Back From Syria
With A Message

Paris, Dec. 17.—General Gouraud has arrived from Syria. There is the question of appointing a civil representative for the work of General Gouraud, which is regarded as having been practically completed with the conclusion of the Angora accord. General Gouraud himself, in public statements, declares that the Angora pact renews the traditional policy of France in the Orient, and that French prestige has been steadily increased.
According to him, France has recovered the situation which she only lost through German machinations. He highly praised Franklin D. Roosevelt for his ability in conducting the negotiations and does not believe that the British objections will be pressed seriously.
Asked what France was doing in Syria, he replied: "There is between Turkey and Morocco an important relationship. They are linked together since the side of peace and order."

The Christmas season is the time of travel. "Home for Christmas" is a custom that has come down to us through the ages. In the old days it was the stage coach. Now it is the solid steel train of our great Transcontinental Railway. It is the most comfortable and makes a long journey a period of comfort and pleasure.
The Christmas rush to the Old Country is already over. A few days ago a special train of tourists and standard sleepers passed through Halifax on route to Montreal, filled with people from Western Canada,
who sailed from Halifax for England.
Nearly all were British born Canadians, some of whom were making their first trip to the Old Land since they left it. From Winnipeg this special carried them to Montreal, where they boarded the train for the Canadian National Railway.

Society Formed To Study Conditions of African Colonies

To Make Thorough Investigation of Natives in Their Environments.

London, Dec. 17.—(By Canadian Press.)—Does the native African want education? Is it necessary to educate him? Why not leave him alone, when he is perfectly happy? These questions were answered by Brig. Gen. G. G. Guggisberg, Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Gold Coast, at a recent meeting of the African Society in this city. The African Society, of which Lord Buxton is president, has been formed to enable its members to hear something about the African Colonies by asking of the Colonies to be the society's guests.

Brig. Gen. Guggisberg was born in Toronto, Ont., July 20, 1865. He is a graduate of the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, and has served with distinction in many fields as a British military officer, having been mentioned in despatches several times and connected with his military career. He is a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. His experiences in Africa include his employment under the Colonial Office on a survey of the Gold Coast and adjacent lands, and services as Surveyor-General of Nigeria. He has been Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Gold Coast since 1915.

Answering the questions as to the need or otherwise of educating the native African, the questions having been propounded by himself, Gen. Guggisberg said that if you could provide that the native races should not come into contact with civilization, they would remain happy under the rule of the native world aspires upward when once he was brought into the sphere of modern civilization. Anyway, the need of universal education for the British at present were giving.

Gen. Guggisberg said that in the Northern Territory there was no education. In Canada it was a little better, and in the Gold Coast there were 50,000 educated inhabitants. The schools there were in the nature of primary schools, and at that school 25,000 pupils ranging from 4 to 24 years of age were being educated. This number was not a matter for congratulation, he said. For one reason, they had no colleges to follow up the primary course, and if a man wanted higher education to fit him for any profession he must come to Europe.

Gen. Guggisberg said that in the Northern Territory there was no education. In Canada it was a little better, and in the Gold Coast there were 50,000 educated inhabitants. ## White Star Liner Requires Vast Supplies For Round Voyage

Food for the liner will be required to stock the White Star liner Mauretania, 56,000 tons, the largest steamer in the world, for her first round voyage across the Atlantic, which is anticipated to take place in April next.

According to a provisional victualling list which has just been compiled, the Mauretania's stores will carry far greater supplies than have been taken on any other vessel. Figures based on the full number of passengers which the ship can carry at one time, 4,100, and a crew of 1,000, show that to feed 5,100 people for a single round trip it will be necessary to stock the ship's refrigerators with 75 tons of meat, besides 10 tons of bacon and ham, 5 tons of fish, and 15 tons of poultry. There will also be included in the stores for a voyage 1,000 each of plover, quail, snipe, and pheasant, 750 each of partridges and grouse and 500 wild ducks, a total of 6,000 game birds. The vegetables to be served with these supplies will include about 30 tons of potatoes, 7 tons of carrots and turnips, and 15 tons of cabbage, besides several tons of onions and miscellaneous vegetables including 1,500 pounds of hot-house tomatoes. Phases for the voyage will include 100 boxes of apples, 400 boxes of oranges, 60 boxes of pears, and one ton of hot-house grapes.

There will be one ton of ice cream and 7 tons of marmalade to be served at breakfast, and at tea there will be three tons. To supply the ship's tables with bread and butter 35 tons of flour will be required for the round voyage. The list of supplies calls also for eight tons of sugar and five tons of butter for the voyage, besides three tons of tea and 1,000 quarts of 1,000 quarts of coffee, 80,000 quarts of 500 quarts of milk. For those who care for those things there will be put on board each voyage 80,000 bottles of champagne, 1,000 quarts and 1,000 pints of other wines, 4,000 bottles of whiskey, brandy, and gin, and 25,000 bottles of liqueurs.

Spoken on board will be fortified with a supply of 250,000 cigarettes, and 2,500 pounds of tobacco per voyage.

of a native race, Gen. Guggisberg said. The Gold Coast was being flooded with these semi-educated races. Another difficulty, the General pointed out, was that the native races had no character training of any sort. He put that down to the almost entire lack of boarding schools where a young native could get training in such things as reading, mathematics, history and respectability. Still another difficulty was with their teachers. Intelligence had to be placed mainly on the native teachers, most of whom had not had enough training, and it was too often a case of the blind leading the blind. As regarded Europeans, the brunt of their education fell on the missions. They were going to the Gold Coast, and Westways and others were making great efforts absolutely understated. At present there were 2,000 natives at boarding schools, most of whom had not had enough training, and it was too often a case of the blind leading the blind.
