on a warrant charging with a double murder. He was arrested at 820, from the livery stable of Edward Spragg in Main street on August 31. The soldier was brought before the court at noon and related to the magistrate the circumstances surrounding the charge. He said that he had secured the team from a friend, who had hired it from Mr. Spragg, for a few hours on Monday, August 27. Instead he and another soldier went to Misjace and kept the team there until the following Thursday.

The soldier brought the team back, after having it for three days. He informed the court he would pay for the use of the team for that time. The livery owner said he was satisfied, as he did not wish to have the defendant punished. The court found there was no intent to steal and an amicable settlement will likely be reached.

George Curtin's first appearance on the Gem circuit was eminently successful. The star is big, the play is big and Gem patrons last evening were given a treat in this and Chapter XIV, "Mary Page." Two more presentations of this excellent bill tonight, "The Dividend" and a stirring Keystone comedy for Friday and Saturday.

A BUMP FOR ST. JOHN Moncton Transcript—Boastful St. John only had one recruit more last week than Moncton, and that was a dud. St. John deducted the Moncton man who enlisted and put him in the county where he belongs. Westmorland county would have one ahead of St. John. They are rather slow down in St. John, for a big city, when it comes to recruiting, but great on recruiting boastfulness.

Then Sergeant Was Hit in the Head and Queer Story Came Out; Guarded Rheims Statues

Paris, Sept. 6.—How an article in The New York Times led to the establishment of a new and unique post for a French soldier is the story of Sergeant Jacques F., now a convalescent in a small hospital near Paris. Some three weeks ago Sergeant F. arrived at the hospital in a state of coma as a result of a serious shrapnel wound in the head. An immediate operation was hurried to the operating table, where the surgeons were started to find that, though he was wearing the medals and the uniform of a famous regiment, he had his left knee shattered in the attack on the outbreak of the war. As the sergeant's "ticket" indicated, he had been evacuated from the dressing station at the front. The case aroused great interest, and at the earliest possible moment after the operation, which formed part of the "active" interest here, he was asked to explain how he came to be in uniform at the front instead of invalided from the army. F. replied that he had belonged to the regiment in question, which formed part of the "active" interest here at the outbreak of the war. After passing the earlier months unscathed, he had his left knee shattered in the Artois battle of the spring of 1915, and lay helpless for two days in a captured German trench without receiving any attention, with the result that when at last he got medical aid it was found that the knee had set in. He was amputated as the only means of saving his life.

By autumn he was discharged, and fitted with an artificial limb, and was about to be discharged when he saw in the French press the case of a deserter from the ranks of the "active" interest here at the outbreak of the war. He suggested to his superior officers that he might accept relegation to the ranks of those unable to serve France any longer. After weeks of petitioning, he was finally granted his request, and he was sent to the front. He ultimately succeeded in obtaining the "military" post which he desired, and he was allowed to wear the uniform and medals of the "active" interest here at the outbreak of the war. PATRIOTIC FUND Value of Roumania In The Work of Her Allies

The National Geographical Society, in a bulletin just issued under the caption "Resources of Roumania," points out that Roumania will be a valuable ally to the Entente. The bulletin says: "In the present struggle it has been easier on many occasions to secure men for the firing line than to control the facilities for transporting them, and to find the necessary food for them after their arrival in the trenches. Roumania possesses the means to solve, in part, both these problems.

With an area about equal to that of the State of Arkansas, but with a population nearly five times as great, Roumania is essentially an agricultural country, producing vastly more wheat in 1913 than Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro combined. Its crop last year (80,000,000 bushels) equaled the joint production of our two fertile wheat states, Minnesota and Iowa. The yield of barley, corn, oats and rye is also large, and during the two years of war the country has waxed rich playing the role of an Egyptian Joseph to starving brother nations—the well-paying Central Powers. Before the war the value of Roumania's grain exports exceeded $100,000,000 annually, and second in the list of her international sales was petroleum, valued at nearly $8,000,000 a year.

In the transportation of Russian troops, as well as in handling her own forces to the Austro-Hungarian and Bulgarian borders, Roumania's 2,900 mile railway system, nearly 85 per cent. of which is state owned, will play an extremely important role, as will also that great water highway, the Danube, which flows out of Austria-Hungary at the Kazan Pass, and in its eastward course to the Black Sea forms the navigable southern boundary of Roumania, for nearly 800 miles. The 1,800,000 miles of national roads, criss-crossing the country, will also greatly facilitate the dispatch of troops.

News of Maritime Men In The War

A few days ago Arthur W. Bird of Kewport Ridge, enlisted with the Klites. On Tuesday, his father, George N. Bird, aged 42, came to Frederick and enlisted. He joined the 140th Battalion, now at Valcartier, and the son's transfer to that unit with his father is being arranged.

There were also three recruits enlisted for the Army Medical Corps. They were John Hassen Price, 181, George B. Fisher, 18, and Hugh Alfred Hamilton, 21, all of Canterbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Sears, who was with the 104th Battalion and was unable to accompany that unit, was the result of an operation for appendicitis, has reported for duty to the 290th Battalion.

Another returned soldier has re-enlisted with the Klites. He is Pte. George Williams, who was badly wounded while with the 20th Battalion. A bullet passed through his shoulder, and he was sent to the hospital. He is now recovering and will go back to the front with Lieut. Col. Guthrie's battalion.

THROUGH AIR TO LUNCHEON Aviators Fly to Gathering of Harlem Board of Trade, New York New York, Sept. 7.—Six of the 800 guests who attended an aviation luncheon given by the Harlem Board of Trade at Pabst's Harlem Casino to celebrate the birth of the New York Flying Yacht Club came in their flying boats from places distant from the city. This is said to be the first time that guests have gone to a luncheon by the air route.

Thomas P. Fowler, president of the Harlem Board of Trade, was toastmaster at the luncheon, at which were read Admiral Robert E. Peary, Alan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America; F. T. Davidson, captain of the First Squadron of the New York Aerial Coast Patrol; Edward M. Hagar, president of the Wright-Martin Aeroplane Company; Louis H. Fehr, secretary of the Park Board, and several others spoke.

Admiral Peary pleaded for an Aerial Coast Patrol. He explained its purpose as the first line of defence, with its aviators patrolling all coasts of the country, and said America would be impregnable if these patrol aeroplanes were supported by enough battle aeroplanes, which could fight off attacking fleets. "We need not tens, not hundreds, but thousands of aviators. We should have an aviator class as numerous as our present chauffeur class."

Following luncheon the guests were taken to the flying boat landing station and saw Sperry take Admiral Peary for a flight.
