

REEK BELIEVES IN LIVE STOCK

New Brunswick Man Now in Ottawa Pins His Faith to This Branch of Farming.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—Mr. Reek, formerly Deputy Minister of Agriculture for the Province of New Brunswick, has joined the livestock branch of the federal department of agriculture at Ottawa, as assistant to Mr. S. H. Harkwell, livestock commissioner.

Canada never had such an opportunity to establish herself in the world markets, for animal products," said Mr. Reek.

"Quality is essential, however, if we are going to hold our export trade," said Mr. Reek.

Here's the Real Reason Why Walter Foster Refuses to Put on Bye-Election in Carleton County—He's a Little Bit Afraid

Apparently Mr. Simms inquired as to his own status and received an unsatisfactory reply, for his narrative continues something like this:

"Mr. Foster," said I, "when Napoleon sat down with the Emperor and Emperor of Austria to negotiate a treaty of peace, there was on the table a very expensive vase—a gift to the Emperor from the Queen of Prussia."

"A small glass sat on the table," said Mr. Foster, "and I picked it up and held it above my head."

"The little bit of secret history, now being proclaimed by Mr. Simms from every flag-roofed house-top in Woodstock, is the real reason why a government convention has never been called, and it must be admitted that Mr. Simms' story is a plausible one."

When Lord Bellingbrooke was exiled from England and allowed to return after the House of Commons was seated on the throne, he was fully restored to his former position except that he was not allowed to take his seat in the House of Commons.

And so, today, if a government convention were called, Mr. Simms, as a former candidate for parliament, would not be excluded, and if he were to once "cut loose" in the convention the matchless force of his glittering eloquence would be called into play.

BEHIND THE VEIL

The Story of the Q-Boats—II—Ordeal by Fire by "Bartimeus."

Because mine is mortal, not intangible, and Portent at her brightest a fickle jade, it was inevitable that soon or later a day must come when a crippled German submarine would miraculously surface beneath a hull of shells, miraculously succumb in patching up her damaged hull, and under cover of darkness, crawl back to port.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—The meeting between Woodcock Brown, who for years which took place this afternoon, was brought to an abrupt termination.

"THREE FINGERED" BROWN DOING BIT

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—In the Marmon aviation plant here is a figure which in overalls that passes unnoticed in a casual inspection of some 1,000 employees.

But put a baseball uniform on this man and thousands of fans all over the country would immediately recognize him as Woodcock Brown.

Last year Brown was manager of the Columbus American Association team and made a record that disproved lack of managerial ability which some people aver when he failed with the St. Louis Peds.

Shortly after the torpedo struck the ship the periscope of a submarine broke the surface a couple of hundred yards distant, evidently watching proceedings with a deliberate, cautious scrutiny.

The ship had then sunk by the stern until it was awash, and the crew of the gun masked by the wheel.

Under his command, then, they sailed with a cargo of timber in each hold and a faith in the good providence of God that came very near to the faith of little children.

The ship had then sunk by the stern until it was awash, and the crew of the gun masked by the wheel.

(Tribune Cable Service, 1918, New York Tribune). Rotterdam, November 3. (Reuters account) are no hand of the arrival of the German armistice in the impression on gain and Dusseldorf, writes that this is a manifesto.

army. Day and night, trains composed of a vast number of white crosses, bridges, while wagon loads, straw, bicycles are made an endless procession one sees machine-guns, but there is no artillery. The retreat is orderly, but it is a confused group of armistice soldiers.

The footing of the retreat towards the soldiers' camp by troops already in the far from friendly, and councils of the fourth armistice, most of whom, according to the front line, experienced the terrible war.

Very bitter, too, is the action of the troops in the rear, who are organized departure at the danger of the whole retreat. Furthermore, they are placed purposely far from the front line, and are being repulsive manner, while some of the units have been for many hours.

This retreat of the German army makes a strange that towns along the coast are for some days in the Rhine cities. A few of them are red everywhere it is the white and black flags.

There are reports of German soldiers in Cologne at the corner Strasse and Hohenzollern still retain its name, though the German army, the Cologne, great the heretofore station at Dusseldorf, "Welcome to the rear."

Wagons of the retreat decorated with evergreen and flags, as are also the horses. The soldiers in their own way, the wretchedness of the men are very much moved by forced marches days continuously for a full 24 hours before 24 hours, after which they day again.

At Crefeld, in Gladbach, friendly towards them. At Berlin, many fear much greater misery will be met with there. The bank of the Rhine, the patrol will perhaps be a conversation this same foreign assigned in tone, and fully expressed that the supply of food for the troops who witnessed the German troops through the streets of Cologne, draws a vivid picture some starting incidents ahead, others forcing many, especially officers with a fixed gaze, together, and quite evidently to prevent the haunting tears.

"We walked out of the black and white soldiers tread German of absence. Some pointed to the black stone, turned on his voice speaking with "Comrades, Attention!" His words seemed to be straightened up and disappeared. It was had been breathed into him tread they black and white thing quite unexpected. There arose a great "Live Hindenburg!"

Talking with the struck by the feeling towards the Kaiser didn't will the we heard in every man officers and from men however, was general though an entire division is still true.
