Surnames and Their Origin

CLAYTON
Variations—Newton, Leighton, Layton, Hilton.
Racial Origin—Anglo-Saxon.
Source—Localities.
This little group of family names is typical of the larger part of the entire classification of "ton" names. They are given here as variations of one another, not because they have come from the same source, but from the same kind of source.
This source is Anglo-Saxon place names. This does not by any means establish the first bearers of the surnames as of Anglo-Saxon blood, however. They might have been and undoubtedly were in many cases Normans.
But it was back in the Anglo-Saxon period that the place names were formed around the old word "tun," which has given us our modern word "town." To the Anglo-Saxons this word meant primarily an inclosed place, which, of course, most of their towns were. Thus if the locality were noted for a clay soil, the "tun" became known as Clayton and grew into a town of that name. Newton would signify an inclosure recently built (recent in the view of those who named it). Leighton and the modern simplification, Layton, would be an inclosure on a "leigh" or "ley," that is, meadow land. And Hilton would designate such an inclosure on a hillside or hill-top.
Such names became family names as a rule when former residents settled in other communities.

TUMULTY.
Variations—Tomalty, Talty.
Racial Origin—Irish.
Source—A given name.
At just what period this Irish clan came into being is not quite clear. The clan name, however, is traceable back to a period prior to that in which the majority of English family names originated.
As nearly as the Irish spelling of the name can be rendered with the English alphabet, it is "O'Tombaltagh." The spelling is formidable, but the pronunciation is not, the native Gael pronouncing it just about the way we pronounce the variations Tumulty and Tomalty, with the clan-signifying "O" before it.
This "O" in Irish names, however, is but the modern development of the more ancient forms "Hua" and "Hui," sometimes rendered in English as "Ua" and "Hy." One is singular and the other plural in this sense; the former is used when speaking of a single person who is a member of the clan, the latter when the speaker is referring to several members or to the clan as a whole.
The Irish clan names all are taken from the given names of the chieftains who founded them. In this case the given name was "Tomhalt," with a meaning of "the waster" or "the generous one."

Animals That Advertise.

Everywhere one goes in the country signs may be seen which indicate that creatures of the wild know the value of advertising just as much as do human beings.
Often this advertising may be just a dodge on the part of the insect or animal to avoid the attentions of another creature who has designs upon him as a delectable dinner morsel.
This peculiarity of Nature is noticeable in regard to the butterfly, which is an ingenious little publicity merchant. Certain kinds of butterflies have noxious qualities which are not to the liking of birds, but there are other species which are just the reverse. The latter consequently assume the colorings of the former, and so, by advertising their undesirability as food, manage to preserve their lives.
The same tactics are adopted by beetles, but it is from bird and animal life that we get the best examples. Certain kinds of snipe, for instance, set up a peculiar shriek as soon as they catch sight of a shooting-party, and this is kept up until they have advertised far and wide that the guns are on the look out.
Sheep's Secret Signals.
Wild sheep, also, are clever in this respect. They need only to see one of their number at attention, with head up and ears pricked forward, to become suspicious and ready for flight. Again, when deer register the presence of a foe, they send a signal to every member of the band to be cautious.
The wild bellow of the lion is often uttered not because he is angered and ready to fight. He knows that to keep away his foes he has but to remind them of his power, and he does so by proclaiming his strength far and wide.
With just the same object does the rattlesnake shake his castanets. The sound of them reaches the ears of his foe, and, aware with the dreadful yarning of the snake's latent power, they rapidly disappear.
But it is at the mating season in the wild that the full power of publicity is brought to bear. There is a general flaunting of color and parade of strength, with the object of proving to a possible mate how much more desirable than his rival each one is.

This competition for favor is particularly outstanding in bird life, and the display of colors and ornaments to catch the female eye is carried to perfection. The great peacock, while conscious of his beauty, at the same time is aware that his rival may be just as beautiful, and to out him from favor he tidles himself up and, as it were, puts on his Sunday best.
The Alligator's Courtship.
Birds of Paradise wave their wonderful silky plumes, and the humming-bird with great skill flashes his gems among the flowers, making a perfect color scheme.
Other birds, less fortunate in the matter of color, find the power of song a great factor in gaining favor; so these songsters chant their sweetest melodies or chirrup and whistle as best they can.
Even the lumbering alligator knows how to advertise, and in searching for a bride does his best to stage a fight so that the lady of his choice may see him come forth the victor!
The same applies to lions and tigers and even the monkey, so if you see any of those fellows vainly strutting about at the Zoo, don't laugh. They know what they are doing!

