NEWS NOTES ABOUT PROMINENT BAPTISTS

(Maritime Baptists)
Rev. A. S. Lewis, B. D., pastor of the the Fairview Baptist church, Vancouver, recently composed by the union of the Kitsilane and Central Fairview churches in Vancouver.

Rev. C. E. Pineo, having completed

John last week en route to his new field of labor, Dundas, Annandale and St. Peter's, P. E. I.
Rev. Neil MacLean is now pastor at West Medway, Mass.
The pastorate of the Rev. Bowley Green, D. D., with the first Baptist church, Moncton, was terminated on the first Sunday of this month. The Ministerial Association of Moncton passed a very appreciative resolution touching Dr. Green and his work in Moncton. In leaving Moncton, very many regret Dr. Green's going. He has rendered excellent service to the strong church of which he has been pastor for some five years. Very large congregations attended the services of the church on Sunday, April 2, and at a very large gathering of the Brotherhood of the First Baptist church in the afternoon, Dr. Green was made recipient of an address, a purse of gold, and a cane from the brotherhood. There was a further address from Preceptory No. 520 of the Royal Black tights of Ireland. A farewell service is held in the church on Tuesday evening, 4th inst., which was largely attended, and at which appreciative words of Dr. Green were spoken by the ministers of Moncton, and an address was read from the church. Dr. Green fittingly re-

LOTS OF WATER IN A SHIP. eamship of 12,000 Tons Carries 1,740

look be kept of the look of the l

ly the idea of a thing, from which water must be kept out that it comes as a shock to learn that, of intent, he has a good deal of water inside her, says a correspondent of The London Daily Mail. A 12,000-tru liner carries within her hull approximately 1,740 tons of water. "When I asked a passenger," says the writer, "just arrived from a forty-two days' voyage from Sydney to London in a liner of that sive, how many tons of water were in the ship he flippantly anewered, 'Not many, I should hope.'

"But on reflection he recalled that there was always fresh water in the bathroom, and any amount of fresh water to drink; that sea water was certainly not used for the tea or coftee or the cooking, on in the steam laundry; that sea water could not possibly be used for steam in the modern marine boliers because of the encrusting salt. As the ship's company numbered some 240, in addition to several hundred passengers, it is obvious that a considerable supply of fresh water was necessary and that water is as essential to a liner's progress and habitability as fuel. Steamship passengers are familiar with coal. It is so much in evidence, so often talked about, and coaling at the various ports en route is so unpleasantly obtrusive.

six done and would not notice it if one did. A liner of 12,000 tons usually has six bollers, each holding sixty tons of water, and the loss on a day's steaming is about two tons per boller, one a total per day of from twelve to fifteen tons. This has to be made good, so a store of 300 tons of fresh water is carried for feeding the bollers. "For drinking purposes there is a provision of 550 tons of fresh water and 330 tons of sea water is carried for ballast. Add to these figures the 360 tons of fresh water in the six boilers, as filled at the commencement of the voyage, and you get the total above mentioned. An average of fifty-nine to sixty tons of fresh water per day is consumed on the voyage. Occasionally on long runs between ports condensing has to be done to supplement the supply. In that case the condensed water is mixed with the fresh water in the tanks, as the former alone is rather unpalatable owing to its super-portly. All water is stored in tanks in the double bottom of the ship. They are cleaned out at the end of each voyage and are always kept in scrupulous condition, as are the breakers of and the conditions, as are the breakers of an and tores, ballast is increased, not in any long condition, as are the breakers of the conditions to keep her in trim and to preserve stability."

'LONGSHOREMEN

Montreal, April 12—The longshoremen's union of Montreal last night agreed to present a proposition to the shipping federation authorities in connection with the proposed reduction of ten cents an hour in wages for the coming season. The officials of the union did not make public the details of their proposition, but thought that it had a good chance of being accepted.

Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whiskers on stove covers or pipe and does not mat or cake when burning, is is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and can also be used for open fires and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing is to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the above characteristics.

They are comfortable to carry—even when each hook contains two keys. Keys cannot bunch up and wear holes in your pockets as they are always bound to do when on a ring, and the flat, smooth, neat shape makes a great difference in the appearance and wear of your clothing. The hooks are so designed that one downward pull removes it — yet these hooks hold the keys so securely they cannot possibly be lost off.
