HAY SELLING AT $27 PER TON

Large Market for Butter and Eggs Predicted for Saturday.

Hay prices continued advancing Friday morning, and the price reached $27 per ton. It was thought by buyers on Thursday that the price they paid on that day would only be temporary, but when there was an exceedingly active demand today and small supplies prices jumped. Clover hay has not the demand of timothy, so prices are slightly lower. The ruling quotations of this grade are $23 and $25 per ton. One farmer appeared on the square and offered about 25 bags. It is now expected that prices will be lower on Saturday, as the supply today filled the demand, although not active. The retail price is now $1 per bag. Market officials say there will be a large market for butter, eggs, poultry and vegetables on Saturday. It was intimated on Thursday that

HEART-BROKEN

London looking for a suitable place to rob. However, there were women in most of them, so they did not enter those stores. He then declared that Denton's wife (Annie Garfield), told them of a safe in Woodstock that they stole a car and went to their homes to get guns. They also took two khaki handkerchiefs for masks, one for each.

Reached Woodstock.

At 10:30 o'clock they arrived in Woodstock and found a Chinese cafe which they had been told of by Den-ton's wife. The prisoner thought that it was the Dominion Cafe. Too many people were in the cafe, so they did not attempt the robbery. Norman stated that he and Denton each had a gun in their overcoat pocket, and when the auto stopped in front of Johnston's Denton gave him the second gun. They entered.

In answer to questions of Crown Attorney R. N. Ball, Garfield stated that first he and his brother went around counsel. "A terribly unfortunate event occurred. Are not the facts as proved?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply. "The intention was robbery," continued the prisoner. "I never intended to shoot