GREEN TEA IN GREAT DEMAND.

Twenty-five years ago, Green Tea was more popular than Black, but due to the heavy importation of poor quality Japan and China Green Teas, the demand fell off. Ceylon and India started producing Green Tea on a large scale only in recent years. They were of such fine quality and delicious flavor that Green Tea drinkers immediately recognized their superiority and demanded them in ever increasing quantities. Salada Tea Company is practically the sole importer of Ceylon and India Green Teas in Canada.
Rest.
To get the most out of a vacation one should have a rest as well as a change of scene and recreation. Excessive physical fatigue whether from work or play is dangerous. Fatigue means a tired heart and weakened digestive organs, and it lowers resistance to infection of any sort. Many a vacation has been spoiled by unusual fatigue, with over eating, and many a vacationist returns home suffering from an infection which would never have occurred had his natural powers of resistance not been lowered by general bodily fatigue.
Begin new forms of work or play moderately. Moderation in physical exertion for the first few days of a vacation will make a great difference in the actual results of the vacation. It will also make a vacation far more beneficial in its results if the daily programme be arranged so as to provide a period of complete relaxation and rest. If not a nap, after the noonday meal or before the evening meal.
One who has climbed the ladder should not pull it up or kick it down—he should extend a kindly hand to the fellow below.

Love's Way.

Love goes the way of laughter,
And pretty maiden tears,
But he knows naught of the way
Nor grey nor bitter tears.
Love goes the way that Hope takes,
And meets the golden dawn,
And oh! the picture Hope paints
Are sweet to look upon.
Ah! Love is wise and gracious,
Or folks would never know
The tinkling lilt of laughter
In Dawn's young ruddy glow.

THE CHEERFUL WOMAN

Is One Who Has the Rich, Red Blood of Good Health.

The fact that one woman is bright-eyed, rosy-cheeked, strong and cheerful, while another is pale, weak and depressed is due more often than otherwise to the condition of the blood. The way to 'remedy' this depressed state is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no other tonic so equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A case in point is that of Mrs. Melvin Abra, Graveley Street, Vancouver, B.C., who says:—"About two years ago I was a very sick woman. I seemed to be wasting away and getting thinner all the time. I grew so weak that a doctor sent me to the hospital, but the treatment there did not help me and I returned home. Then I tried a number of tonics with no better results. At this stage my mother came to me, and as she is a firm believer in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, she started me on this medicine. I can only say that they did wonders for me. I began to get new health and strength after I had taken a few boxes, and day by day this improvement continued until I was again well and able to do all my household work, and I have not had a sick day since. I cannot recommend your pills too highly and urge those who are looking for health and happiness to give them a trial."
You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Seeing Eyes.

The automobile plowed through the deep sand of a piney woods road. There was not a house in sight, not a sound except the impatient and disgusted exclamations of the pair in the car, a young couple from the city.
"Miles and miles and not even a cabin! I don't wonder nobody lives in such a forsaken country," grumbled the young man at the wheel, and his wife emphatically declared that she didn't blame folks for not living where there was nothing except pines and sand.
Just then the breeze that stirred the boughs bore to their ears a song, jubilant and glad:
"I've reached the land of corn and wine,
With all its treasures surely mine;
I've reached that beautiful shining shore—
My heaven, my home, forever more!"
The car slowed down and, drawing to one side, stopped to allow a small covered cart to come slowly up over the narrow road. An old woman in a purple calico dress, with a big black sunbonnet falling back on her neck, sat in a chair and drove the pony.
"In trouble?" inquired the old woman sympathetically. "The sand's so deep I reckon you're stuck. I'll drive on and send a neighbor to pull you out."
"No, not stuck, just waiting to ask if you could show us some nearer way out to the main road," said the young man.
"Now ain't that a nice way to travel, though!" exclaimed the woman, "glidin' along smooth as grease and seein' everything!"
"But this country"—began the young woman impetuously, "this country is so—"
"Ain't it?" replied the stranger, beaming upon them. "For them with seein' eyes there's no prettier country to be found! This time of year especially when the woods are fair groanin' under the bounty of the Lord, I been down the road a piece, spendin' the day with a neighbor; she's a cripple body and can't get much, so I stop now and then to gather a basketful of bullaces and wild grapes. You can see the vines yonder. And don't them clusters of sumac look pretty, jest like famin' torches? That slim tree with the few red leaves on it is a persimmon, and they are good now that frost's touched 'em. I filled the basket with them and with some open clusters of chinquapins. Squirrels gather 'em, posoms came to eat the persimmons and grow fat as butter. Truly this is, as the hymn says, a land of corn and wine—which is jest a name for all God's plenty."

