

MINE LEADERS ORDER MEN TO PROTECT PITS

Conference Coming Today at Which Trouble May be Brought to End.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER FOR A SETTLEMENT

Riots Reported from Many Parts of Wales and England During Week-End. (Continued from page 1) Further disorders were reported to the authorities yesterday from districts where the coal miners are on strike.

In Wales there were many cases of looting. In one instance a coal train was held up and a large quantity of the fuel taken. Raiders are also killing sheep pasturing in the hilly regions.

The executive committee of the Triple Alliance, after a conference with the prime minister, issued the following statement last night: "It has been agreed that, first, the government shall summon a conference of representatives of the miners' federation and the coal owners at the Board of Trade at eleven o'clock Monday morning to discuss the question in dispute between the two parties; and second, the miners' federation shall tonight issue notice to the federation's branches, urging the miners to abstain from any action interfering with measures necessary for ensuring the safety of the mines, or necessitating the use of force by the government."

The plan was issued by Mr. Hodges, and J. H. Thomas, secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, and Mr. Thomas, in an interview said it was the result of negotiations between the railwaymen, transport workers and the government, and had been accepted by the miners.

Concerning the probability of a settlement, the Press Association says: "There is definite hope that the negotiations will proceed smoothly and that not only will active intervention by the railwaymen and transport workers be averted, but that the miners' stoppage will be ended."

"The early return of the pampener is possible."

en, Missing, Returns To Home

Philadelphia, April 10.—Ten-year-old Nicholas Kuhn, 1533 Germantown avenue, who disappeared two weeks ago while on his way to the Willis' Eye Hospital for treatment, returned to his home yesterday. His mother, who was notified of his return while she was at work in a knitting mill, stated:

CHASED MAN ON HOOD OF FLYING CAR

Cop Follows Bond Suspect Over Windshield to Perilous Perch on Automobile.

BOTH ROLL TO THE PAVEMENT

Befuddled Chauffeur Goes Faster Instead of Stopping—East Side Excited. New York, April 10.—Detective James Stanley was standing yesterday in a doorway in Delancey street, near Eldridge street, waiting for some crime to come along, when a man who said later he was Charles Stanley of Detroit, moved up and began to talk. Stanley was roughly but neatly enough dressed, and the detective paid little attention to him until he suddenly asked where he could sell some Liberty bonds. Then Stanley began to think that a wicked interior might be concealed under a fairly prosperous exterior.

"There is a man up stairs here who buys them," said the detective. "Come along and I'll introduce you."

Suspicious Arrested. Stanley looked at the detective for a moment and then became suspicious for he turned and ran as fast as he could down Delancey street, with Stanley at his heels. The detective didn't yell or invite assistance, but a few small boys joined him to see what it was all about, and then men, women and children poured from the shops and the tenements and started running. None knew why, but each was determined to find out. The result was that in a block or so Stanley had several hundred persons at his heels, yelling "Murder!" "Police!" and "Stop Thief!"

Two blocks along Stanley turned suddenly into the roadway and jumped on the running board of an eastbound automobile, which, curiously enough, turned out to be a high powered car. By making a sport Stanley succeeded in jumping upon the same running board a few feet behind his quarry, leaving in his rear a disgusted and disappointed crowd. Stanley reached out to grab Stanley, but caught only the man's coattails, which soon slipped through his fingers because Stanley seized the windshield and began to climb upon the hood. In another minute he was sitting astride the hood of the car, staring into the eyes of an astonished and frightened chauffeur, who had no idea of the cause of the unusual happenings.

Stanley yelled to the chauffeur to stop but the chauffeur became confused and stepped on the accelerator, sending the car flying ahead at full speed. Stanley then started to climb on the hood after Stanley, but as the detective advanced by inches Stanley retreated by inches, while all the time the chauffeur honked his horn and the automobile went swiftly toward the Williamsburg bridge.

Finally Stanley reached a point where he could almost touch Stanley and the latter stretched out an exploring foot for the other footbal.

He almost had it when the car leaped forward and he slid off the hood into the street.

Detective Stanley jumped to the ground and when Stanley flung forward and tried to fight he conquered him with the aid of Detective Hayes of the Clinton street station. Stanley was then taken to Headquarters, where a $200 was found sewed in his underwear, but no Liberty bonds. He was held for investigation.

