

Try This Pinex "Sixteen Ounces of Cough Syrup"

A Family Supply for 50c, Saving $2. The Surest, Quickest Remedy You Ever Used or Money Refunded.

A cough remedy that saves you $2, and is guaranteed to give quicker, better results than anything else, is surely worth trying. And one trial will show you why Pinex is used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

You will be pleasantly surprised by the way it takes right hold of a cough giving almost instant relief. It will usually stop the most obstinate, deep-seated cough in twenty-four hours, and is unequalled for prompt results in whooping cough.

A 50-cent bottle of Pinex, when mixed with home-made sugar syrup, makes sixteen ounces of the best cough remedy ever used. Easily prepared in five minutes—directions in package.

The taste is pleasant—children take it willingly. Stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative—both excellent features. Splendid for croup, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, and a highly successful remedy for incipient lung troubles.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in gualacol and other natural healing pine elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a 16-oz. bottle, and it is ready for use.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificate of guarantee is wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

FORSTER FARM
—Oakville, Ont.

"Madam," remarked the weary wayfarer with the bandaged eye, "I was not always as you see me now."

"I knew it," replied the stern-visaged woman at the back door. "The last time you were here you had on a deaf-and-dumb sign."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

HOLLOW BUILDING BRICK.

I have heard of a hollow, burnt brick, for building wall for bank stable. Do you know if they give satisfaction, and how they compare with cement? In regard to expense, which would be the cheaper?

A. P.

Ans.—Hollow building brick are, in many respects, very suitable for a basement wall, making a dry, well-insulated wall which, provided the necessary precaution is taken, should prove fairly durable. They are not extra strong, however, and cases have been known where horses have kicked holes in them. They should be protected against such mishaps by a well-supported plank lining behind the horses. Cement would likely prove the most economical, especially for a large basement, and it would doubtless be most durable, and would make the neatest wall. The bricks soon show the effect of weathering, and for a large barn we think the cement would make the better wall. A slop wall may be built with a hollow space.

REMODELLING STABLE.

Could you give me a plan for remodeling my stables? I want to put in a cement floor, single stalls, and stanchions. I intend to use wood for stalls and cement for trough. My stable is 41 feet long, and I intend to put in 12 cows.

1. Do you think it is long enough for 12 cows?
2. I do not intend to water in stable. What would be best?
3. How wide, how deep, and what shape would you make trough?
4. How would you make stalls, and what size timber?
5. How far back to drop would you make stalls?
6. Would you put planks on cement where cows stand?

YOUNG FARMER.

Ans.—1. Allowing for eleven partitions of two inches in thickness, would leave 39 feet 2 inches for stalls, which, if divided into stalls of equal width, make twelve stalls a trifle over 3 feet 3 inches wide. The size of stall depends largely upon the size of the cow. It is often advisable to provide for some small and some large cows, thus half the stalls could be made 3 feet in width, which would leave the other six 3 feet 6 inches wide. This should be large enough for the twelve cows.

2. Good results are claimed by those who follow either the practice of watering in bowls or troughs inside and those who water outside. Outside watering, if properly managed, may be beneficial to the cows. It gives them a chance to get the fresh air, and, at the same time, to move around and get necessary exercise. Care must be taken, however, that the animals are not allowed to become chilled. The length of time the cows are left out can be regulated to suit the severity of the weather. If very cold, a few can be let out at a time, and returned immediately they have finished drinking; on milder days, they can be left out a short time. Watering inside has the advantage of there being a supply of water before the cows at all times. There is, however, unless great care is taken, a danger of the bowls or troughs becoming rather slimy and unwholesome.

3. From twenty-two to twenty-four inches is a good width for feed trough, and six inches a good depth. Have the bottom corners rounded so as to avoid their becoming clogged full of feed refuse, making it difficult to keep the trough clean.

4. Why not use, with the stanchion ties, a metal pipe partition? If using plank partitions, use 1½- to 2-inch planks. A partition which slants from the back up to the front of the stall is very good.

5. Stalls should be different lengths, to suit the large and smaller cows. With stanchions, stalls could be made from 4 feet 6 inches for the smallest cows, to 5 feet for the largest. Chain ties would require longer stalls. From 5 feet to 5 feet 6 inches, would be a good length.

6. Planks are not necessary on the cement in a cow stable where plenty of bedding is used, otherwise planking might be advisable.
