It is printed on fine enameled paper, bound in a cover giving the appearance of Morocco leather, with a picture of the hotel and surroundings on same and the rest of the hotel embossed in high relief. A glance through this booklet makes one long for the pleasures of summer and outdoor life, and copies may be secured gratuitously by applying to W. E. Rispin, C. P. and A. Chatham, or to J. D. BE SUICIDES
ALL DYSEPPTICS?

That Dispiriting Disease that Causes So Much Suffering Quickly Cured by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Are you getting to that age when you can understand why people commit suicide? Do you feel weak, dispirited and useless? Is your work a burden and are you beginning to hate to meet people? Is life not worth living?

If you are drifting that way it is high time to look to your stomach. You are becoming a victim of Chronic Dyspepsia. To realize what that means you must know that nearly every suicide is a dyspeptic.

Help your stomach. Treat it with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They are specially prepared for the purpose, are easy to take and having sure results. The proof: It comes in thousands of statements like these:

"I was troubled with Dyspepsia," says Hene Trudel, a student of Three Rivers, Quebec. "For some weeks it made alarming progress till I was weak, discouraged and in despair every day. I had resolved to give up my studies when I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They cured me completely. To-day I have no bad head, no weariness, no pain. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets put sunshine once more in my life."

The Main Point.

The Painter—Yes, sir, I can promise to have your house finished in two weeks. Von Blumer—But that isn't the point. The Painter—Then what is it? Von Blumer—I want to know how long it is going to take you.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO MOTHERS
If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of a gripper, sore throat, or sickness of any kind, get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline, and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Folsom's Nerviline, which has been the great family remedy in Canada for the past fifty years. Try a 25c. bottle of Nerviline.

RADIANT WOMANHOOD.

The glory and satisfaction of beautiful womanhood can be known only to those possessing the unlimited advantages of health. No weak woman can be happy or enjoy half the pleasures of life. Pallid cheeks, swollen eyes, exhausted nerves, all tell of a terrible struggle to keep up. What the weak woman needs is Ferrozone; it renews, restores and vitalizes instantly—it's a "woman's remedy," that's why.

Ferrozone makes women strong, plump and healthful because it contains lots of nutriment, the kind that forms muscle, sinew, bone and nerve. Vitalizing blood courses through the body, making delightful color, happy spirits, true womanly strength. Fifty cents buys a box of Ferrozone in any drug store.

The greatest trust between man and man is the trust of giving counsel.

—Coughs, colds, hoarseness and other throat ailments are quickly relieved by Cressoline Tablets, ten cents per box. All druggists.

BURGLAR AS A GUEST.

Servant Cleaned His Boots While His Master Slept.

A Louth milkman named Wright Simmons, on going downstairs the other morning, found a man sleeping on the couch in a sitting room which he let to a local curate. Thinking the clergyman had sheltered the man for the night, the landlord cleaned his boots, which were close to the fireplace, beside the curate's, and told the maid not to disturb the visitor.

He was surprised, however, that a clergyman should associate with a man who wore such disreputable boots, and the maid was also surprised when she took the boots in and noticed that the visitor looked more like a tramp than a gentleman.

Obedient her master's instructions to be quiet, the maid lit the fire in the sitting room and dusted the apartment with as little noise as possible. However, the sleeping man awoke, took his shining boots from the maid, and shortly afterwards left the house.

It was then found that a large piece of ham and some bread, buns and fruit which had been left for Mr. Tucker's supper had been eaten. When he came downstairs, the curate was bantered by his friend's appetite, and then Mr. Simmons turned, to his amazement, that the visitor must have been a burglar, for Mr. Tucker knew nothing about him.

After some enquiries, the police arrested a rough-looking man, who gave the name of Charles Backstrom, and who said he was an engineer on a trawler, and a man of German descent.

Prinsep's Will.

Mr. Valentine Prinsep, the eminent painter, who died in November last, has left estate of the value of £7,288. The will, which is dated 1889, is in Mr. Prinsep's own handwriting, sets forth that:

"I, being in sound mind and perfect health, do hereby give and devise all my property of every kind unreservedly and absolutely to my dear wife Florence Prinsep, to her heirs, assigns, the best and act in the just manner towards our children, and I appoint her residuary legatee of all that may fall to me."

