

DR. JOSEPH McLEOD HAS PASSE TO REST

Leading Baptist for Half Century

Long Service as Pastor, Editor and Worker for Temperance

Foremost in Consummation of Union of Free Baptists With Larger Body in Maritime Provinces and Had Brilliant Career Entering Political Field on One Occasion.

THE LATE DR. JOSEPH McLEOD, Baptist clergyman, editor and temperance advocate, who died yesterday.

Wednesday, June 26. After serving forty-five years in the Baptist ministry and a similar period in editorial chairs of religious organs, Rev. Joseph McLeod, D.D., passed away at his home in King street east yesterday afternoon, closing one of the best careers in the religious life of the province. He was born in this city on June 27, 1844, the son of the late Rev. Joseph McLeod, one of the first Baptist pastors of the Waterloo street Baptist church.

For twenty-six years after his ordination to the gospel ministry in 1870, he was pastor of the George street Baptist church of Fredericton. Since his resignation from the pastorate of that church he has still remained a member, although he has been in St. John for seven years. In the editorial chair of the Religious Intelligencer, founded by his father in 1855, he had a brilliant career, and more recently as the editor of the Maritime Baptist he served most faithfully in strengthening the bonds between the Baptists and the Free Baptists, union he himself was instrumental in bringing about.

His death is regretted. Dr. McLeod had been ill for only a short time, and his recovery was looked forward to. Yesterday, however, he took a turn for the worse, and died at 10 o'clock. He was a member of his own denomination but friends were deeply regret his death. He was a man well liked and respected in his own denomination and others, and always a fascinating companion. As a preacher he was most thoughtful and forceful, far above the average. He was a man of wide culture and high intellect, and his editorial influence, through his editorial chair, have done much for his denomination.

Before the union of the Baptist and the Free Baptists he was the leading representative of the Free Baptist denomination in the province, and he led the movement for union, and through his paper was instrumental in bringing it about. Since the union he has been one of the outstanding figures of the united body, contributing more to the benefit of the bodies, through his editorial influence, than any other man.

When serving as editor of the Religious Intelligencer he made that paper a great influence with the Free Baptist families, and there were many homes which knew no other paper from the time of its foundation by the late Dr. McLeod's father until the broader days of union. Dr. McLeod made frequent visits to country churches in the small towns, and was always warmly received. His acquaintance with the Rev. Dr. McLeod was extended over a period of forty years and the news of his death brings with it the sense of personal loss. Few men have lived a life so strenuous and accomplished.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Morrison, pastor First Presbyterian church, Carleton street, was deeply sorry to hear of Dr. McLeod's death. He was a man who had filled a place of more than ordinary usefulness not only in his own denomination but he had a place all his own in the religious community as a whole. He was a man of rare gifts, and his life was a splendid proof for righteousness.

Dr. Hutchinson, pastor of Main street Baptist church, said: "I have known Dr. McLeod since early boyhood and always admired his Christian character, his great moral reform work, and his special efforts on behalf of temperance. McCutcheon, pastor of Brussels street Baptist church, said: "Dr. McLeod was a man identified all his life with the work of the Free Baptist church before the union and since the union with the united church, and will be missed by very few men world-wide. He was a man of very broad sympathies, had a wide acquaintance with our constituency and was one of the most familiar figures in the life and work of the denomination. His life was a life of devotion to God and the welfare of humanity, as manifested by his devotion to home and foreign missions, temperance, which he was always an ardent supporter, both on the platform and with the pen. By reason of his long association with the denominational work, and on account of his excellent personal qualities, his place will be very difficult to fill."

Sippell, managing director of the Maritime Baptist, said: "Dr. McLeod was a man of exceptional personality, strong convictions and intense loyalty to his understanding of scriptural truth, yet sympathetic and deeply interested in the Kingdom of God and the welfare of humanity, as manifested by his devotion to home and foreign missions, temperance and education."

CONDEMN DOCTOR FRIEDMANN'S "CURE"

Report Submitted to the Convention Declares There Has Been No Improvement in His Canadian Patients and They Have No Confidence in the Remedy.