One-Third of $2,000,000 Estate to Widow—Ashes to be Thrown in River. Poughkeepsate, April 10.—The will of Jas. H. Sands, disposing of an estate estimated at $2,000,000, was filed here today, soon after Mr. Sands' body had been sent by train to Troy to be cremated. By the instructions of the will the ashes are to be scattered upon the waters of the Hudson River. No reason was assigned for this request.

Mr. Sands, who was 55 years old and a bachelor, left one-third of the estate to Mrs. Winifred E. Sheldon, a widow of Salt Point, at whose home he had been boarding for about seven months. His death occurred at Vassar Brothers' Hospital here. He had lived for many years at Stamfordville. The will was drawn March 13. One-third of the estate is left to a sister, Mrs. Henrietta Sands Bishop, and the remainder to three children of another sister, Stanley Sands Cole, Tenah Cole and Mrs. Jennie Cole Jones, all of Dutchess county.

A number of shirts, boots and sweaters which were stolen from the Melanson store were found in their possession when arrested.

Seen In The City. Just what influenced the young men in their foolish act is not known. They certainly are not adapted to the roles they assumed. The horse they picked out was one that was bound to attract attention and they paraded the streets of the city before driving to Musquash.

They were seen by Officer Garnet on Prince William street shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday evening and later in the evening by Officer Lindsey on Main street. Their break at Musquash gave the direction of their flight.

Those Quarantined Enjoyed Fine Day

Lithuanian Priest Celebrated Mass Yesterday Morning to Those on Partridge Island.

Yesterday's balmy weather was much enjoyed by the passengers of the Scandinavian quarantine on Partridge Island. Every part of the island was covered in their strolls, and time passed quickly. A Lithuanian priest celebrated mass in the morning and his countrymen and the Catholics amongst the passengers attended.

The father does not speak English so the majority of the passengers did not benefit by the service. The number of different nationalities amongst the little colony affords considerable amusement at times. The Lithuanian priest's vestments and the other essentials for the service were supplied from the bishop's palace. In securing them the services of two other passengers and Dr. Brown, the island's physician, were necessitated. The priest told a fellow Lithuanian his wants, the Lithuanian translated his requests into German to another passenger, and the German translated them into English to Dr. Brown who then phoned the palace for what was wanted.

School Observed Temperance Sunday

Large Attendance at Queen Square Church Enjoyed.

Quarterly "Temperance Sunday" was observed yesterday afternoon at Queen Square Methodist Church. There was a large attendance of pupils and officers and a programme was given which was in charge of the temperance committee. Miss O. A. Frost, organist, Mrs. F. Bissard and Joseph Taylor.

Rev. Nell McLaughlin, pastor of the church, led in prayer, and the nineteenth Psalm was repeated by the school. Fifteen imitations were then given to the lesson for the day.

Rev. E. A. Goodwin delivered a very interesting address, speaking chiefly upon the injurious effect of alcohol upon the human system. The speaker had obtained from the office of the liquor inspector a number of sample bottles, and using these as illustrations, he gave several tests proving that alcohol bars the body, and with the white of an egg demonstrated that this liquor coats a food before it has been assimilated by the system. The novel method of presenting the subject held the close attention of the school.

From a bottle of lemon extracts, lessons of its harmful use were drawn. A recitation given by Doris Barrett followed, entitled "The Lessons of the Siren Song." Norma Magnusson rendered a solo, "Encourage My Boy to Say No." R. D. Smith, superintendent of the Sunday school, made a few remarks, referring to progress of temperance in St. John and speaking of the next plebiscite to be held in the secretary's report, given by William Wellsford, it was stated that every teacher was present yesterday.

The programme closed with prayer by Rev. E. A. Goodwin, in which he asked for success of the coming plebiscite in Ontario.

Coordination in Spain "Harmful To Morals"

Madrid, April 10.—The executive committee of the National Federation of Catholic Women Workers in consequence of the decision of the professors of the normal school in Madrid to introduce co-education, today published a strong protest against such action. The protest says: "Having constantly heard rumours over the evil caused by co-education in foreign countries, and also the injury it causes, we urged that efforts should be made to prevent the decision of the professors becoming effective in Spain, where co-education lately would destroy the distinctive character of modesty and morals."