The young couple gazed round them with opened eyes.
"Me-a-runnin' on, and you askin' the highest way out!" said the old lady, laughing deprecatingly. "But when I get started on the country, why I just forget. The Lord made a sight of pretty things for travelers to see if they got eyes to see 'em with. You follow the main tracks like you're doin' and you'll soon come out on the highway."
They called cheery good-bys and waved back at the old little figure in the purple calico. For a time the two were silent; then the young wife spoke softly to her husband. "See, dear, right ahead of us are a whole family of squirrels in that hollow limb. I counted four, and there comes another with a nut in her mouth!"
"I see; and over yonder in that thicket there's a covey of quail."
"And there right overhead is a vine just loaded with grapes! Stop the car and let's pick some. There really are so many things to see in these woods if,"—she looked into her husband's face, and he nodded, understandingly,— "if we have seeing eyes!"

Vagabondia.

O I am done with golden shoes,
With satin, silk and shining gear,
What is this tinsel show to lose
An' I take a road far, far from here!

Five Thousand Whales in One Season's Catch.

The Greenland whale fishery, so far as this country is concerned, is almost non-existent. The harpoon-gun was too deadly, and the "right" whale of the Arctic appeared likely to become as extinct as the dodo.
Then news was circulated that the ocean around the Falkland islands in the south Atlantic was "alive" with whales, and, just as gold-seekers rush off to any new field where gold is reported, so the whaling fleets all turned south. To-day the whale fishery around these islands is more profitable than all the other fisheries of the world put together.
No time is wasted returning to port with a "catch." Floating factories have been established where the blubber can be treated, and so valuable is this that the rest of the whale's carcass is often sent adrift, a waste of tons of valuable material.
During one year a score of whaling boats operating from South Georgia killed five thousand whales, the oil from which filled 200,000 barrels. Six barrels represent a ton, and as whale oil sells at from $50 to $125 per ton, the catch of this fleet was worth $2,500,000.
No man can be cheated out of an honorable career in life unless he cheats himself. Believe in yourself and your capabilities and you will not be cheated.
Of London's 20,000 thoroughfares, 112 are named "Church," the next most popular names being "Park," "Grove," and "Victoria."

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous diseases. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones so equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right, and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

League Protects Children.

The children of the world will henceforth be under the protection of the League of Nations. The International Bureau for the Promotion of Child Welfare has been working in Brussels under the auspices of thirty governments and of various national organizations, but with the consent of the members the Council of the League has authorized the concentration of all child-welfare activities in a special department of the League at Geneva.

NURSE CHAPPELLE SAYS TANLAC BRINGS MOST GRATIFYING RESULTS

Nurse With 15 Years' Experience Urges Use of Tanlac—Tells of Her Mother's Experience With World's Famous Tonic.

"I have direct and personal knowledge of so many cases where TANLAC has restored health and strength and helped weak, run-down people to get on their feet that I know it to be an unusual medicine," is the emphatic manner in which Mrs. M. E. Chappelle, Blue Mount and Thomas Ave., Wauwatese, Wis., a practical nurse of fifteen years' experience, pays tribute to the famous treatment.
"Time and again I have urged TANLAC'S use and it always brings the most gratifying results. My own mother, now eighty years old, took TANLAC five years ago, and it has been her standby ever since. Nothing helps her as TANLAC does and she is as strong an advocate of the medicine as I am. Only recently, mother became generally run-down. Her stomach was disordered, her appetite utterly failed her, and she came near having a nervous breakdown. TANLAC gave her a vigorous appetite, corrected all complaints and left her not only well and happy, but so strong and active that she looks after the home and visits around, as well. And mother thinks the TANLAC Vegetable Pills are the greatest ever.

"In all my long years of experience as a nurse, I have never known the equal of TANLAC."
TANLAC is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.