London, Ont., June 25—In order to allay public excitement and to afford to the medical profession and the people of Canada an authoritative statement regarding the value of Dr. Friedmann's treatment, the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis nominated a committee of five members to study and report upon cases inoculated by Dr. Friedmann, at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and London.

That committee has added to itself those physicians who have had under their observation the cases treated in these cities. The committee thus constituted reports that it has carefully studied the case, and histories of the patients inoculated by Dr. Friedmann. These number altogether 161, namely: for Montreal, 10; for Ottawa, 10; for Toronto, 81; for London, 16.

"As a result of our observations from March 11, to the present, the following conclusions seem justifiable: "1. The inoculations have neither constantly or frequently been followed by marked change in the course of the disease. "2. The cure or progress towards the cure claimed by Dr. Friedmann for the treatment has neither constantly or even frequently taken place in the time during which these cases have been under observation.

"3. Thus, upon investigation the committee finds that the results have been disappointing and that the claims made by its remedy by Dr. Friedmann, have not been proven, and that nothing has been found to justify any confidence in the remedy." "Signed: Prof. J. George Adams, Prof. J. J. MacKenzie, Dr. A. H. Canfield, Dr. E. S. Harding, Dr. John W. S. McCullough, Dr. William H. Ross, Dr. J. H. Elliott, Dr. George Porter.

Dr. Chas. Hogelt, a member of the committee being adverse to making any report, declined to sign the above resolution, condemning Dr. Friedmann, and his "cure" was unanimously passed at a meeting of the Canadian Medical Association held tonight. There was a good deal of applause when the resolution was read, the sympathy of the entire audience apparently being with the German scientist. There was no discussion whatever.

Interest was manifested in the next annual convention, and it is expected that St. John (N. B.) will be the city chosen to host the new convention. It will also be from St. John and the name of Dr. White, former mayor of the city, is mentioned for the honor.

Pathe's Scenes. There were many pathetic scenes as the passengers, including wives and children, were taken away from the wreck. The British immigrants showed their grief by those who wept or who were only slightly injured helping the dead to be taken to the hospitals so that they were injured but most happily after the first alarming cries and their grief was commented on by physicians and other bystanders.

WILL NOT FINISH DAM ACROSS ST. CROIX THIS YEAR

St. Croix Paper Co. Have No Need of Extra Water or Power for a Year.

Calais, Me., June 24—The St. Croix Paper Co. has decided not to complete the big international dam across the St. Croix river at Grand Falls this year. Owing to the fact that there has been unusually high water during the winter and the pulp grinding machines have been able to run to full capacity all the time, the company now has a supply of pulp ahead that will last about a year. There are 15,000 tons of pulp on hand, and the pulp mill is turning out about 180 tons daily, while the capacity of the paper mill is but 160 tons a day, part of which is made from sulphite pulp.

Washington, June 24—Radical changes in the income tax plan of the Underwood bill, and alteration of the administrative features of the measure to overcome most of the objections raised by foreign governments, were agreed upon in a tentative way today by the Democratic members of the senate finance committee.

The income tax, under the new plan would apply to individual incomes over $3,000, but would make important exemptions for individuals, municipalities, civic bodies and mutual insurance companies, under certain restrictions. Changes in the administrative sections include a new provision giving the president authority to increase tariff duties against certain foreign articles coming from a country that discriminates against the United States.

Obnoxious Clauses Cut Out. The proposed five per cent. concession in tariff on goods brought in American ships, the anti-dumping clause, and the provision giving the United States authorities "inquisitorial powers" to examine books of foreign manufacturers when the valuation of goods is in dispute, were stricken out. These provisions brought protests from many foreign nations.

Democrats of the committee made clear today that some further changes might be made in the income tax and administrative sections before they were reported to the senate caucus, but the revised sections as made public here today are expected to stand with but little alteration until the caucus reaches them.

Senate Democrats in caucus on the bill spent the entire day on wool and sugar. Just before adjournment tonight Chairman Simmons secured agreement to vote on amendments. Senator Shafroth offered one to fix the rate at the end of three years at about one-half cent a pound, instead of the free list provision now in the bill. Senator Thomas offered the second amendment to provide that the rates remain as they are in the Payne-Aldrich act.