"I have perfect confidence that she will bring up our children worthily, and give them an education to enable them to take their place in the rank they ought to hold as gentlemen in the best sense. I desire, under any circumstances, that they be brought up to believe themselves dependent upon their own exertions, and that they be started in whatever profession their talents may seem to point, holding the opinion that a man with nothing to do is necessarily dissatisfied and consequently unhappy. In these views, I have the confidence my dear wife will agree with me."

Lady Dundonald.

Lady Dundonald, who has left London for the country, says M. A. F. was Miss Winifred Hesketh, only child and heiress of Mr. Robert Hesketh of Gwyrch Castle, North Wales, and her marriage took place in 1878. The word "Imperial" has come into general use, and Lady Dundonald may be aptly described as an Imperialist woman. She is tall, with a fine figure, dark abundant hair, and much brilliancy of coloring. Her manners are good, but quiet and dignified. She spends many months of the year on her own property in Wales, and the rest in London at a handsome house in Grosvenor Square. Lady Dundonald takes great interest in Welsh industries, and usually appears at their annual exhibition in London. By the way, her name, Winifred, is one of the names that are Welsh rather than English, and a such may be reckoned with Nesta, Gwen, Gladys, Lettice, Gwenfa, Gwethel and Gwendolyn. Her eldest daughter is now married, and is Lady Grisel Hamilton, but Lady Dundonald will this year again take the field as a champion by introducing her second girl, the lovely Lady Jean Cochrane.

Kitchener as Stage Manager.
Mr. Hermann Klein relates the following little story of Lord Kitchener in his "Thirty Years of Musical Life in London":

"At Drury Lane on one occasion, actively assisting the manager in training an army of superns in an imaginary fight with African natives, was a gentleman in a frock coat and tall hat, of undeniable military appearance, who impressed me both by his quiet, masterly manner and the imperturbable patience with which he directed manoeuvres, to be repeated over and over again until they were satisfactorily executed."

"After the rehearsal Sir Augustus Harris beckoned me to approach. "Klein," he said, "I want to introduce you to my friend, Major Kitchener, who has been kind enough to come and help me with a little soldiering work."

Diet and Appendicitis.
For the benefit of those who fear appendicitis and are willing to do anything which will keep them immune from disease, Sir Frederick Treves has prepared a list of eatables which cannot be taken with safety. Foremost on the list is preserved ginger, that deadliest of sweetmeats, but pineapple, either fresh or preserved, is equally dangerous. Oranges, figs and raspberries should never be indulged in. To still further limit our diet, there is a number of things which may not be eaten by those who fear typhoid fever. The oyster has led to suspicion of all other shellfish, not only lobsters and crabs, but even shrimps and prawns. Smelt and whitebait are regarded with awe rather than admiration on a menu.

The Note the Pig Squealed.
Among the musical gifts possessed by Sir Herbert Oakley, the famous composer, organist and teacher, was an ability to tell offhand the exact pitch and key of any sound he happened to hear. As a boy of four years of age he could, without seeing the keys, name any note or combination of notes played on the piano.

An anecdote which illustrates the musician's perfect perception of pitch is told.

Sir Herbert was staying with his old friend, the Bishop of Colchester, at High Wycombe and one day heard a pig squeak.

"G sharp!" at once cried Sir Herbert.

Someone ran to the piano and G sharp it was!

A CAUSE OF HEADACHE

One Very Common Cause, Generally Overlooked.

Headache is a symptom, an indication of derangement or disease in some organ, and the cause of the headache is difficult to locate because so many diseases have headache as a prominent symptom; derangement of the stomach and liver, heart trouble, kidney disease, lung trouble, eye strain or ill fitting glasses all produce headaches and if we could always locate the organ which is at fault the cure of obstinate headaches would be a much simpler matter.

However, for that form of headache called frontal headache, pain back of the eyes and in forehead, the cause is now known to be catarrh of the head, and throat; when the headache is located in back of head and neck it is often caused from catarrh of the stomach or liver.

