Candidates and Platform For Next Borough and County Council Elections

London, March, 12.—The Duchess of Devonshire in an interview on the subject of the Women's Municipal Party, of which she is the president, said: "What women have for so long held back from the active exercise of the vote is local government is due to the fact that they do not realize the value of political unity. Now the St. Mary's Women's Local Government Association has been the means of showing us what vigor women can bring into the political life of London.

"For a start, at their next meeting on March 27, a basis will be drawn up on which our work will be founded. From the women who we shall pick the cleanest and most ready spirits as the women's party candidates for the next Borough Council, and London County Council elections. They will be pledged to a programme of progressive social legislation. They will not seek votes on the catch-words of either of the men's municipal parties, but will stand for the policy which we have set out. We want to form a party at municipal elections which will have the same political effect as the entry of a labor party candidate at parliamentary elections.

"We aim at supplying the need of a central electoral machine which in conjunction with other local government associations will produce a party of women which will be so strong that it can approach party agents before a vacancy is declared and insist that a suitable woman candidate shall run on party lines. Failing this, our policy would be to force a three-cornered election on lines which would be most likely to succeed. In any case, we should ask the men candidates to accept our programme where we are not running independent candidates."

Thin Folks Who Would Be Fat
Increase in Weight Ten Pounds or More

A Physician's Advice.
"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to eat a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood all the fat and nourishing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat the nature processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gain of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by good druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it must not be taken on the remarkable flesh producing effect, he used by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.

WITHIN FIVE MILES OF MAWSON; THEN TURNED
Searchers Almost in Sight of Explorer—Meeting Touching Scene

In a special cablegram to The London Daily Telegraph from Sydney, Dr. MacLennan, bacteriologist of the Mawson expedition, gives a graphic account of the search from the main base for Dr. Mawson and his companions. Lieut. Nimmo and Mertz, a Swiss ski expert, who perished, also of the romantic meeting with Mawson after his perilous expedition. The first depot was established in a cave cut in the ice, five miles from Mawson's base, Adelaide Land. MacLennan, accompanied by Madigan and Correll, went several miles beyond the cave, but saw no sign of the three men. They planted a cache of food and left messages, one of which was, "Amundsen reached the pole." Another message gave directions as to the position of the cave where there was plenty of food. The three then returned.

Five miles beyond them, even as they were writing their story, a party of weary, emaciated figures of Mawson struggling through the snow, as he had been doing for nearly 200 miles. As already stated, he found the cache and the food gave him strength to reach the cave, despite a fearful blizzard.

He stayed there seven days, and on the eighth day six men from the main base descended his gaunt figure coming down the hill of ice and snow. They rushed forward to meet him, and, though weak, rushed forward to meet them. For weeks he had not seen a human being.

They asked, "Where are Nimmo and Mertz? Are they behind?" He replied simply, "No." They then turned back. Dr. MacLennan edited a monthly news paper, called Able Blizard, and written with a typewriter. He said that the finest sight he witnessed in the Antarctic was a promontory 270 miles from the last main base, a great bluff rock projecting seven miles from the coast, which was all glaciated and white. It rose to a height of 1,200 feet, with a few basaltic rocks 800 feet in height, and was a beacon of the sandstone formation which is found at McMurdo Sound. They found in it seams of lignite and coal, but nothing living except lichen and mosses.

On that journey they traveled over the sea of ice for a distance of nearly 200 miles. About fifteen miles from the coast outcrops of the rock extending far out to sea presented a magnificent sight. They obtained some rare species of Ross seal, of which six were secured. Only thirteen had previously been discovered. They examined an island discovered by Drygalski seventy years ago and definitely confirmed his position of the continental shelf of submerged land, which, it is believed, at one time connected the Antarctic, Australia and South America.

Dr. MacLennan's cultures of bacteria from animals, birds, soil, snow and ice are still alive and now are being developed in Sydney.

Dr. Mawson said at Melbourne that $50,000 was needed to clear the expedition from debt.

TREATMENT OF CANCER.
(Boston Globe.)
At a hearing before the committee on public health at the State House this morning on a resolve which provides for the appointment of a commission to investigate the causes, treatments and results of cancer, Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, who has petitioned the resolve was introduced, said, in part:

"The cancer problem is the greatest unsolved medical problem in the United States; 75,000 people will die this year from it, and 4,000 in Massachusetts. The other sections of the country have the highest death rate in these states. It seems to be particularly a fatal disease.

Diseases of the nervous system are very common. All the organs of the body may be sound while the nerve centers may be affected.

Many women become run down and worn out by household cares and duties never ending, and sooner or later find themselves with the nerves shattered, and the heart action weakened.

On the first sign of any weakness of either the heart or nerves, flagging energy, or physical breakdown, do not wait until your case becomes hopeless. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will at once quieten the nerves, strengthen the heart and build up the entire system.

Mrs. Archie Goodie, of Tilley, N.B., writes:—"When I was troubled with my heart two years ago, I was very bad. My nerves were so unstrung that sometimes I would almost go out of my mind. I doctored myself with everything I could get, until at last I got four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and they have cured me.
