

MOST SADLY HAMMERED

Idlers Wholly Routed by the Gans

Eleven Scores Piled Up in One Inning by Victors—Slaughter Was Awful.

The wildest, fiercest baseball game witnessed on the local diamond this season was that of yesterday evening when the Gandolfos pounded the Idylers at will and piled up 27 big runs to 8 scored by the unfortunates. The Gans were not satisfied with less than three baggers with a home run thrown in occasionally by way of diversion. Kennedy played only fair ball for the Idylers while the remaining members of the team all played as though afflicted with Rheumatism, gout and lumbago.

Lowry replaced Wilson in the box in the sixth inning and was lammed most unmercifully, 11 scores being made on him in the seventh, the Gans fairly treading each other's heels around the bases.

As the Gans were lowest on the list the sympathy of the rooters was with them and that, with the frightful wallop handed the Idylers was most discouraging to the latter team. For the vanquished the work of Henderson on third was heart-rending while Krelling as shortstop outtripped Rip Van Winkle in the matter of inactivity, and after Wilson left the box and went to right field had no more action than an Indian cigar sign. That the Idylers can play ball has been proven but that they did not play ball last night was painfully apparent. They moved around as though hobbled a la Kentucky or as though they were standing on sticky paper spread for house flies.

Throughout the game the fine playing of the new Whitehorse players Doyle and Keating, also the work of Duncan, was apparent.

Without going into detail it is sufficient to say that the result was a sweeping victory for the Gans and an avalanche for the Idylers. The latter team went to pieces in the third inning and never again collected its straggling parts. The lineup of the two teams follows:

The league percentages as they now stand are as follows:

	Played	Won	Lost	P. C.
Civil Service	8	6	2	.750
Idyle Hour	8	4	3	.571
Anaranths	8	3	5	.375
Gandolfos	8	2	5	.285

Portland, June 24.—No less than three burglaries were committed on the East Side early this morning and in one case a mysterious shooting affray occurred.

The entire neighborhood around East Tenth and Stark streets was aroused about 3 a. m. by a fusillade of shots. At the police station nothing is known about the shooting, but Mrs. Corse, of 74 East Stark street, states that she saw two men carrying away a badly wounded man. It is believed that the shooting was done by burglars who quarrelled over the division of the spoils and that one of them was wounded.

Benjamin Trenkran, a resident of Portland Heights, early this morning exchanged a dozen shots with burglars who were attempting to enter the residence of E. Shelby Morgan. A running exchange of shots was kept up until the burglars disappeared. No one was hit.

Mystery About Barfars

London, June 27.—Owing to curious rumors which, according to several papers, are circulating in the west end, the greatest interest has been felt in the case of two men who have just been sentenced to four years penal servitude on a charge of attempted burglary at the residence of Mrs. George Keppel in Portman Square.

At the trial counsel for the defense pointed out that the men were not burglars in the ordinary sense of the word, while the police inspectors gave evidence as to their respectability.

The visitors seemed to have opened the front door and walked to the very spot where the jewels, which were of much greater value than was previously stated, were kept. What basis there is for the rumors, inquiries at the best sources of information have failed to discover.

Chostia Revolts

London, June 30.—The Morning Advertiser publishes on authority a statement by the Consul-General of Colombia concerning the situation between the United States and Colombia with regard to the Panama canal. The statement says the signing of the Hay-Herran treaty by the Colombian minister in Washington had been the object of American pressure and intrigue for many months. Every effort has been made to prevent the opposition party, headed by Gen. Reyes, gaining enough power to defeat the bill, but he has sufficient arms and men to proclaim a revolution, and President Marroquin does not desire that the United States should not construct the canal, but considers that the terms of payment are insufficient.

Insane Man's Deed

Charlotte, N. C., June 17.—Information from the mountain section of Ashe county is to the effect that Levi Baker was murdered and his father, Alfred Barker, fatally injured by Crick Davis, who also mortally wounded Mrs. Davis, his wife, when she endeavored to save Barker's life. The Barkers were travelers from Virginia, and had stopped at Davis' house for the night. In the middle of the night he attacked them with an axe. It is believed that Davis is insane.

EX-SERGEANT J. J. WILSON

Reclines on Flowery Beds of Ease

Chief of Police of Paris, Ontario, at Fair Salary and Has Money in Every Pocket.

All old timers in Dawson remember Sergeant J. J. Wilson who until the summer of 1900 was in charge of the town station, N.W.M.P. The sergeant was a smooth lad with an eye to business and when he retired from the service three years ago and journeyed to the outside he took with him upwards of $10,000, the result of a sale of Hunker property.

Sergeant Bell who only lately returned from the outside, brings news that the former sergeant is on easy street and reclines on flowery beds of ease. He is chief of police of the town of Paris, Ont., a place of about 5000 population. There is a fair salary and little work connected with the position and withal, to a man who, has some side wealth and does not care to wholly retire from active life, it is a snap.

While Wilson was hibernating in the Yukon a horse ranch owned by him in the Northwest territories was thriving and when the South African war came on he had upwards of 200 head of horses to sell for cavalry purposes. On the whole, the former sergeant is properly in it.

Colombia and Serbs

Vienna, June 27.—Fresh disturbances of remarkable extent are reported from Croatia. After a fight between armed peasants and gendarmes near the village of Kulevec on Wednesday, in which four persons were killed and several others seriously wounded, about 180 persons were arrested and taken to Warasdin where they were placed in prison. The arrival of the prisoners at Warasdin caused much excitement among the inhabitants, and a crowd quickly surrounded their place of confinement with the intention of releasing them. According to unconfirmed reports received here, a fight ensued between the military and the crowd, during the progress of which several persons were killed.