At any rate catarrh is the most common cause of such headaches and the cure of the catarrh causes a prompt disappearance of the headaches.

There is at present no treatment for catarrh of the stomach and liver, effective as Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new internal remedy in tablet form, composed of antiseptics like red gum, blood root which act upon the blood and cause the elimination of the catarrhal poison from the system through the natural channels.

Miss Cora Ainsley, a prominent school teacher in one of our normal schools, speaks of her experience with catarrhal headaches and eulogizes Stuart's Catarrh Tablets as a cure for them. She says: "I suffered daily from severe frontal headache and pain in and back of the eyes, at times so intensely as to incapacitate me in my daily duties. I had suffered from catarrh, more or less, for years, but never thought it was the cause of my headaches, but finally became convinced that such was the cause because the headaches were always worse whenever I had a cold or fresh attack of catarrh."

"Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were highly recommended to me as a safe and pleasant catarrh cure and after using a few fifty cent boxes which I procured from my druggist's I was surprised and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for good."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists at fifty cents per package, and a few fifty cent boxes which I procured from my druggist's I was surprised and delighted to find that both the catarrh and headaches had gone for good."

A PERSISTENT BACKACHE.
Can have but one cause—diseased kidneys, which must be strengthened before backache can be cured. Why not use Dr. Hamilton's Pills? They cure the kidneys quick, make them strong and able to filter disease—breeding poisons from the blood. At once you feel better, stronger, brighter. Kidney health is guaranteed to every user of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Get a 25c. box from your druggist, and refuse substitutes.

The man who always says what he thinks might take a few lessons from the man who always thinks

The English "Society for the Prevention of Consumption" presided over by the Prince of Wales, was recently addressed by Sir William Broadbent, who stated that it was definitely known that every case of consumption began with a germ communicated from some other case. There is no such thing as inherited tuberculosis. The germ is local weakness which tends to consumption, but the germ has absolutely to be planted in that weak spot before consumption can ensue. This ought to comfort thousands of people who have "weak chests" or "weak lungs."

They are the foredoomed victims of this dread disease. All that's needed to bid absolute defiance to this deadly scourge, is to be able to strengthen the weak lungs, and build up a strong body. The answer to this is found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It so purifies the blood and increases the blood supply, that disease is thrown off, and the weak organs are nourished into perfect health, which defies germs of every kind. People, given up by doctors, emaciated, bleeding at the lungs, have been cured every day by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant.

The office that seeks the man is always more shy and shrinking than the creditor on the same mission.

MESSRS. C. C. RICHARDS & CO.
Gentlemen, — My three children were dangerously low, with diphtheria. On the advice of our priest my wife began the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT. In two hours they were greatly relieved, and in five days they were completely well, and I firmly believe your valuable Liniment saved the lives of my children.

Gratefully yours,

STOPPED AT THE ALTAR.

Family Quarrel Interrupts Wedding in England, and, Son Being Under Age, it Was Abandoned.

The romance, though happily not the tragedy of Romeo and Juliet, has just been re-enacted in real life in the small East Lancashire Town of Darwen, says The Daily Express.

Both Romeo and Juliet were members of families of equal status, and having made up their minds to be quietly married at Holy Trinity Church, the banns were put up and published the required number of times.

As no one came forward on any of the three legal opportunities on the invitation of the clergyman, the Rev. I. Savatage put forward any "cause or just impediment" all was assumed to be well, and the young couple made all their preparations for married life.

Then a bolt fell from the blue. The heads of the two families quarrelled; Montague and Capulet were at feud. The young couple deemed it no quarrel of theirs, and went on with their preparations, resolving, however, to keep the date of their prospective wedding a secret. Romeo would wed, but Savatage put forward any "cause or just impediment" all was assumed to be well, and the young couple made all their preparations for married life.

One day, abjuring wedding finery, and wearing their everyday clothes, they each went secretly to church.

Alas! the wedding ceremony which united the real Romeo and Juliet was destined to be interrupted in this case. They had reached the altar, and the wedding service had begun, when a commotion at the church door heralded the dramatic arrival of the father of the bridegroom.

"I forbid the ceremony," he cried.

