All of our residents boom the great advantages offered by Athens for all purposes.

Some new crossings placed on Main street.

A town bell-ringer to announce by the ringing of one of the bells in town of the approach of 7 a. m. 12 o'clock noon, and 6 p. m., which we feel sure would be very satisfactory.

The B. & W. made into an electric railway and the running of 2 trains each way a day.

A number of letters from our ex-residents, giving a description of what they are doing and of their surroundings, for publication in these columns.

A large attendance and good weather for the Frankville and Lyndhurst fairs.

UNCLE ISAAC'S HOP PICKING

Last week Uncle Isaac Robeson, Wilts street, invited a few of the old ladies of Athens to a hop-picking bee. Some ten responded and Isaac was so well pleased with the result that he composed and handed in to the Reporter the following doggerel lines in honor of the event:

Those invited came with good intent
And at the hop-picking they all went,
They seemed to pick with all their might
And what they done was done all right.

A few more came in the course of an hour,
And the hops came off in a perfect shower,
They all thought it was no folly
To pick Isaac's hops when they felt so jolly.

They seemed to please the old man in many ways
For he looked mighty pleased and gave them lots of praise
And said they were the best hop pickers that had ever been
And better looking ladies were not to be seen.

When supper was ready and all heard the call
It seemed to be good news to them, one and all,
They went to the house where the spread was all right
And they sat down to eat with a good appetite.

And with roast corn and cakes they all filled their crops,
And vowed it was nicer than picking his hops;
They piled up the corn cobs which made a big pile,
And said they had been treated in capital style.

On leaving Uncle Isaac he said, if I'm here
I hope you will visit me again the next year,
And I will endeavor to give you a treat,
And feed you with corn, cakes and apples that are sweet.
