HOW HE KNEW THE SIZE

A man who had recently become engaged to a charming young girl chanced to be in a fashionable shop when his eye caught a glimpse of a jeweled belt that seemed to him an acceptable gift for his fiancée. He asked a clerk to place an assortment of the belts on the counter.

"Ladies' belt?" queried the polite salesman. "Certainly sir, what size?"

The young man blushed. "Really," he stammered, "I don't know." And he gazed about him hopelessly for a moment or so. Finally a happy thought appeared to strike him. "Can't you let me have a yard stick for a minute?" he asked.

The yardstick being forthcoming he placed it along the inside of his arm from shoulder to wrist. Then, looking up at the clerk he exclaimed triumphantly, "Twenty inches."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

He's Going to Paddle a Canoe Alone From New York to San Francisco

J. H. Sullivan, Jr., and His Canoe.

Speaking of summer vacations and canoe trips and such, here's a city-weary man who is taking a summer vacation of twelve months, consisting of a canoe trip some thousands miles long.

He has started to paddle from New York city to San Francisco via the Great Lakes, the Mississippi, the Gulf of Mexico, the Panama canal and the Pacific ocean. And it will be one long summer outing, because he will be so far south next winter that there will not be any winter.

John H. Sullivan, Jr., 36, soldier of fortune, water color artist, short-story writer, self-admitted gunman of the western variety, also expert stage mechanic and electrician and lover of all out-doors, is undismayed by all the millions of paddle strokes he will have to take before his voyage ends.

He just tired of New York and civilization in general and had to get into the open for a while.

"New York," he said, "is a desert of 4,000,000 souls. I have been in Death Valley and have enjoyed it. I have been on mountain tops and felt at home. I have paddled alone through interminable Canadian forests and ridden for days on the alkali plains of New Mexico; but never have I been so lonesome as in this town."

"I walked up and down Broadway for for hours the other night, and not a soul spoke to me. I'm going to beat it to a real country."

Next day he took his 16-foot canoe—the same canoe in which he navigated the streets of Peru, Ind., and saved lives in the spring flood—filled it with clothes, grub, guns, half-finished water color sketches, tobacco, shaving materials and other necessities of life, jumped in, blew a blast on a little bugle, gave a powerful sweep of the paddle and was on his way.

He goes up the Hudson to Albany, then via the Erie canal and Great Lakes to Chicago, through the drainage canal to the Illinois river, then down the Mississippi to New Orleans and by inland lagoons to Galveston. Then he expects to paddle down the coast of Mexico and Central America to Panama, through the canal and up the Pacific coast to Frisco.

"By nature I'm a hobo," says Sullivan. "I'm going to have one grand little time."

EDMONTON HAS SENT OUT 219 LIVE FOXES SINCE SEASON OPENED

Edmonton, Alta., July 15.—Two hundred and nineteen live foxes, ranging from black silver to red crosses, valued at $250,000, have been shipped from Edmonton to points in Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Alberta and New York and Pennsylvania since the opening of the season. The most valuable consignment, which was forwarded the other day, consisted of ten pure black puppies, for which Kane Brothers of Brooklyn, paid $30,000. The animals were sent to Ogden, Pa., for propagation purposes.

Frederic M. Lee, president of the Western Fox Fur Company, who recently shipped thirty-four foxes, valued at $80,000, to breeders in Prince Edward Island, announces that he will not dispose of any more animals to eastern ranchers, having decided to establish a fox farm at Tees, Alta., where forty foxes are now domiciled.

IMPROVED
Miss Marie Slattery, who has been on the nursing staff in Hartford, Conn. hospital, returned to the city this morning on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Slattery, 181 Waterloo street. Her friends will be pleased to learn that she is much improved after her recent illness.

HAD FINE TRIP
After having been away for nearly five months, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Seely of Dorchester street, returned home this morning. They have been on a tour through the old country, visiting the British Isles, France, Holland, Italy, Egypt, and other places.

NO MONEY FOR ROOM
The city commissioners gave audience this morning to Mr. Greenwood, a public man, who sought to interest them in a proposition for advertising the city. As the city has no regular fund for such purpose and the drafts on general revenue on account of advertising have been fairly large the commissioners decided that they could afford no more money for publicity.

FUNERAL OF C. W. STOCKTON
The funeral of the late Charles W. Stockton took place this afternoon. The service, which was held at his late residence, 22 Brussels street, was conducted by Rev. J. A. MacKeigan and Rev. Dr. W. O. Raymond. Interment was in the family lot at Cedar Hill. Members of Queen's and Trinity parishes, Royal Black Knights, the County L. O. L., Gideon L. O. L. and other lodges attended in regalia.

VISITING GEOLOGISTS
Plans for the entertainment of the members of the World's Geological Congress to visit St. John on July 30 were discussed this morning at a meeting in the mayor's office attended by Dr. George F. Hattaway, T. H. Estabrooks, W. F. Burpee, representing the Natural History Society and Mayor Frink. There will be a drive in the morning. They will spend the afternoon at Duck Cove and in the evening a reception will be held in their honor in the rooms of the Natural History Society.

HAS FAITH IN SAINT JOHN
Samuel Gilbert Has Opened An Up-to-date Men's and Women's Furnishing Establishment in Brussels Street

Samuel Gilbert, who for the past ten years has been in the employ of H. Gilbert in Mill street, has severed his connection with that establishment and opened, on his own account, a new store, devoted to up-to-date furnishings for men and women.

The stock throughout is bright, new and well displayed. The windows are well lighted, attractively dressed and like the interior of the store, are a credit to the proprietor.

Mr. Gilbert is one of the younger men who has faith enough in the future of St. John and should receive every encouragement.