The clergyman was astonished and asked for an explanation.

"My son," he said, "shall not marry the daughter of a man with whom I am not on friendly terms. My son is a minor, and without my consent he cannot marry."

The clergyman sought to move him, the young couple made tearful appeals; but the father refused to yield, though his son will be of age in a few months. The ceremony was abandoned.

A Million Pound Will.
According to details circulated in Margate, England, a will made over one hundred years ago, and affecting the disposition of property valued at upwards of £1,000,000, has been discovered by accident. The story, which lacks confirmation, is as follows:

A few days ago a Mrs. Horn, who resides at Byron Road, Margate, was taking down from the wall an old copy of Landseer's picture, "Shoeing the Old Bay Mare," when a small parcel of parchment fell from the back.

Not thinking it of any value, Mrs. Horn gave it to her children as a plaything. The little ones soon commenced to cut it to pieces with scissors. Happened to mention the fact casually to a neighbor, Mr. H. Glsby, who is the caretaker of the Arcade Seamen's Rooms. His answer made her rush indoors to gather together all the pieces of the half-destroyed parchment.

"It must be the will of my great-grandfather, Jacob Glsby," said her neighbor. "He died at Swadling, in the Isle of Thanet, and was known to have money. Glsby's have been advertised for several times in the Chancery List, but we have all been too poor to claim our rights."

The will is signed by "Jacob Glsby, a yeoman," and also bears the sealed signature of Nathaniel Austen, named as executor, and John Harman, his clerk. It bears the date May 25, 1795.

It bequeaths the testator's property, which is situate in Thanet, and which of course, has increased enormously in value since 1795, to the males of the Glsby family, of whom there are now twenty-one living, all of them being in very humble stations.

The eldest surviving grandson of the testator is Mr. James Glsby, who is shipper, living at Upper Strand St. Sandwich.

The £1,000,000 will and the picture behind which it was concealed were bought a year ago for a guinea, Mrs. Horn becoming its owner at an auction sale held in Margate.

Curious Jail.
The most curious prison in the world is in the Island of San, a little spot in the home dominion of England. They have very good folk in Sark, and crime is so infrequent that an "open door jail" is the only penal institution in the place. There are very few arrests. The most recent was of a woman accused of stealing handkerchiefs.

She was placed in jail, and all of the sympathizing women of the island sat around the door and told her stories to pass away the time. The next morning she walked out to the Magistrate's house and asked whether she would release her if she promised to be good and not steal any more handkerchiefs. He said she might go and formally released her in his capacity as warder. As constable, also, he offered no obstacle to her immediate departure.

This insular Pouch Bab, in fact, is as much of a curiosity as the jail.

Breaking It Gently.
"An' did ye br-eak th' news iv Ca-a-sey's death to th' widdy, Terence?"

"I did, an' I did ut gently. I said: 'Good mornin', Mrs. Ca-a-sey. It's good luck ye're afther havin' to-day,' sez I."

"An' phwat's th' good luck?" sez she.

"Ye've come into a tidy sum iv money," sez I.

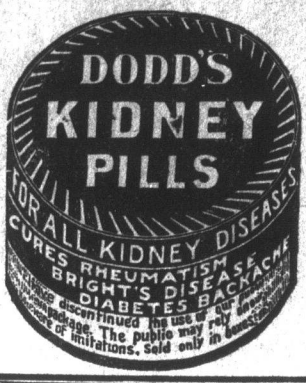

"Th' saints be praised!" sez she. "An' where's th' money comin' from, Terence?"

"From yer husband's life insurance," sez I. "Sure he vas kilt be th' blast this mornin'!"

Sea Gull Surprise Cigarette Smoker.
While a number of people were watching the antics of the sea gulls, which rose continually to the parapet of London Bridge recently in search of the food which several of the spectators were throwing to them, one gentleman gave a large bag of sprats to the gulls, who eagerly took the fish from his fingers one at a time.

Standing close by was another spectator who held an unlighted cigarette in his lips.

Judge of the latter's surprise when one daring bird, finding no sprat awaiting, suddenly swooped on the cigarette and deftly removed it from the owner's mouth.—London Mail.