Despite the proclamation of martial law at Ludberg, in consequence of recent rioting there, further disturbances have occurred, and at Koprenitz the railway station was demolished on Friday and two railway officials were dangerously wounded. The rioters also held up the fast train for Budapest and compelled it to remain at Koprenitz all night. The authorities at Agram have sent two battalions of infantry to Warasdin to maintain order. The disturbances in Croatia began last Sunday when 200 armed peasants entered Ludberg, set fire to the savings bank and destroyed several private houses. Disturbances have occurred daily since the fight at the first outbreak, and the government was finally compelled to repress the revolt by military force and to proclaim martial law. An official report confirms the statement that nearly 200 peasants were arrested in three small villages.

JOHN ROOT IS COMING

Famous Middleweight From Chicago

Telegram Stating That He Would Start Today Received by D. A. A. A.

A telegram received yesterday by Secretary Burns of the D. A. A. A. imparted the pleasing information that John Root would probably leave Chicago today for Dawson to meet any man that the D. A. A. A. may put against him in a glove contest. Root is one of the best middleweights now in the ring. He was born in Austria in 1876, is 5 feet, 10 inches high and weighs 155 pounds. He entered the ring as a professional in 1897 and has since put out no less than 47 of his own class, among them the best men in the business. He fought 20 rounds to a draw with Australian Jim Ryan in 1899.

It is likely that goes will be arranged between Root and Burley and Root and Choyinski after the former's arrival in Dawson, as he is coming here for business.

Winning Their Way.

Winnipeg, June 10.—W. Speers, Dominion Colonization Agent, who has been with the Barr colonists since their arrival in Winnipeg, accompanied them in their trek from Saskatoon to their reserve, assisting them in getting settled, has returned from the district, where he reports everything going very satisfactorily.

"Of the original 1,500 or 1,600 people who went direct to Saskatoon," said Mr. Speers, "only about 500 have settled in the intended colony and an adjacent territory. They represent about 300 homesteads. Of the balance 135 families now form a new and flourishing British colony between Jack Fish and Red Berry lakes, north of the Saskatchewan. The 40 families are settled in the vicinity of Saskatoon and 35 at Painters. In the Saskatchewan elbow east of Battleford, ten families have taken up homesteads, ten families are at Bressaylor, ten in Eagle Hills and twenty south of and in the vicinity of Battleford. About 250 young men, who went with the colony and were without sufficient means to make a proper start on their homesteads, were sent out to work with farmers.

"The idea of an all-British isolated colony has been very largely dissipated. When they got out in the country and saw the actual conditions, and met the Canadian settlers and the Americans pouring in, they changed their minds and were quite willing, in fact anxious, to take advantage of the experience of the older settlers and to learn from the many object lessons going on around them.

"The trip to the colony of 200 miles was too long, and as the colonists passed over tracts of good land on their road, frequent complaints were heard. When they reached the colony and saw their reserve they complained that the land had been misrepresented, since only about one-fourth of it was first-class farming land, much of it being better suited to ranching. However, they all got settled on good homesteads, the system adopted by Mr. Barr of previously locating their grants being discarded.

"Quite a number who showed a disposition to return when an the trek east of Battleford were met at Battleford and sent to examine the country across the river, near the town, and next day the entire party moved across the river and proceeded to settle on their locations. There was nothing to compel the colonists to adhere to the original plan, and though the officers of the department did not specially advise them to inspect other districts, all anxious to do so, were assisted to look over the ground, though a great many had set their hearts on an all-British colony and would not consider anything else. Every assistance was given them on the way and the best advice, and the party, which is now entirely settled on the new homesteads, is quite satisfied with the land and conditions.

"Competent farm instructors have been placed in charge to exemplify the best methods of working land and building the houses of logs and sod. The settlers are showing a good adaptability for the work and are taking hold of tilling the arms with a pluck and energy that should bring them success.

"Mr. Barr disposed of all his interests in the movement to the people themselves, and the affairs of the colony are now in the hands of a committee of twelve. The settlement was shutal, and Mr. Barr is refunding to those claiming such a good deal of money received by him from the Mr. Barr is still at Battleford, straightening up his affairs, and a better feeling is springing up between Mr. Barr and the colonists as difficulties are being adjusted.

"In future," said Mr. Speers, "all movements of this kind must be through Mr. Preston and the officials here, so that the government will have entire control of the parties and be able to settle them without difficulty. The journey was, in the first place, too far. A great deal of hardship could have been avoided had they settled in some of the available districts passed over. I think the future of these colonists is assured, and that they are now pretty well over the worst of their hardships."

IDLEMAN CASE

Will Come on for Hearing at Rampart July

News comes from the lower river that W. J. Idleman, former collector of U. S. customs at the boundary, will be given a hearing on the charge of embezzlement at Rampart on the 20th instant. His counsel, C. M. Idleman, one of the most brilliant attorneys of Portland, Oregon, is now in Dawson on his way to Rampart to defend the accused man.

Lieutenant D. H. Jarvis, collector of customs for the district of Alaska, arrived on the Bailey from Eagle this morning and will remain here until the sailing of the steamer Sarah for St. Michael. Lieut. Jarvis is stationed at Sitka and will return to that place from Nome via the outside route.