Tax Reductions For Families. Under the proposed new form of the income tax, an additional exemption of 50 cents would be allowed to married men or married women with dependent wives or husbands, not taxable under this law, and $500 would be added for each dependent child living with the dependent.

Other important changes in the plan include the exemption from taxation of that portion of the premiums collected by the mutual life or mutual insurance companies, which may be returned to policy holders in the form of dividends. The taxation of this portion of their income had been bitterly opposed by the insurance companies. The Underwood bill had exempted only mutual fire insurance companies on this basis.

Chambers of commerce, civic bodies and cities, counties and states are added to the class of organizations whose incomes will not be taxable.

MAINE MEN WILL HARNESS THE EEL RIVER

Power House and Saw Mill to Be Erected—Survey Party Starts Operations.

Bangor, Me., June 24—E. Lisherness, a civil engineer of this city, left Monday for Medford, Me., to start the survey of the Eel River, near Medford, which is to be done by E. O. Foster and G. W. Gould, of Forest City. The dam across the river will be about 150 feet long and will develop a head of about twenty feet. A short canal will carry the water to the power house, which will also be of concrete construction. Until the surveys and plans are completed it cannot be stated what the capacity of the plant will be, but it will probably be several hundred horsepower. It is understood that Messrs. Foster and Gould, who own the power rights, are to erect a sawmill there for the manufacture of lumber, and it is probable that surplus power will be placed on the market.

Mr. Lisherness, the engineer, who is to have charge of the hydro-electric development there, has done considerable work for the St. Croix Paper Company in connection with its development work on the St. Croix river, and also in connection with the company's timber lands.

BLUE JACKETS SHOWED METTLE IN FLEETING SEA

Crew of H. M. S. Newcastle Rowed to Safety Through Sheets of Burning Tar

News reached Portsmouth recently of a most remarkable outbreak of fire at Shanghai, in which officers and men of H. M. S. Newcastle, for the thousandth time upheld the reputation of British bluejackets for resource and cool courage.

Fire broke out late one evening in a large warehouse on the riverbank filled with various goods, oil, wood and other inflammable materials. Flashed by the breeze, the flames spread so rapidly that they were beyond the power of the town fire brigade to quell. H. M. S. Newcastle lay at anchor and landed every officer and man she could spare.

They mounted their pump on the wharf, using sea water, and worked the hose, while others manning the ladder threw a bridge over the burning Newcastle lay at anchor and landed every officer and man she could spare. They mounted their pump on the wharf, using sea water, and worked the hose, while others manning the ladder threw a bridge over the burning Newcastle lay at anchor and landed every officer and man she could spare.

Soon the river fire set alight the ships' boats as they were being lowered, and the officer in charge ordered a retreat to save them. One crew had to row through a sea of flaming liquid to escape. One boat was taken from end to end, and to save it and to effect their own escape from the wharf, now surrounded by flames, the crew were compelled to walk through a morass of fiery tallow.

The fire eventually burned itself out, but not before the house and office of the customs collector had been destroyed and many chandeliers, lamps and other articles had been ruined.

BAD RUNAWAY AT DALHOUSIE

Four People on Way to Church Thrown Out and Injured, One Seriously.

Dalhousie, N. B., June 26.—On Sunday morning John McEwen, government road commissioner, with three children accompanied by their home, Bel River Cove, to attend service at St. John's Presbyterian church, Dalhousie. On the way Miss Mary McNeil, of Bel River Cove, took passage with them for church. On the top of the high hill above the town the harness broke, the horse took fright, McEwen was thrown out, and the horse dashed down Renfrew street. Miss McNeil fainted and fell out at the foot of the hill, dragging a little girl with her. The former was severely injured in the fall.

Drs. Ferguson and Desbrow arrived quickly on the scene and latest reports are in out of danger. The horse was turned up Water street to William street, when the wagon struck a telephone pole, from which the horse was extricated from the vehicle in a dazed condition. The boy who was thrown out was picked up severely hurt. The four occupants who had such a narrow escape from death are at the home of Mrs. Wm. Wallace, sister of Mr. McEwen, with two medical men in charge. McEwen is an expert with horses and feels badly over the affair. Had the accident happened a few minutes later there might have been more serious results as hundreds of people were passing Renfrew street from the R. C. church would have been in the road of the wild runaway.
